FAMILY GAINS $1,772,720 BY RACE LOTTERY

Italian Coffee Vender in London Enriched by Grand National.

BUFFALO, N. Y., MAN RECEIVES $886,360

London, March 27 (A.P.).—The thunder of hoofs at Aintree echoed like golden music in the little Italian village of Isola, where live 40 relatives of Emilio Scala, winner of the first prize of $1,772,720 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes at the Grand National today.

Scala, who came to London 30 years ago and wheeled an ice cream barrow until he was able to buy the little coffee shop he owns, managed to purchase a $2.50 ticket in the sweepstakes and then offered to let his home town relatives buy pieces of it.

They all sent Emilio something, although they are poor, and a few cents was all they could afford.

Now, by their standards, they will all be rich, and Scala himself plans to return to Isola to end his days in his native village.

Sold Share for $50,000.

Scala sold half of his ticket to a syndicate for $50,000. He retained a small share himself and his wife has a quarter share.

The second prize, amounting to $886,360, was also a family affair, although there were not so many participants.

C. C. Woods, of Buffalo, N. Y., shared the second prize with his wife, his mother and his two brothers-in-law.

The third prize, worth over $500,000, went to George Dyamond, a South African public house keeper, who announced that he would travel around the world and probably gamble away at least part of his winnings.

The favorite in the race, Easter Hero, fell the second time around at Bechers Brook, but the man who held the ticket on the horse wins over $50,000 just the same. He is Robert Berkeley, 60-year-old colliery weighman, and before the race he sold a fourteenth-fifteenths share in his ticket for that amount.

Berkeley listened to the radio broadcast of the race. If he hadn't sold the bulk of the proprietorship of his ticket it might make him a millionaire. When his horse fell, thus justifying the sale, he said, "Well, that's that!"

Discharged From Job.

Buffalo, N. Y., March 27 (A.P.).—Clayton C. Woods didn't have to resign from his factory job when he won more than $800,000 in the Irish Sweepstakes today—he was fired as soon as he drew the ticket on Gergalach which placed second in the Grand National.

"Nobody in the plant was jealous; they're all fine fellows," Woods explained, "but you know how it is when news like that gets around. Every time I went into the factory, everybody stopped work to talk about my chances. Finally the boss said:

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The inherent strength of the people and their great recuperative power have been demonstrated again in these recent months in a most impressive way by the American Red Cross. When the drought left a considerable area of our country stricken, the Red Cross officials at once came forward with the explicit declaration that their organization was able to give suitable relief. They asked the public for $10,000,000, which was handsomely oversubscribed. Under their experienced care those in want were fed, clothed and given medical attention. This system of organized voluntary aid met the situation. Normal conditions are returning in the affected territory. Some of it is reported better off than usual. The loss is regrettable, but the national benefit from the exercise of the charitable spirit is large compensation.

If this stood alone it would be remarkable. But it came at a time when nearly every locality had its own problem. Yet the whole Nation responded. It showed out that the best resource of the people is themselves. Left alone, without the paralyzing interposition of the Government, the people have a better opportunity for progress, prosperity and happiness than can ever be secured by any official bureau.

Death Takes Barnard, Baseball League Head

E. S. BARNARD

The man who succeeded Byron Bancroft Johnson as president of the league four years ago, because of Johnson's conflicts with Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, died unexpectedly late today while chatting with his wife.

Mr. Barnard came to Rochester yesterday for observation at the Mayo Brothers Clinic. He had cut short his inspection trip in the spring training camps of the American League clubs because he thought he was suffering from stomach trouble.

After examination, President Barnard's illness was diagnosed as heart trouble, but he was believed to be in no immediate danger and was ordered to bed pending treatment for his illness.

Mrs. Barnard made a trip to Rochester with him and was at his bedside when he suddenly passed away. He was 56 years old.

Mr. Barnard became president of the American League November 1, 1927, succeeding Johnson, the one-time "czar" of baseball and founder of the league. Strangely enough, Johnson is seriously ill in a hospital at St. Louis and his death has been expected daily.

COOPER TO PRESIDE AT ENVOY SELECTION

William J. Cooper, United States Commissioner of Education, has accepted the invitation of the United States Flag Association to act as chairman of the jury of selection, which will make the final choice of one high school boy and one high school girl for the good will European trip, in the contest now being conducted in thepublic and private high schools of the city by the United States Flag Association, with the cooperation of The Washington Post.

One boy and one girl from each high school, senior or junior, will be picked through the essay contest now being conducted in the schools. From these, by means of a preliminary test conducted April 11, a group of six boys and six girls will be selected to take the final test before the jury of selection, and it is this organization that Commissioner Cooper has agreed to head.

In accepting this post, Mr. Cooper paid high tribute to the work of the Flag Association in arranging for this trip. He wrote:

"I gladly accept the invitation of the executive board of the United States Flag Association to serve on the jury of selection charged with the responsibility of selecting the boy and the girl envoy of friendship who will represent the school children on the patriotic pilgrimage in this country and the good will trip to France and England.

"Travel in itself has almost limitless possibilities for education. Travel under such conditions as this good will pilgrimage will provide is real patriotic education. If the same kind of rational patriotism were inculcated into the childhood of all countries, it would, in my judgment, do much to create a universal friendship founded on mutual understanding, tolerance and respect for the other fellow, that would do much to prevent future wars."

Today may be the usual Saturday holiday for most of the schoolboys and girls of Washington, but not for the students of the senior and junior public and private high schools. With

BANK DEPOSITS SET NEW CAPITAL MARK

Washington Executives Say All-Time Record Has Been Broken.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

What veteran bankers believe a local all-time high record in deposits as revealed by a bank call was made yesterday when a call issued by Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole for statements of condition as at close of business March 25, showed total deposits of $281,965,993.95 in the 39 banks of Washington that day.

Bank records dating back to the World War years when Washington assumed metropolitan proportions show the closest approach to this figure in October, 1928, when a total of $274,200,000 was reported. The increase of the March 25 total over total deposits of December 31, 1930, date set by the preceding call, was $14,247,689.96, those of the December call date being $267,718,308.99. In recent years deposit totals have ranged between $240,000,000 and $270,000,000.

Gains of three banks exceeded the million-dollar mark when compared with deposits reported at the previous call. Riggs National Bank advanced nearly $5,500,000; American Security & Trust, nearly $3,000,000, and Washington Loan & Trust Co., nearly $2,000,000, in this comparison.

All but one of the 12 national banks exhibited increases for the comparative periods, the total of this division being $160,886,520.76, or $8,787,772.66 more than deposits of December 31. Each of the five trust companies reported advances from that date, their total being $79,819,346.03, or $5,687,317.06 above that of the prior call date.

The savings bank division did not share in their good fortune. Its total of $41,466,130.16 marked a recession of $277,399.76 from that of December 31, and 9 of the 22 savings institutions reported decreases from their preceding totals. Most of the declines were moderate, however.

Reasons assigned for the large general increase are the present apparent disinclination of many persons toward investment, the large number out of the stock market since the last large break, and the continued growth of the thrift idea.

San Francisco, March 27 (A.P.).—Crazed by jealousy over his wife's actions, a coroner's jury decided today, Lieut. Comdr. Emory Winship, U. S. N., retired, followed the time-worn code of honor of fighting men and killed himself rather than face disgrace.

His story of how he found his attractive young wife in the bedroom of her chauffeur on Friday, March 13, after a party in which drinks were freely served, was told by three witnesses today.

For a week he brooded silently over impending disgrace, during which he was driven by "mad impulses to take two or more lives." Then he shot himself last Saturday as "the only way out."

Both the widow and her chauffeur, Ray McGunigle, denied improper relations existed between them, explaining Mrs. Dorothy Winship had gone to call her chauffeur at 4 o'clock in the morning and they were standing in the doorway to his room when the former naval officer saw them.

Mrs. Winship said she called the chauffeur then because she could "no longer stand his (Winship's) continual drinking" and had decided to leave. She left a few hours later and was to have returned for the last of her things about the time Winship ended his life.

Questioned whether the demands of Miss Helen Thompson, former motion picture actress, and former intimate of Winship, might have contributed to the suicide, Joseph W. Preston, jr., testified the former naval officer was not particularly worried over her attitude.

"He considered her demands blackmail," Lieut. Comdr. Winship's friend

U. S. WORKERS WILL PROTEST 'ZONE' PARKING

VAN DUZER APPOINTED DIRECTOR OF TRAFFIC

Pennsylvanian to Take Over Post on July 1; Harland May Be Assistant.

Representatives of Government employes in at least three departments will be heard by the District Commissioners Tuesday in protest against the proposed zone system of parking. Workers in the Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, and the Smithsonian Institution have notified Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Police Commissioner, that they have objections to present.

While postponing action on the proposals of Traffic Director William H. Harland, the Commissioners yesterday appointed William A. Van Duzer director of vehicles and traffic, the new post created by the traffic act to supplant the present director of traffic.

The director, who takes office on July 1, will head the department of vehicles and traffic, which, under the direction of the Commissioners, shall have charge "of the issuance and revocation of operators' permits, the registration and titling of motor vehicles, the making of traffic studies and plans, the installation and maintenance of traffic signs, signals and markers, and of such other matters as may be determined by the Commissioners."

Less Power But More Pay.

Although the new director will not have the power of the present traffic director, as he will not be able to initiate traffic regulations except at the direction of the city heads, he will have numerous duties and will be paid more than the traffic director now receives.

Traffic Director Harland and Assistant Traffic Director Maurice O. Eldridge will probably be retained as first and second assistants to Mr. Van Duzer. All appointments are to be for a probationary period of one year.

The new director is assistant chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways and is president of the American Road Builders Association. Last fall he was a delegate appointed by the Governor of Pennsylvania to the National Safety Council, which met in Washington.

Van Duzer Highly Recommended.

Mr. Van Duzer, who lives in Harrisburg, Pa., was highly recommended for the District position. Among those who wrote to the Commissioners in his behalf was Dr. Miller McClintock, Harvard University traffic expert, who made the survey that led to the establishment of the bureau which Mr. Van Duzer will head.

Government employes who will protest against the new parking proposals are said to be particularly irked because the rules would prevent them from leaving their cars on the streets during the day more than two hours at a time. While many use lots that have been set aside for parking, there is not sufficient space, it is said, to keep all cars off the streets.

Barber & Ross, hardware merchants at Eleventh and G streets, which is in Zone 1, also filed a protest with the Commissioners and will be heard. A letter stated that the firm opens at 7:30 a. m. and that its business would be interfered with if parking were prohibited in front of the store until 9:30 a. m.

PERU NOT ABLE TO PAY DEBTS, MINISTER SAYS

REPUBLIC OWES U. S. LENDERS $80,000,000

Revolutionary Strife Has Wreaked Havoc With State Structure.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Its treasury bare and with revenues steadily declining, the Republic of Peru today announced its inability to meet in full its obligations to foreign bondholders.

In a letter to the American fiscal agents of the Peruvian government, Finance Minister M. A. Vinelli announced that the interest and sinking fund payments, amounting to approximately $1,215,000, due April 1 on the Peruvian national loan, second series, will not be made at this time.

Intends to Meet Debts.

The Republic of Peru intends loyally to comply with its obligations to the limit of its capacity, the minister said, and is making every effort to set its finances in order. Its American debt, represented by dollar bonds floated since 1926 amounts to approximately $80,000,000, having been reduced from the original $87,000,000 through sinking fund payments. In addition, the country's external debt includes several loans floated in Europe.

Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer, of the United States, who has been the diagnostician for the financial ills of several countries, is directing the work of a group now studying the economic and financial condition of the Peruvian republic and expects to report during April.

Revolutions Disrupt Country.

Revolutionary strife and the economic distress laid a heavy hand on Peru, as well as other Latin-American countries, and it is the second South American country to take steps toward a partial moratorium of its foreign debt during the last few months.

Bolivia sent a delegation to this country to confer with New York bankers in an effort to work out a satisfactory plan for adjustment of the service on its American dollar bonds. It went home committed to the general scheme of Bolivia fully meeting its obligations and convinced that its present capacity to pay must be taken into consideration. Final disposition, however, was left to the new government and an announcement of its plans is expected soon.

Auto-Stealing Charge To Return Youth Here

Robert McGowan, 16 years old, of Seventh street, near D street northeast, will be brought back from Philadelphia today by Detective Sergt. Joseph Sincavitz, on a charge of having stolen an automobile.

The youth was arrested by Philadelphia police and is said to have admitted the theft of an automobile owned by L. H. Ristig, of 1352 H street northeast. The car was stolen from Twelfth street and Maryland avenue northeast.

Money Hid Under Rug Appears After Row

Baltimore, Md., March 27 (A.).—Vincent Jester did not feel like jesting when he failed to find the $90 he had hidden under a rug. He accused his erstwhile friend, George Hutson, of stealing it, attacked him and then went for a policeman.

The charges and countercharges were so involved the officer locked up both men.

As testimony was being heard today by a magistrate, a second policeman walked in with the $90. He said he found it under the rug.

Lands Ship With Slight Damage in Attempt at Height Mark.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., March 27 (A.P.).—Miss Elinor Smith, Long Island's flapper flier, dropped 23,000 feet while unconscious in an airplane today, but landed the plane with only slight damage and no injury to herself.

She was attempting to regain the women's altitude record from Miss Ruth Nichols and had attained 25,000 feet, about 5,000 feet short of her goal. She was over New York City when the motor stalled. By expert maneuvering she brought it down in a field.

FRED BURKE FIGHTS RETURN TO CHICAGO

Alleged Killer Declines to Talk of Slayings; Wife Also Is Grilled.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 27 (A.P.).—Seven Chicago officers today grilled Fred Burke, regarded as the country's most dangerous criminal, only to learn he considered Chicago a "nice town" and had visited it frequently, but refused to do so again except through extradition.

The man charged with lining up seven Chicago gangsters St. Valentine's Day, 1929, and mowing them down with a stream of machine gun fire, assumed an attitude of cool apathy. He admitted his identity, but refused to answer questions about a dozen slayings.

Mrs. Burke insisted under police questioning she knew nothing of the alleged criminal activities of her husband.

The blue-eyed young woman, the former Bonnie Porter, daughter of the Milan, Mo., farmer at whose home Burke was arrested yesterday morning, said she had believed her husband a real estate broker and oil man.

When officers asked Burke about his Chicago activities he replied:

"Oh, yes, I've been there frequently.

DENISON, BROOKHART SERVED DRY DINNER

Panama Hosts Finally Yield and Abandon Plans for Wet Celebration.

Panama City, March 27 (A.P.).—Bowing to protests by Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, and former Representative E. E. Denison, of Illinois, the Metal Trades Council decided at the last minute to make its dinner tonight in honor of Mr. Denison, "dry."

The purpose of the event was to recognize Mr. Denison for his efforts to obtain a canal employes retirement bill, and Senator Brookhart had been invited to attend.

"I do not go to banquets when I know they will be wet," Senator Brookhart said, "and I do not stay when I find they are wet."

Mr. Denison also advised the committee he could not attend if liquor was served. The views of both were widely proclaimed in local newspapers.

The Metal Trades Council had made extensive plans for a "wet" dinner at the Miramar Club and the event had been anticipated by canal employes for days. Charles Wahl, chairman of the committee, was greatly perplexed at first.

"There are many people," he said, "who do not understand why the banquet must be dry."

For some time it had been thought there wouldn't be a dinner at all.

Senator Brookhart's declaration threw a monkey wrench into the plans for the banquet. Preparations

Byrd Announces Plan For Early Polar Trip

Out of a whirlwind sojourn in which he was thrice honored in auspicious occasions here yesterday, Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd turned momentarily from a round of activities memorializing his history-making Antarctic expedition to announce an early trip back into the vast uncharted polar region.

The only man to fly across both poles and negotiate a transatlantic crossing divulged his intention, the plans of which still remain very indefinite, shortly before appearing at the Washington Auditorium to deliver to a capacity audience his movie-illustrated lecture on the Antarctic trip.

Earlier in the day he had flown here in a Navy observation plane from Hampton Roads Naval Air Sta-

REED DEMANDS FARM BOARD'S ABOLISHMENT

NEW ISSUES ARISING FOR 1932 CAMPAIGN

(United Press.)

A demand yesterday by Senator David A. Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, stanch administration supporter, for cessation of Federal "handouts" to veterans and farmers and the abolition of the Federal Farm Board, added to the accumulation of knotty problems awaiting President Hoover's attention on his return from the Caribbean.

Since the President left Washington the Farm Board has precipitated an agricultural-political crisis by announcing it will not undertake stabilization operations on 1931 wheat; the prospective Treasury deficit has grown to the point where a decision must be made as to increased taxes or extensive borrowing, and the perennially annoying prohibition issue has been complicated by the Illinois Legislature's vote to repeal that State's enforcement act.

On the farm issue Mr. Hoover will have to contend with a cross-fire from members of his own party. On the one hand, there are the Western progressives demanding the export debenture plan, with some talk of reviving the vetoed equalization fee. On the other hand, there is Mr. Reed's demand, voiced yesterday, for abolition of the Farm Board on the ground that it has proved itself a failure and its continuation imposes an unwarranted drain on the Treasury.

Termed as "Handouts."

Mr. Reed speaks for the conservative wing of Eastern Republicans, who feel the present distressed condition of the Treasury has been brought about by too much yielding to the demands of various groups for what Mr. Reed terms "handouts." The conservative position which contrasts strongly with the demands of Progressives at their recent conference and in subsequent statements.

Mr. Reed greeted the Farm Board's decision as proof that the Government can not "artificially manufacture prosperity for agriculture or any other industry" and he feels the $500,000,000 voted to the Farm Board was "worthwhile if we have at last learned our lesson."

"I can not see that the Farm Board has helped the farmer and I see no reason for its further existence," he said.

The Treasury deficit has been brought about, in Mr. Reed's opinion because "we have been too cowardly to stand up against the demands of either the farm bloc or the soldier bloc and now we are going to pay for our cowardice."

Fights Taxation Increase.

He took issue with Progressive plans for increased taxes, saying:

"I see no need of increasing rates of taxation, either income taxes or estate taxes if the coming Congress will oppose similar demands. Our deficit this year will be about $750,000,000. Practically all of this comes from the money lost through the Farm Board and the money loaned to veterans not in distress. The present tax rates will yield enough for all ordinary expenses of government. If Congress will develop the courage to say no, it will not need to increase taxes."

Whichever attitude President Hoover takes with respect to the Farm Board and the deficit, one bloc in his own party is already lined up against him, thus leaving the Democrats holding the balance of power in the next Congress with many trouble-making possibilities involved for the administration on the eve of a presidential campaign.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 3, 4 and 5 Today

yesterday that large sums of money had been raised "to inaugurate publicity campaigns to discredit the agricultural marketing act and the work of the Farm Board."

He said many smoke screens have been set up and hearings dragged across the trail to divert attention to the public from the major thing the Farm Board is trying to do, "namely, to assist the farmers in setting up a cooperative system of marketing for farm products, grower-owned-and-controlled."

"Attention has been focused upon the efforts of the Farm Board to stabilize the prices of wheat and cotton," he said. "Stabilization operations are considered by the board to be purely of an emergency character."

Operations Are Defended.

Mr. Teague said the greatest opposition to the board's program developed from dealers and speculators trading at the point of production.

Defending the market operations of the board, in 1929 and 1930, the vice chairman said:

"I am of the opinion that the benefits to the country resulting from efforts to sustain prices of wheat and cotton during these trying conditions will far outweigh any cost, even though considerable money is lost in the operation."

With emergency stabilization at an end and drought conditions minimized, the board will push its drive for farmer organization, he said.

TEUTON CALLS U. S., REDS 'TRADE GIANTS'

(Associated Press.)

Yesterday's developments in the proposed Austro-German customs union were:

In Berlin Karl Renner, former Austrian chancellor, told the Austro-German Peoples League that the United States and Russia were the chief factors in forcing an economic union.

At Vienna, Austrian economic experts were quoted in the press as saying that products of Austrian manufacturers will require customs protection against Germany for many years. They expressed fear of the living cost for wage-earners there exceeding what they could pay.

The Polish government at Warsaw, expressing surprise that it had not been informed officially about the Austro-German plan, sought information about the customs treaty from the Austrian Minister there.

Impression of Dictation.

In an interview at Prague, the premier of Czechoslovakia said the treaty was insufficiently deliberated and gave the impression of political dictation to other countries.

Berlin, March 27 (A.P.).—Discussing the proposed Austro-German customs union, Karl Renner, former Austrian chancellor, told a meeting of the Austro-German People's League that the United States and Russia were the chief factors forcing action toward economic union.

He declared the great economic unity of the United States has long been challenging the very existence of disunited tariff-ridden Europe. He added that Soviet Russia has now arisen as a new great rationalized and unified trade force.

"Two Economic Giants."

"Caught between these two economic giants," he continue, "the individual nations of Europe soon will be helpless dwarfs unless Europe acts to make economic Pan-Europe a reality. Germany and Austria have taken the first step. It only remains for other nations to join them."

Herr Renner said that because Germany and Austria are suffering most under the world economic crisis, they feel most the pressure of world developments forcing European economic units to unite.

The former chancellor sai the customs union and "Anschluss" are two entirely different ideas. The latter, he explained, is a goal toward which German people in Germany and Austria are being driven by their inmost feeling, by the fact that they are one people forced to live under two governments. On the other hand he asserted that the customs union is an idea forced on the two countries from without.

U. S. Attention Drawn.

(Associated Press.)

The possibility of League of Nations action on the proposed Austro-German customs accord received the attention yesterday of American officials.

State Department files showed the league already has before it recommendations involving the general subject of such unions.

It also has been indicated that Great Britain, France and Italy might desire to have the proposed accord brought before the league meeting in May.

In a report of the assembly, the league's economic committee has said it was "sufficient to declare that customs unions constitute exceptions, recognized by tradition, to the principle of most favored nation treatment."

The United States did not participate officially in the deliberations of this committee.

The question of how these recommendations would affect consideration by the league of the proposed union remained unsolved here last night.

Meanwhile a more optimistic view of the Franco-Italian naval negotiations appeared to be held by officials with the receipt of advices from Europe that the drafting of an accord was progressing satisfactorily.

ELINOR SMITH FALLS FOUR MILES IN PLANE

were damaged. A severe headache caused by her oxygen tank's becoming disconnected in the wild descent was Miss Smith's only ill effect.

"I got to 25,000 feet in just about 30 minutes," she said. "I was over New York City when I noticed the motor was turning up about 21,000 revolutions per minute.

"We were going along like a house on fire, when zowie—it was all over. I thought first of the gas, but found I still had some. I had my safety belt off and as I leaned back I must have slipped a screw in the oxygen tank. The next thing I knew my head felt like it was all swelled up.

"I looked at the altimeter and found I had dropped 23,000 feet. I looked out and saw the reservoir near Rockville Center beneath me. I tried to make Mitchel Field, but saw I couldn't. I was getting closer and closer to the ground when I saw a field beneath me.

"I didn't have time to put my belt on, but I threw off my helmet and goggles so I wouldn't get cut from them. Then she went over and there I was. I had on an extra heavy padded flying suit."

She said as soon as the plane is repaired she will make another attempt at the record, probably next week.

PARK-TO-PARK LINK TO BE MEETING PLEA

The problem of an Eastern national park-to-park highway to connect the Mammoth Cave National Park in Kentucky, the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee and North Carolina and the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia will be considered at a conference called by Representative M. H. Thatcher, of Kentucky, which will be held at the House Office Building April 4.

Representative Thatcher has asked representatives of State highway commissions, trade bodies, State national park commissions and automotive clubs of interested States to attend. Suggestions for the most appropriate routes for the proposed highway will be urged.

A tentative route has already been suggested for the highway and would cover some 1,800 miles and describe an irregular figure eight. This highway would lead from the Mammoth Cave National Park through southern and eastern Kentucky by way of Cumberland Falls, Cumberland Gap and Knoxville into the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. From this park it would carry the tourist to Asheville and northwestern North Carolina, Roanoke and Natural Bridge, Va., to the Shenandoah Park.

It would then extend by a loop through Washington, Richmond, Virginia, Appomattox and other historic points to Lexington, Va.; thence following the Midland Trail through West Virginia by Charleston and Huntington to Lexington and Louisville, Ky.; thence southward by way of Bardstown and Lincoln Farm in Kentucky to the point of origin, the Mammoth Cave National Park.

Representative Thatcher said that it was the view of backers of the proposal that a large number of those who wish to motor to the three national parks would also desire to visit the National Capital, which will soon have a seminational park in the scenic gorges and valley of the Potomac River, including the Great Falls of the Potomac. The 1932 George Washington Bicentennial Celebration was given as an added incentive for early consideration of the proposed highway.

Willard Deplores Jobless Situation

Philadelphia, March 27 (A.P.).—A system under which it is possible for 6,000,000 of willing and able-bodied men to be out of work for months at a time and with no other source of income than their toil, can be said to have failed in at least one very important detail, Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, said today.

"I can think of nothing more deplorable than the condition of a man, able and anxious to work, but unable to secure work with no resources but his labor and perhaps, with others even more helpless, dependent upon him.

"Unless he is willing to starve and see those who justly look to him for support also starve his only alternative is to seek charity and, failing in that, to steal. While I do not like to say so, I would be less than candid if I did not say that in such circumstances I would steal before I would starve."

Mr. Willard spoke at the observance of the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce as a part of the University of Pennsylvania.

FRED BURKE GRILLED BY CHICAGO OFFICERS

I bought an automobile there last week. It's a nice town."

Turning to a group of photographers the gunman said:

"You very likely are a nice bunch of fellows, but I don't see why I should pose for you. You never did anything for me."

Two States, Michigan and Illinois, and the United States Government had filed claims this afternoon for custody of Burke.

While Chicago officers waited outside his cell with murder warrants, Michigan, through its governor, Wilbert M. Brucker, was pressing its claim.

By telephone Gov. Bruckner urged Gov. Caulfield, of Missouri, to honor no requisitions for Burke's extradition until that of Michigan is received and considered.

The United States district attorney's office at Toledo, Ohio, through William L. Vandeventer, district attorney at Kansas City, asked that the gangster be held for the Government on four counts of robbing a railway express truck at Toledo, Ohio.

New York police expressed a desire to question Burke as to his whereabouts when Frankie Yale, Brooklyn gang leader, was shot to death July 1, 1928.

Nebraska Withdraws Claim.

One State dropped from the race when Sheriff Claude Hensel, of Lincoln, Nebr., said witnesses to the million dollar holdup last September of the Lincoln National Bank had been unable to identify Burke as a participant.

In confirming previous identifications of the prisoner as Burke, Detective Ed Tyrrell, of Chicago, made the discovery today that the gunman's nose has changed shape recently.

Tyrrell accused Burke of having become the patient of a beauty doctor. The prisoner smiled his reply.

The detective said either Burke had undergone an operation on his nose to "lift" it or had been struck on it.

Tyrrell produced pictures to show that the gunman once had a long, upturned nose, whereas it now is on the Roman type.

Chicago Gathers Evidence.

Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—Warned that the city having "the best claim" will win the right to try Desperado Fred Burke, Chief of Detectives Norton today set his deputies off on a search for new evidence linking Burke with the St. Valentine's Day massacre.

"I hope to assemble enough evidence," he said, "to present a stronger claim for Burke than any of the other cities."

In line with this, he called on Capt. John Egan, who as a former deputy chief of detectives, gathered the first evidence against Burke, to start a new inquiry. The most conclusive evidence so far found consists of ballistics tests which showed that machine guns discovered in Burke's Michigan hideaway had been used in the massacre. A coroner's jury, acting on this showing, named Burke as one of the killers.

DIXIE REVOLT RUMOR IN 2 PARTIES HEARD

(Associated Press.)

Signs of revolt in the Southern ranks of both major parties were received yesterday with apparent equanimity at Republican and Democratic headquarters.

While Southern Democratic leaders were organizing to combat policies advanced by Chairman Raskob, of the national committee, Horace Mann, director of the Southern campaign for the Republican national committee in 1928, claimed control of 232 Dixie delegates to the Republican convention next year.

Although his move was interpreted as "anti-Hoover," Republican headquarters showed little concern over his claims, contending its Southern organization was in better shape than ever before.

Formal Notice Lacking.

Democratic headquarters took no formal notice of the disturbance within its ranks, but it was said unofficially the Southern movement had been anticipated.

Mr. Mann's claims were discounted by C. Bascom Slemp, former Secretary to President Coolidge. Mr. Slemp, a power in Southern politics, said Mann has "no organization and no following."

"He will not control votes at the convention," Mr. Slemp added. Mr. Mann contended the South would send a solid delegation to the Republican convention to demand a "new order of politics."

He would neither affirm nor deny reports his organization was designed to block the renomination of Mr. Hoover and would be pledged to former President Coolidge.

Likely to Oppose Hoover.

His friends, however, claimed these delegates, as well as others from some Northern States, would go to the convention pledged to oppose the President. Mr. Mann said headquarters would be established here in December to perfect a national Republican organization separate from the national committee set-up.

He added the Southern delegates to the next Republican convention would represent the people in the Republican party of the South, rather than Federal officeholders.

"The Republicans of the South," he said, "are determined to have a solid delegation of men and women at the 1932 convention resolute in their purpose and firm in their convictions that a new order of politics shall henceforth prevail in Dixie and that our people are entitled to both place and consideration at our national conventions, as well as the right to participate in the counsels of our Nation."

Southern Democratic leaders continued to work quietly for an organization to prevent the party from adopting the antiprohibition and economic recomendations of Mr. Raskob, and to make business conditions the paramount issue in 1932.

Temple Sexton Dies in Plunge.

LOTTERY ENRICHES AUTO SHOP WORKER

'Will you get out of here and stay out, so we can start work.'"

Woods was an inspector of car bodies in the Chevrolet Motors plant here before he paid $2.50 for the ticket that made him almost a millionaire.

He was offered $50,000 for the ticket early this week. He and the other four members of his family who held shares in the ticket talked it over and decided to take a chance.

"But I want to tell you," he said today, "that if the offer had been renewed as late as Wednesday night I think I would have taken it."

Premonition of Victory.

"Maybe I'm a bit superstitious, but ever since I bought that ticket I've had a premonition that something was going to happen. We talked it over and decided that the most we could actually lose was the 50 cents each we paid for the ticket. So we hung on.

"I didn't plan very much on the race. If the horse had dropped dead I wouldn't have been very disappointed because I had convinced myself all I had to lose was 50 cents."

The strain of the past few days, since the public learned that Woods held the ticket on Gregalach, has been terrific, Woods said. "My wife is almost on the point of collapse. It's been just a mad rush."

Watch News of Race.

The five members of the family who share in the ticket are Woods and his wife, a brother, Kenneth, and two brothers-in-law, Clarence and Elmer Batt. Kenneth Woods and Elmer Batt, with their wives, watched the news of the race come in over the Associated Press automatic telegraph printers. When the magic words "Gregalach Second" appeared, there was a shrill cry from both women and the next instant both were embracing their husbands, while bystanders pounded the men on their shoulders and shouted congratulations.

There will be more family conclaves as to the disposal of the money. About all that has been decided is that the lucky five will travel—somewhere.

"We're going somewhere; that's sure," Woods explained, "but we haven't decided where. First of all, we're going to try and get a few days of quiet rest to get our nerves back in shape."

(United Press.)

Clayton C. Woods and members of his family who won $886,360 on the Grand National Sweepstakes on an investment of $2.40, will have to pay approximately $187,085 as income tax to the United States Government, Treasury Department statisticians estimated yesterday.

Man Suffers Hurts In Excavation Collapse

Paul Wilson, 20 years old, of 1213½ Blagden court northwest, was injured yesterday in a collapse of an excavation on Juniper street near Thirteenth street northwest.

He is employed by L. E. Breuninger. He was taken from the excavation by Fire Rescue Squad No. 2 and brought to Freedmen's Hospital for treatment of injuries to his legs. His condition is not serious.

More Plane-Carrying Ships Urged as Sham War Is Lost

Need for Additional Smaller Vessels Pointed Out by Ingalls After Naval Maneuvers on Caribbean; Another Test to Be Made Today.

(Associated Press.)

Need for additional smaller plane-carrying ships was seen yesterday by Assistant Secretary Ingalls as a result of naval maneuvers Thursday in the Caribbean.

The head of the Navy's aeronautics section said the 33,000-ton aircraft carrier Lexington, which cost $45,000,000 to build and equip, would be a wreck if the sham attack by her sister ship, the Saratoga, had been real.

He made this statement in announcing results of the first of three aviation problems being worked out in the Caribbean by the scouting fleet and the greater part of the Navy's flying forces, in which 44 surface ships and 227 airplanes are participating.

The two great carriers formed the centers of opposing squadrons, each supported by six light cruisers.

Getting the jump on her sister, the Saratoga had her scouting planes in the air 23 minutes after cruisers made the first contact and attacked so swiftly with her 70 planes that the Lexington was caught in a destructive rain of air bombs and gunfire and torpedoes from the cruisers before her own planes could take the air.

An entire squadron of fighting machines and her heavy bombers were still on her decks when the umpires declared her "destroyed."

The operation saw more than 150 planes in the air under conditions resembling actual combat between two carrier groups.

The maneuvers continued yesterday with the second problem, with the revivified Lexington leading six cruisers against a body of surface craft, including the battleship Arkansas, the aircraft carrier Langley and 24 destroyers. A third problem today will complete the maneuvers.

Mr. Ingalls said the Lexington and Saratoga "each affords us one of the greatest striking forces known in modern warfare, but when opposed to a like enemy they are very vulnerable."

"These ships can not be sacrificed in a purely scouting mission," he added. "Their striking power must be preserved for a more important purpose. For scouting we need more and smaller ships bearing planes.

"We can not have all our eggs in one basket. We must be able to spread our aerial Navy about so that an enemy by one lucky chance can not effect a disastrous blow.

"A small carrier, a reasonably few planes or a flying deck cruiser could perform just as valuable scouting duty and permit us to hold in reserve the great carriers with their many fighting and bombing planes, ready to be launched when the enemy has been located."

DESTROYER MIMICS BATTLE FOR HOOVER

U. S. S. Arizona Theoretically Is Torpedoed by Dupont.

U. S. S. Arizona, at Sea, March 27 (A.P.).—President Hoover witnessed a naval "battle" tonight when the U. S. S. Arizona, bringing him home from his southern tour, was theoretically torpedoes by the destroyed Dupont.

With lights out, the Dupont had been picked out of the darkness by the Arizona's searchlights some 6,000 yards away. Both ships fired signal guns by way of simulating the battle.

The Arizona put over the "death blow," thereby ending what Capt. Charles S. Freeman, commander of the ship, described as the first problem. The destroyer then quickly turned and flanked the battleship with a red flare, showing the course of the supposed torpedo.

The sea became stormy late this afternoon, waves breaking over the forecastle. The speed of the battleship was cut down to minimize the discomfort of the presidential party, but arrival in Norfolk, Va., Sunday is not expected to be delayed.

LEGISLATORS DIVIDE ON HIGHER TAX NEED

(Associated Press.)

Opinion continued divided on Capitol Hill yesterday on the need for a tax increase to meet the prospective $700,000,000 Treasury deficit.

Senators Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, and Walsh (Democrat), Montana, shared the belief that a tax raise could be avoided. Representative Frear of Wisconsin, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, contended, however, that the deficit is a new liability that must be met.

"Every other governmental unit raises its obligations by taxation," said Mr. Frear, who is identified with the House Progressive group. "We must do likewise. The Government should not be operated on borrowed money."

Market Money Ample, Says Reed.

Senator Reed agreed that there is ample money on the market for the Treasury to secure financing through short term certificates. He blamed the deficit on the lack of courage of Congress "to refuse handouts to the soldiers and farmers."

"I see no need of increasing rates of taxation, either income taxes or estate taxes, if the coming Congress will oppose similar demands," he said, estimating the prospective deficit at $750,000,000.

Meanwhile, a statement was awaited from Representative LaGuardia, New York Republican, on the tax question. Mr. LaGuardia and Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, have pledged cooperation between Senate and House progressive on a legislative program and have expressed complete agreement on the tax situation.

Norris Indorses Increase.

Senator Norris has already indorsed an increase and Mr. LaGuardia will make public his position today.

Chairman Hawley, of the House ways and means committee, said he is still studying the situation and will make no statement until final Treasury figures are available. He said he will then determine whether conditions can best be met by increasing taxes or reducing payments on the public debt.

Mr. Frear has advanced a proposal to increase the personal income tax rate 1 per cent on each surtax bracket until the maximum rate reaches 25 per cent on all over $500,000 annual income, as provided by existing law. He estimated the Treasury income could be increased by $500,000,000 in that way.

Machado's Suspension Of Newspaper Illegal

Havana, March 27 (A.P.).—Dr. German Walter Del Rio, director of the newspaper El Mundo, tonight was notified that the Cuban Supreme Court had ruled unanimously that President Machado's action of January 9 suspending publication of the newspaper was unconstitutional.

The decision sets the approval of the country's highest legal authority on the article of the Cuban constitution guaranteeing absolute freedom of the press.

DEATH TOLL MOUNTS IN BLIZZARD'S AREA

Kansas City, March 27 (A.P.).—The Storm King's icy hand lay heavily upon most of the Central and Western States today, bringing death, suffering and damage to a wide area.

North Dakota reported the first fatality. S. E. S. Huse, of Mankato, Minn., met death when his car was wrecked in a blinding snowstorm near Eckelson, N. Dak.

Frantic searches in Nebraska had failed to find Boyd Edwards, 7, who disappeared in the storm near Max, trying to get home from school and Bub Fountain, 13, who braved the blizzard near Red Cloud to put his dog to bed in a barn.

And in the tier of States including the Dakotas, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas ominous reports of missing persons multiplied. Some, like John Ukens, a baker, sought for a day and a half near Gordon, Nebr., later were proved to have found shelter.

Train Schedules Wrecked.

Frozen hands and feet were widely reported. Noah Skelly, 25, his car stalled in snowdrifts, fell unconscious on the front porch of a farm home near Seldon, Kans., his feet, hands and face frozen.

Balmy, spring-like weather was definitely over and gone, budding spring flowers were smothered in ice, and the voice of the snowplow was heard in the land. Some were on giant locomotives, attempting to clear the way for trains, many of them transcontinental, all of them either stalled, held at division points, or running hours behind schedule. Others were on the tractors and highway maintenance trucks of highway departments, although in western Nebraska no effort was being made to clear highways until the heavy snowfall stopped drifting.

Storm Called Worst in Years.

Damage to transportation and communication facilities was heavy in the area which felt the greatest fury of a storm weather observers called the worst in years.

Destruction to fruit seemed inevitable in parts of Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Missouri and Arkansas, although only time would tell. Truck gardeners and florists were warned to prepare for freezes. Less damage to fruit was expected in the more northerly States where budding was less advanced.

Live stock appeared to be hard hit, but stockmen said the good condition of cattle on the ranges was a hopeful factor.

The storm spread out in fingers from the Wyoming, Colorado, Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota country. One pointed southeasterly across the Oklahoma - Texas panhandle and reached to the gulf. Another lay across Missouri and was advancing into Kentucky and Tennessee. A third had reached northeasterly carrying snow as far as Chicago. A fourth was reaching across Minnesota into northern Michigan and Ontario.

IMPENDING DISGRACE BLAMED IN SUICIDE

and business associate said, "but said Miss Thompson would do more for him when he was down and out than Mrs. Winship."

The jury found Winship "came to his death through gunshot wounds, self-inflicted because of mental despondency over domestic difficulties and jealousies occasioned on account of the actions of his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Winship."

Three witnesses testified the former naval officer had told them he felt like killing his wife and her handsome chauffeur. These were Preston, William Myrick, Negro valet, and Mrs Margaret Thompson, housekeeper.

"The night before he killed himself," the witness said, "Mr. Winship called me in and said 'William, there are two people I want to kill.'

"'Who's that?' I asked.

"And he said Ray McGunigle and Mrs. Winship. 'Last Friday about 4 o'clock I went into Ray McGunigle's room, and there was Ray lying on the bed and Mrs. Winship sitting on the bed in her night gown,' he said. Mr. Winship said he'd been begging her not to eat breakfast with Ray. 'That's all he said."

A similar story was told by Mrs. Thompson, who said the conversation took place while she was helping him pack Mrs. Winship's things.

"Mrs. Thompson," she quoted him as saying, "I just want to kill both of them. I know it would be disgraceful, but I just can't get it out of my head. It all could have been avoided if she had told me she cared for somebody else, but this way——"

"I could see he wanted to do away with himself," she added.

Mrs. Winship admitted her husband might have said what the two witnesses had testified, "but he was drunk; he wasn't in his right mind. He didn't know what he was saying."

Both she and her chauffeur testified she did not and never had entered his bedroom—the guest room in the Winship apartment.

Lieut. Comdr. Winship's will, drawn two days before he ended his life, is on its way to Macon, Ga., to be filed for probate, Charles W. Black, attorney for the estate, said. He said the will leaves all of the estate to Emory Winship, jr., six months old son of the Winships.

The estate will be probated in Macon, Mr. Black said, because that is where the retired naval officer maintained his legal residence. The estate of his first wife, Mrs. Katherine Dillon Winship, reported to be $3,000,000, was probated in Georgia.

Macon, Ga., March 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Blount Winship, widow of Lieut. Comdr. Emory Winship, who committed suicide in San Francisco last Saturday, was prominent in society circles in New York, Baltimore and Macon for several years before her marriage.

She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joe Blount, of this city, and a granddaughter of the late Congressman James H. Blount, for years representative from the Sixth Georgia District. Her grandmother, Mrs. James H. Blount, still resides here.

The Blount home is only a few doors from Commander Winship's residence in this city. The families were well acquainted and in that way she met him.

It was two months after the marriage before announcement of it was made. She was about 30 and the commander near 60.

LIQUOR RAIDS PACK JAIL IN MARYLAND

Six Women Are Included in Round-Up Conducted at Cumberland.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., March 27.—Thirty-eight arrests, made today in prohibition raids, filled the police station, and with six women clamoring to get out on bail, kept the city hall plaza agog. Up to late this evening but few had been bailed and it was thought it would be Sunday before United States Commissioner Thomas J. Anderson completes his preliminary hearings.

The usual manufacture, sale and possession charges predominated. There were two arrests on charges of manufacturing stills. In one case a man was shot in the foot after he fled from officers to whom he was reported to have been delivering a truckload of 300 gallons of liquor in the Frostburg section.

Prohibition undercover men said they had made a purchase and then contracted for the delivery of 300 gallons. Officers said Bruce Caton, of near Frostburg, was keeping the contract when he found he was in the net of enforcement officers. He started to run, the agents stated. The man with whom he is said to have made the deal shot in the air, but another officer shot and Caton was wounded in the foot. He was treated at Memorial Hospital here.

It was the second largest raid in the history of the county and the five attaches of the local prohibition bureau were augmented by 35 agents from other points.

A number of previous offenders were caught, but it was stated by city police officers the surface was only scratched and practically none of the big violators were in the net. G. D. Herboldsheimer & Son, a sheet metal working firm, and George H. Hiefner were arrested on charges of manufacturing stills. They were lodged in the Federal Building cell. The others, including a number from the Frostburg and Oldtown sections, were placed in the city jail.

Mrs. Helen Barrett, well dressed woman, was much surprised when told she would have to go to jail before being allowed an opportunity to give bond and was vociferous in objecting.

Those arrested included Minnie Clarke, Ruth Irons, Florence McElfish, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas D. Parker, Susie Carpenti, Vincent Carpenti, Peter Shimbo, John Ramsey, James Sanker, Harry W. Smallwood, James McKelvey, Harvey Coffman, Henry Gerderman, James Gerderman, E. B. Bennett, Charles Morrissey, Charles Hickle, Calvin E. Miller, this city; Edward Hardon, Jennie Dumire, James Sweitzer, Clinton McKenzie, Noah McKenzie, Bryan Johnson, William Knepp, Harvey Caton, Frostburg, Alvin Stafford, G. W. Stafford, Lester Hamilton, Charles L. Deffinbaugh, B. F. Hamilton, Mrs. Orrie Twigg, Oldtown.

Two hundred and ten gallons of liquor were seized at the farm of Bryan Johnson, on the National highway, about three miles west of Frostburg, raiders reported. Johnson was reported to have been delivering an "order" previously given by a prohibition decoy.

French Decorate Charlie Chaplin.

Paris, March 27 (A.P.).—Charlie Chaplin was decorated with the French Legion of Honor this afternoon at the foreign office. The ribbon and diploma were handed to him by Philippe Berthelot, secretary-general of the foreign office, who is the right-hand man of Aristide Briand.

NEW HONOR GIVEN EXPLORER

Underwood & Underwood.

tion to keep a morning appointment at the Smithsonian Institution, where, in the presence of a distinguished gathering, he received from the hands of Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, as chancellor of that organization, the Langley Gold Medal for Aerodromics.

Although presentation had been delayed until this occasion, the award was made public in December 1929, soon after Admiral Byrd's flight over the South Pole. The honor has been paid to only six other men, including Wilbur and Orville Wright, Gustave Eiffel, Glenn H. Curtiss, Charles A. Lindbergh and Charles M. Manly.

As the guest of Ambassador Paul Claudel at the French Embassy, where he was feted at luncheon in the presence of another notable array of leaders in governmental, diplomatic and aviation circles, Admiral Byrd received the Cross of the Commander of the French Legion of Honor.

In afternoon interviews, before receiving a stirring ovation at the auditorium in his lecture under auspices of the National Geographic Society, the famous flier expressed his desire to "keep on with the work of exploration in the cold areas."

"I enjoy working in the cold areas rather than in the warmer regions, and there is yet much to be done in the Arctic and Antarctic," he declared.

"It wouldn't be good taste to announce new plans when I haven't yet finished what I started out to do in making a scientific report. But I am planning a new expedition. Most of the unexplored areas are at the bottom of the world. There are a few at the top. A flight from Siberia across the North Polar cap would be useful. A flight east from Little America would show whether it really was a continent we found there."

Many "Kids" Apply.

He said he was literally besieged with applications from "kids" anxious to accompany him on future trips. He indicated amilingly that he was getting a real thrill out of their letters. They have been addressing him as "Mr. Byrd, North Pole." "Admiral Byrd, U. S. A." and in other ways from Japan, Australia, India, and all parts of this country and Europe.

"Most of the letters are from boys around 14 or 15 years old," he continued. "I meet them wherever I go. A 17-year-old boy hung around outside my door all day in Norfolk and finally told me he wanted to go on the next trip. I had him send his name to the Boston office and it will go on the list."

His lecture at the Auditorium was in the nature of another testimonial event in which the full 9,000-foot motion-picture account of the hazardous Antarctic expedition was unfolded here for the first time publicly. Bearing no title, the film was explained in detail by Admiral Byrd as the absorbing narrative was portrayed.

Wrote Best Seller on Trip.

Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society, in a short talk told the large audience that Admiral Byrd almost single-handedly had cleared the debt of the recetn expedition, largely through the present lectures and sales of his book of the trip, at the same time keeping every member of the expedition o nthe pay roll until other jobs were found.

"Admiral Byrd hats won two more records—that of writing the best seller of exploration, and talking to more people from a lecture platform than any other American lecturer," Dr. Grosvenor said.

"Admiral Byrd also has been completing for publication the scientific volumes describing the researches of his staff and he is maintaining his ship, the City of New York, as an exhibit for educational purposes. This historic vessel will come to Washington next week and remain here under the auspices of the National Geographic Society for one month.

Carried American Flag.

"Admiral Byrd carried the American flag 1,500 miles farther south than it had ever penetrated before. His name will ever live as the greatest pioneer navigator of the air, as does that of Magellan as the greatest pioneer navigator of the farthermost seas. All his remarkable achievements have been ni the name of the sciences and have greatly enriched the many fields of research which his stimulating mind and dramatic explorations have touched.

"We fly more safely; we communicate more clearly across the seas and continents because of his heroic adventures."

In the ceremonies at the Smithsonian Institution, Mr. Justice Hughes declared:

"Your investigations in connection with the science of aviation have included severe tests of airplanes, their navigating instruments and the possibilities of using them for geographical explorations. In these enterprises you have made the nonstop flight to the North Pole and the first nonstop flight to the South Pole. You have explored and photographed great regions of the globe hitherto unseen by man.

Admiral Byrd, in accepting, said that he regarded the medal as honoring every man of his party, and not as an individual or personal matter. He took occasion to predict that aviation will attain a development of which its pioneers never dreamed. He pointed out that for a time aviation was pushed too fast, but that the evolution appeared now to have become normal.

Admiral Byrd is slated for a lecture in Boston this week, following which he will take a week's vacation, probably in irginia, before resuming his lecture tour to be concluded in May.

Prisoners to Restore Wisconsin's Forests

Madison, Wis., March 27 (A.P.).—A plan to improve Wisconsin's public lands and at the same time relieve congestion in the State prison is being fostered by Gov. Philip La Follette. When the board of control, which has charge of State penal institutions, asked $7,000,000 for construction of larger prisons, the governor, instead, proposed that forest camps be established throughout northern Wisconsin to house convicts who would work at reforestation.

Gov. La Follette believes the plan of forestry work will be good for the prisoners, will yield a large return in State forests, and relieve taxpayers from further expenditures for State penal institutions.

RESIGNED FIREMEN HALT FOREST BLAZE

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4206.

Forgetting that there had been dissension, former members of the Cabin John Park Volunteer Fire Department yesterday battled for several hours a forest fire which spread over approximately five acres at the Cardcrock Development, near Cabin John Park. Spread of the fire was prevented by fifteen former members of the department, members of both factions.

It is believed that the long strife in the department has been settled through a meeting which lasted until early yesterday morning. All members of the department resigned, with the exception of the three original incorporators, Norman C. Lynch, Harry Davis and Charles C. Benson, thus settling the dispute of the rival presidents, A. A. Potter and David Tuohey, as to which was the legal head of the organization.

The action came after a meeting in the Glen Echo-Cabin John School which was presided over by Alfred Geiger, of Kensington, president of the Montgomery County Volunteer Firemen's Association.

A delegation of Mrs. Charles L. Frank and Harry Davis yesterday journeyed to Annapolis to urge passage of the bill providing for a fire-taxing area in the region bounding Conduit road. It is expected that the name of the department will be changed to the Conduit Road Volunteer Fire Department and that representation will be provided from all of the communities affected.

The Woman's Improvement Club of Silver Spring has adopted a resolution asking for the provision of an instructor in lip reading for the public schools of the county. The action was taken after Dr. William T. Pratt, county health officer, reported that 7.4 per cent of the children in the county schools have defective hearing.

The resolution will be forwarded to the Montgomery County Federation of Women's Clubs for approval at its annual meeting in May.

The Liberty Grove Band of Maryland has changed its name to the Montgomery County Band of Maryland, with headquarters at Fairland, it was announced yesterday. The leader of the band is James L. Kidwell and Albert Browning is promoter and manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Roby have donated a lot to the band for use as a site for a building to use as practice hall. The band plans a number of concerts in Maryland the coming season.

A ladies chorus is being trained as an auxiliary and meets every Wednesday at the Liberty Grove M. E. Church. H. Lee Smith, of Washington, is director of the chorus.

Edward E. Barrett, Pittsburgh, Pa., yesterday pleaded guilty in circuit court at Rockville to larceny of an automobile belonging to former States Attorney Albert M. Bouic, of Rockville. He was sentenced to serve two years in the Maryland House of Correction.

Ernest C. Ricketts and Norman F Ricketts were found guilty of larceny of a turkey and a chicken and sentenced to serve two months in the county jail. Ernest Lee Randall was acquitted.

James M. Ford, colored, charged with the larceny of chickens, was sentenced to serve two months in the county jail.

Alexandria Boy Shot By Mysterious Bullet

Tripp Noell, 50, of Alexandria, Va., was mysteriously "shot" yesterday while sitting in an auto parked in front of a grocery store on B street near Twelfth street northeast. Police believe that the wound was inflicted by a boy who aimed carelessly with an air rifle.

Feeling a sting under his left ear, Noell discovered he was bleeding, and Frank Wilkinson, who was accompanying him, drove to Casualty Hospital. Physicians there were uncertain as to whether the projectile had entered the head or glanced off, and advised Noell to return today for further treatment.

Police were aske dto search yesterday for Aubrey Tayman, 15 years old, who disappeared Thursday from his home, 521 Seventh street southwest.

Pumpkin Pie Tickles Palates of Japanese

Tokyo, March 27 (A.P.).—Pumpkin pie is all the rage in Japan. it is eaten with chop sticks.

A returned student from San Francisco introduced the delicacy when he opened a hole-in-the-wall restaurant. Other cafes stole the idea and now the pumpkin market is booming.

Japanese hitherto have eaten pumpkin boiled or stewed. As pie, however, the vegetable is given liberal dashes of cinnamon, which appeals especially to native palates.

MARYLAND SENATE AIDS CONSTRUCTION

Favors $7,663,000 Loans; Assembly Prepares to Adjourn April 6.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 27.—The Senate and House disposed of a large amount of legislation either through passage of bills and committee reports on others before adjourning for the week-end and will reconvene at noon Monday. The Assembly will then have but one more week of the ninety-day session, adjournment being set for April 6.

Among the more important measures passed by the Senate were two administration bills, the general construction loan of $5,863,000, and the bridge construction loan amounting to $2,000,000. The Senate also passed Senator Altfeld's, bill calling for proof of financial responsibility of automobile owners, following accidents, and introduction in the House of a proposed State income tax law was among the day's more important activties.

House Against Billboards.

The House passed and sent to the Senate the antibillboard bill, after modifying its provisions. Measures to provide for consolidated almshouses on the eastern and western shores were killed through adoption of unfavorable reports.

Another move seeking repeal of the eighteenth amendment was initiated in the House in the form of a resolution by Delegate McKendrick, Baltimore City, asking Congress to call a national constitutional convention for the purpose. The measure is patterned after that which has passed the Massachusetts Legislature.

Military Park Urged.

Senator Coblentz, of Frederick County, sponsored a resolution memorializing Congress to create a military park at Monocacy, Frederick County, to commemorate the battle fought in the Civil War on April 9, 1864. The resolution declares that Union troops, under Gen. Lew Wallace, so delayed the advance of the Confederate general, Jubal A. Early, in that battle, as to save the National Capital. The battlefield is 3 miles from Frederick, on the road to Washington. The Senate passed the bill to subdivide the State into 23 sanitary districts, with each county having a full-time health office, leaving final action to the several boards of county commissioners. Eleven counties already are operating on this basis.

PANAMA GROUP GIVES DENISON DRY DINNER

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON FORMS W. C. T. U. BRANCH

Mrs. Ethel Gregory Chosen President of Group; Play Is Given.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The organization of the Arlington County Union of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union was perfected at a meeting held yesterday at the Clarendon Methodist Church with the election of Mrs. Ethel M. Gregory as president.

Other officers are, vice presidents, Mrs. R. T. Dodge, Mrs. Jessie T. Dean, Mrs. C. P. Heins, Mrs. W. M. Seligman, Mrs. Amy C. Weech, Mrs. Russell Brooks and Mrs. L. J. Clark; Mrs. Frances Mabry, recording secretary; Mrs. Arda Hahn, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. James Hulfish, treasurer.

Addressing the meeting, Fletcher Kemp, county school superintendent, declared: "We have here in Arlington County more than 1,400 students in the Washington-Lee High School, and I am glad to be able to stand here and say, to the best of my knowledge and after a most rigid investigation, not a drop of liquor has ever been in the building, and never have I noticed the odor of liquor on the breath of any student.

"I have, it is true, received reports that there has been, but I have never found one sign that will support any of these reports," he said.

"Let us not continue to get after the children. I am not so concerned over their future as I am the adults in this county. It is my opinion that the children of today are just as good as in days gone by. Discuss with them the finer things in life, and not so much what they shall do, and we will get along far better," he declared.

"People are too prone to talk about others and at times it causes much trouble. Let us say some of the good things and the world will be far better," he said.

"I have been in Arlington County for many years and I say now that the county is far better, as for the question of prohibition and other vices, than in years past and it is getting better all the time," he said.

The meeting opened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock with an invocation by the Rev. John H. Pearson, pastor of the Clarendon Methodist Church.

The morning session was devoted to the question of finances and plans for increasing the membership in the unions in the county.

In the evening there was a play entitled "The Crusade."

The union was organized by the State president, Mrs. Howard Hoge, who presided over the meeting.

The newly elected officers of Arlington Chapter, No. 39, Order of the Eastern Star, were installed at the meeting held last night in the Cherrydale Firemen's Hall by Mrs. Mary E. Techum, grand lecturer of the Order of the Eastern Star of the District of Columbia.

Those installed were: Mrs. Ethel Wetzel, worthy matron; Frank M. Chambers, worthy patron; Mrs. Viola Walker, associate worthy matron; Virgil Bauknight, associate worthy patron; Mrs. Martha Rauh, secretary; Mrs. Nellie Batschelet, treasurer; Mrs. Florence Donaldson, conductress; Mrs. Lottie Chambers, chaplain; Mrs. Ethel Hammond, associate conductress; Mrs. Mildred Rees, marshal; Miss Margaret May, Adah; Mrs. Ethel Rhynes, Ruth; Mrs. Nida Springer, Esther; Mrs. Mary Palmer, Martha; Miss Lois Hagerty, Electa; Mrs. Abbie Toucher, warder, and Marian Ward, sentinel.

The county health department yesterday gave out the following list of five-point health children from the Patrick Henry School: Marjorie Floyd, Walter Woodruff, jr., Edward LaLonde, Velva McPherson, Wendell Bloomingburg, Wayne Bloomingburg, Clinton Beeler, Betty Coe, William Reisinger, Lucille Thomson, John Malone, Robert Burnham, Charles Pangle, Jack Middlethon, Lloyd Bullock, Russell Clapper, Willard Heath, Sara Jean McIntosh, Vernon Grimsely, Leroy Usilton, Rea Sheffer, Margaret Spangler, Earl Brown, Eliza Moore Lynn, Lelia George, Marion Morgan, Douglas Monroe, Bernard Madison, Kennth Channon, Isabella Jelly, Norma Ward, Dorcas Hunt, Jane Bell, Helen Royall, Raymond Ward, Virginia Middlethon, Doris Miller, Marjorie Preston, Robert Williams, Jack Agnew, Margaret Chewning, Bertha Cooper, Virginia Cummings, Shirley Smith, Emmet Oliff, Donald Ega, Jack Fauntleroy, Aubry Mossburg, Ruth Harney, Betty May Stewart, Douglas Moore, Henry Wallace, Sarah Wallace, Charles Woodruff, Jacqueline Laycock, Mattie Pound, Robert Hord, Betty May Hulbert, Eustace Cooper, Harry Stevens, Henry Graul, Alfred McCullough, jr., James Posey, Elizabeth Darcey, Dayton Scheffel, Thomas Bell, and Turney Conway.

Services at the Cherrydale Baptist Church tomorrow will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. M. R. Japhet. At the morning service his subject will be "Let God Be True and Every Man a Liar." In the evening he will speak from Revelations 13.

Both morning and evening services tomorrow at the Cherrydale Methodist Protestant Church will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. John F. Trader. At the morning service his subject will be "Jesus Facing the Applauding Crowd." In the evening he will preach on "And Ye Will Not Come."

The Rev. John H. Pearson, pastor of the Clarendon Methodist Church, will take as his subject at the morning service tomorrow "Thy King Cometh." There will be special Palm Sunday music.

At the evening service, to be conducted at 7:30 o'clock, the pastor will conclude a series of Lenten meditations on the "Seven Words From the Cross."

Special Holy Week services will open in St. George's Episcopal Church tomorrow morning conducted by the rector, the Rev. Henry J. Miller. His subject will be "Christ's Crusifiers." In the evening at 8 o'clock a candlelight pageant, entitled "Darkness and Dawn," will be presented.

Services during the week will be as follows: Monday, at 10:30 a. m. the subject by the rector will be, "The Old and New Laws," and in the evening at 8 o'clock the subject of the sermon will be "The Roman Centurion."

Tuesday, at the same hour, at the morning service the subject will be "Faith;" in the evening, "Simon of Cyrene."

Wednesday the sermon in the morning will be on "Hope;" in the evening, "The Great Eclipse."

Thursday the subject at the morning service will be "Love;" in the evening, "The Holy Communion."

On Good Friday there will be services starting at 12:30 and continuing until 3 o'clock. In the evening a Lenten cantata "Penitence, Pardon and Peace" will be presented.

TREE PLANTED AT SCHOOL

The first tree was planted in the yard of the Cherrydale School yesterday afternoon as part of the arbor day program conducted by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school. TEACHER QUITS JOB AS STUDENTS REBEL

George Mason High Algebra Instructor Accused of Cursing Pupils.

Stating that he has repeatedly tried, but without success, to inculcate in the students in his classes a sense of honor and fair play, J. H. Creecy, 23-year-old graduate of the class of '28 of the University of Virginia, who entered on his first position as teacher in the George Mason High School of Alexandria on March 4, has tendered his resignation to the school board.

His resignation read as follows:

"Inasmuch as I consider myself in every respect a gentleman, and inasmuch as I consider 90 per cent of my pupils to be in few, if any, respects gentlemen and gentlewomen, and

"Inasmuch as I feel that I am entirely out of place surrounded by a throng of noisy, insolent, dishonorable brats who have the gall to cheat and copy their schoolmates' test papers under my eyes, and Calls Pupils Feeble-Minded.

"Inasmuch as I have repeatedly tried but without success to inculcate into them a sense of honor and fair play, and feel it almost a hopeless task to attempt to civilize them, and

"Inasmuch as I have been conscious from the very beginning that I have been teaching in an institution for the feeble-minded, only 1 per cent of 80 in my three algebra classes having a passing grade to date, and

"Inasmuch as numerous parents throughout the city have let it be known as I am fully award through various and sundry rumors that they consider it unseemly for a teacher to indicate in poignant and unmistakable terms his personal opinion of their children's ill-breeding and obnoxious traits, and

"Inasmuch as I am unwilling to continue longer in a position in which I feel that I am impliedly requested to remain tongueties in regard to voicing my indignation at my pupils for their bad manners, and

"Inasmuch as I feel it to be only a question of time before I shall be lynched or otherwise manhandled in return;

"I, the undersigned, do hereby tender my resignation as a teacher in the George Mason High School of Alexandria."

Troubles Began Early.

According to Creecy, his troubles began a week after he started teaching, when he gave his algebra class a written quiz, and when the papers were turned in he discovered unmistakable evidence of copying, the correct answers to the quiz being arrived at by an incorrect method, identical mistakes being made in each case.

At anothe rtest, he says, he discovered pupils exchanging papers, whereupon he told the pupils to "tear up all that darn stuff and throw it in the waste basket." He then placed a problem on the blackboard for the students to work, but apparently, he said, none of them were paying any attention, and none worked the problem, and then he "blew up."

"If you don't like this class, why in the hell don't you get in some other class," Creecy says he told his pupils. "I'm not interested in anything but teaching algebra, and what I find is a lot of giddy schoolgirls trying to take me for a ride. I don't give a tinker's dam for any of this Cleopatra or Venus de Milo stuff, and you might as well make up your minds to that." He says he told the class that only three girls, whom he named, had been paying attention, and then one girl whom he had not named burst into tears and left the room.

Creecy said he reported his troubles to Principal C. H. Strader, who urged him to be calmer and more patient, which he did, but the situation only became worse, and the pupils, he said, seemed to go out of their way to aggravate him. On March 4, the day his resignation is dated, Creecy says he heard one of the boys "clucking" in class. He told him to stop, but presently it started again, with another boy joining in. Then four boys started rapping rhythmically on their desks, and Creecy again "blew up."

"Listen, you four," Creecy says he told them. "Get the hell out of here." The four boys went out and were followed by three girls the girls going to the office of Principal Strader and telling him they would not return to any class taught by Creecy.

In the meantime Principal Strader and Superintendent Bowton had received on less than 24 complaints from parents of students, and they informed Creecy that the matter would probably come up before the schoo lboard for action. Creecy then wrote out his resignation, which was promptly accepted by the board. His successor, it is understood, has experienced no trouble with cheating by the pupils.

WASHINGTON CLUB VISITS 'MANASSAS

City Kiwanians Attend Interclub Meeting and Banquet.

Members of the Washington Kiwanis Club last night attended an interclub meeting and banquet at Manassas, Va. They were guests of the Manassas Kiwanis Club, headed by Dr. C. R. C. Johnson, president.

Edwin F. Hill, vice president of the Washington Club, presented Dr. Johnson with a speaker's gong and gavel for calling meetings to order. The gavel was made from wood dismantled from the White House when it was being remodeled. The wood was donated for the purpose by Martin T. Wiegand.

Following the dinner, entertainment was furnished by the Washington club in the form of a jury trial of one of its members, who had been "indicted" for lack of knowledge of Kiwanis objectives. The defendant was the Rev. Simpson B. Daugherty.

Among those who attended the dinner were Charles R. Ruff, Claude W. Owen, Harry G. Kimball, James C. Dulin, James B. Edmunds, Col. Claude D. Jones, F. Archibald Meatyard, Charles W. Pimper, Fred A. Schutz, William F. Smith and George H. Winslow. Attending the dinner as guests of the Washington club were Ernest Hackett, Sunday editor of The Washington Post, and Raymond Zepp.

State Troops Join Posse In Hunt for 2 Convicts

Clarksburg, Va., March 27.—A posse of guards and State troops was out on Point Mountain today in pursuit of two penitentiary convicts who escaped from State road camp 47 at Cleveland Wednesday, leaving a trail of stolen automobiles behind them.

A gun battle is feared as the men stole arms when they took a guard's automobile. The fugitives are Sampie Payne and Forest Pauley sent up from Kanawha County. They made big headway by cutting the telephone wires before entering Webster Springs.

HARRY C. METZGER FUNERAL

Services to Be Conducted Today for Woodridge, Va., Farmer.

Harry Cloyd Metzger, retired Woodridge, Va., farmer, died Thursday of a heart attack at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Angie Margerum, at 659 Girard street northeast, with whom he had made his home for the past four years.

Mr. Metzger had been an active member and worker in the Methodist Church of Woodridge, and was well known throughout that part of the State. His wife died several years ago. The survivors include, besides his daughter, two sons, Arthur Metzger, of this city, and Elmer Metzger, of Woodridge.

Funeral services will be conducted at the funeral home of V. L. Speare Co., 1009 H street northwest, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Hoyt, pastor of the Woodridge Methodist Church, will officiate, and interment will follow in Fort Lincoln Cemetery.

JUDGE MAY RELEASE 6 SCHOOL CHILDREN

Hyattsville Election Draws Attention in Prince Georges County.

The six high school children taken when Prince Georges County police raided a house in Cheverly, Md., Tuesday morning, will probably not be charged, according to Judge Retta D. Morris, but will be held as witnesses against two youths who have been charged with violation of the school law.

Formal charges of "inducing a child to stay away from school unlawfully" have been placed against John Dohm, 18, of Cottage City, and Michael Sullivan, jr., of Cheverly, whose home was visited. This constitutes a misdemeanor under the Maryland law.

It is said that Dohm picked up the three high school girls involved on their way to school and took them to the Sullivan home. He then left the house to look for another girl to bring to the party, it is alleged, but was arrested for speeding before he could return to the Sullivan home. For this reason, he was not present at the time of the raid.

Neither Sullivan nor Dohm attends school. Each of the boys was released on bond of $300.

William A. Brooks last night denied that he had pledged his support to E. B. Hilley in the coming election for mayor of Hyattsville, although he admitted that he had withdrawn from the race himself. Mr. Hilley, whose candidacy has just been announced, is said to have the backing of most members of the council, as well as Dr. Hilary T. Willis, present mayor.

Mr. Brooks said last night that he would not support Hilley, but would support Hilley's opponent, Lemuel L. Gray, "unless a better man shows up." Mr. Hilley entered the race after a delegation of citizens from the four wards of the town had called upon him and asked him to run. His platform will cite the work of the last administration, in which he has been a councilman, and will promise to continue this work in the future.

Mr. Hilley represents now the Fourth ward in the town council, and is chairman of the finance committee, as well as a member of the police, lighting and fire department and municipal building committees. He is vice president of the Prince Georges County Municipal Officers Association and is also vice president of the Prince Georges County Duckpin Association.

Before he was persuaded to run for mayor, he had announced that he would be a candidate to succeed himself to the council. His change of plan leaves L. L. Powers unopposed for the council, Mr. Powers having been an opponent of Hilley for this post. Mr. Powers was recently elected president of the Hyattsville Horticultural Association.

It is considered fairly certain that O. G. Dudrow will be a candidate for reelection in the First ward, although he has not announced himself. C. D. Anderson will also run for this post.

In the Second Ward it is said that T. D. Jarrell will run in opposition to William T. Jennings, who has already announced his candidacy. Mr. Jarrell has made no definite statement, however. Mr. Jennings declined to run for mayor after a conference with Mr. Gray. Harry A. Boswell, present councilman from the Second Ward, is not a candidate for reelection.

In the Third Ward no opposition to E. M. Grover has appeared. Mr. Grover, the present councilman, has already said that he would be a candidate to succeed himself.

The drive on slot machines in the county inaugurated some months ago claimed its first victim yesterday, when T. E. Wilson, of Marlboro, was fined $100 for possession of one of the mechanisms. He was arraigned and convicted in police court in Marlboro.

Joseph L. Rawlings, of Brothers place, near Highland View place southeast, was fined $100 for driving while drunk, $50 for possession of whisky, and $1 for reckless driving. William E. Mills, of Madison street near North Capitol street, was fined $101 for driving while drunk and reckless driving, having been arrested by State Policeman W. A. Rogers.

Bernard Brown, of Oxon Hill, was fined $5 for reckless driving, but a charge of passing when the road ahead was obstructed was dismissed. His car was in a collision, which resulted in the overturn of a car driven by Cordelia Green, of Clinton.

A charge of driving while drunk against Harry H. Haggermaker, of Glen Echo, was dismissed, but he was convicted of reckless driving and fined $5. Donald Pinkney, of Cheltenham, was fined $10 for reckless driving, $10 for no license and $5 for having inadequate brakes. He was committed to jail in default of the fine. The arrest was made by Officer Rogers.

Lewis A. Dickerson, of Rittenhouse street near Fifth street northwest, was fined $10 for reckless driving. T. W. Pinkney, of Forestville, forfeited $10 on a charge of having fictitious markers. Margaret E. Dalley, of I street northwest near Twenty-first street, forfeited $10 for having no license. Milton F. Sadler, of Eighth street northeast near E street, forfeited $10 for reckless driving.

Trial of the first charge brought under the new fire regulations of Mount Rainier was postponed last night until next Friday. M. Gildenhorn, a grocer in the town, is charged with failing to remove trash constituting a fire menace.

The new regulations provide that owners of property who violate the regulations shall be given a written notice. It is charged that Gildenhorn ignored this warning.

Rev. J. C. Barrett To Live in Hopewell

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 27.—The Rev. John Cleveland Barrett, who has been supplying the Armstrong Presbyterian Church at Berkley, Va., has accepted the call extended him to the pastorate of the Christian Church at Hopewell and will enter upon the duties of his new post next Sunday.

While most of his pastorate has been in Pennsylvania, he is a native of Virginia. He is an alumnus of Zion College, N. C., and of Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio, graduating from the latter institution in 1923. Since leaving college he has been pastor of the Gulph Mills Christian Church of Coshohocken, Pa., and acted two years as assistant secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, of Norristown, Pa.

PLANS FOR CHANGING MONUMENT OFFERED

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Raymond E. Toms, district engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, appeared Thursday before an "informal" meeting of the city council, from which newspaper representatives were excluded, and, according to a statement given out yesterday by Acting Mayor Edmund F. Ticer, presented to the council the plans of the Federal Government for improving the Confederate Monument, which marks the spot, at Washington and Prince streets, from which the Confederate troops of Alexandria marched on May 24, 1861, to join other units of their command. This is in connection with the construction of the Mount Vernon Memorial boulevard, which will traverse Washington street.

The Government, according to Mr. Toms, will not attempt to move the monument from its present location, as was at first contemplated, but will reduce the diameter of the circle surrounding the monument to 13 feet, the monument being indirectly lighted from the base of the circle. Safety islands will also be provided on Washington street. Originally the monument occupied an ornamental space which almost entirely filled the intersection of Washington and Prince streets, but about six years ago the city council reduced the size of the space considerably, arranging it in the form of a circle, with ornamental street lamps on the four sides of the monument. This action was taken on account of the danger to fire apparatus which used Prince street.

The present plans provide for cutting back the curb along both sides of Washington street, from King to Duke street, or one square on each side of the monument, for a distance of 5 feet, thus affording room for two lines of traffic on either side of the monument. Parking on Washington street in these two squares will, it is understood, be curtailed, and probably the present angle parking will be changed to parallel.

The plans will be presented to the United Confederate Veterans, the Sons of Confederate Veterans, and the Daughters of the Confederacy before being finally adopted. These bodies are said to be inclined not to oppose any plans which will provide for the retention of the monument on its present site, although, when the proposal to move the shaft was brought forward several months ago, there was a storm of protest, not only from the Confederate bodies, but from practically every patriotic organization in Alexandria.

There is a Confederate Monument committee, which has charge of the maintenance of the monument, and which was most active in fighting, or preparing to fight, any proposal for its removal. This committee is composed of Brig. Gen. Edgar Warfield, chairman; R. Samuel Luckett, commander; Orlando Kirk, Charles Duffey and Mark L. Price, representing the Sons of Confederate Veterans, and Mrs. Charles W. Howell and Mrs. Charles M. Shepperson, representing the Mary Custis Lee, Seventeenth Virginia Regiment Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The piano pupils of Mrs. Kaspar, at St. Agnes' Episcopal School, were presented in the first recital of the season yesterday afternoon at the school, with Miss Marguerite Chapman, the principal, as hostess. Parents of those participating and a number of their friends were present. Those on the program were Miss Anne Carter Waller, Miss Dorothy Rust, Miss Elaine LaCoste, Miss Virginia Simpson, Miss Emily MacMoriand, Miss Mary Lee Carter, Miss Hannah Shepherd, Miss Mary Brookings, Miss Imogene Shepperson, Miss Evelyn Dillard, Miss Mary Thernton DeBell and Miss Mary Lord Andrews.

A new building for the Alexandria Children's Home and Day Nursery, which now occupies quarters at 316 Prince street, will probably be purchased this week, it is understood, arrangements now being under way to purchase the building at 411 Prince street for this purpose.

The project to purchase a home was discussed last night at a meeting in the present quarters by the officers of the Children's Home and the directors of the Rotary Club, which is sponsoring the home, and it is expected a definite conclusion will be reached shortly.

There are now fourteen children who stay overnight at the home, in addition to from 20 to 22 who are taken care of during the day while their parents are at work. The home is supported by voluntary contributions. Mrs. Bessie Sexton is matron.

THOMAS YATES IS DEAD.

Native of England to Be Buried Monday in Capital.

Thomas Yates, a bricklayer living at 5925 Third street northwest, died yesterday at his home after a short illness thought to have been heart trouble. He was 65 years old, and had lived in Washington for 27 years, coming here from Kent, England, where he was born.

Mr. Yates had no known relatives, his wife having died several years ago. He had been making his home with friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Pumphrey, at the Third street address. Funeral services will be held Monday morning, at 9 o'clock, at the Church of the Nativity. Brightwood, and interment will follow in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

Posse Nabs Man Who Shot Woman

Herbert Davis Is Brought to Charlottesville to Face Trial.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., March 27.—Herbert Davis, arrested by a posse headed by Sheriff J. Mason Smith at the Sugar Hollow home of his father, William Davis, was brought here today to face trial for the shooting of Mrs. Myrtle Johnson, at the home of Edward Morris, near Charlottesville, Tuesday night.

Davis made a dash for freedom after capture. He leaped from the house and fled up a mountain hollow, but was outrun by Constable Haney, after a mile race.

He admitted shooting Mrs. Johnson, but said he was intoxicated. The woman, estranged wife of Allen Johnson, is reported improving at a local hospital. She was shot twice.

Odd Fellows Celebrate Lodge's Anniversary

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., March 27.—Hopewell Lodge, No. 425, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of its organization tonight with a banquet attended by prominent Odd Fellows from Petersburg, Richmond and various other sections of the State.

Hopewell Lodge was organized March 27, 1916, under the administration of O. V. Hanger, of Amherst, as grand master of the State of Virginia. It had a charter list in excess of 1,000 and was the largest lodge of Odd Fellows ever organized.

Maryland Man Found Dead of Rifle Bullet

Arthur Hines, 55 years old, of Skaggsville, Md., was found dead yesterday afternoon in the woods near his home. He apparently died from a bullet wound over his temple inflicted by a .22-caliber rifle, discovered near his body.

Members of his family last night said he had been missing from home for several days. He had been despondent for some time, they said. The date for an inquest has not been set.

TEACHERS CONVENE IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

State Highway Department Inspects Lee Route via Falls Church.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

The Fairfax County Teachers Association held an all day meeting yesterday in the Madison School at Falls Church for the first time. The program was arranged by the executive committee, of which Miss Dorothy Otley, principal of Clifton High School, is president. A short business session was held in the morning. Divisional Superintendent of Schools, Wilbert T. Woodson, spoke on "Standards in Fundamental Subjects for Students Before Entering High School." Following this talk group meetings were held for high school, grammar, intermediate and primary grade teachers. The high school teachers held a joint session before subdividing by subjects.

Three teachers from the State Teachers College at Fredericksburg addressed the various groups.

Following a luncheon, Dr. W. C. French, of George Washington University, addressed the teachers of the upper grades and high schools. The high school teachers yesterday were presided over by Miss Nancy Gregory Edwards, of Falls Church, English group; Miss Eolene Follin, of McLean, history group; Miss Elizabeth Shank, of Falls Church, mathematics; Miss Mary Jane Clyne, of Herndon, science, and Miss Mary M. Snead, of Oakton, Latin and French. Miss Lucy Pierce, of the State Teachers College, addressed the high school teachers on "Presentation of Formal Grammar and English Composition."

Officials of the Town of Falls Church and of the State Highway Department made an inspection and survey of the Lee highway through the town to study changes to be made when the State resurfaces the route.

According to the present plans, the paved road will be 30 feet wide with curbing. The town council will be requested to, assume the expense of building the curb. It was pointed out by the State representatives that a number of the large maple trees along the right of way will have to be removed.

Maj. L. P. Daniels, mayor of Falls Church, has written a letter to the State Highway Commission advising them of the town's proposed municipal water system and asking that time be allowed for laying water mains along the highway before the surfacing is completed, but as the funds from which this work is being done are a part of the Federal unemployment aid and must be used immediately the council will try to speed up the laying of the water system. A special meeting of the council will be held as soon as the street and water committees can work out details of such arrangements.

Mayor Daniels, with Councilmen Frank Birch and J. V. Turner, represented the town and District Engineer J. C. Albright and Resident Engineer R. I. Mount represented the highway department.

James Dunn, jr., 20, of Dunn Loring, who was arrested Thursday night on a charge of criminal assault on a 17-year-old girl, living near Merrifield, was indicted by a special grand jury yesterday morning. He entered a plea of guilty before Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the Fairfax County Circuit Court. Dunn was sentenced to three years in the State Penitentiary. The sentence was suspended on the condition of Dunn staying out of Virginia.

Lee Hicks, of Mount Vernon district, was found guilty on a charge of larceny by a jury, who recommended a sentence of two years in the State Penitentiary. According to facts brought out during the trial an automobile was stolen in Baltimore and abandoned in Virginia on the Washington-Richmond highway near Accotink. Hicks took the car from where it was abandoned into the woods near his home and dismantled it, transferring the motor to another car.

Sergt. E. J. McDermott, of the State Motor Vehicle Police, traced the car which led to the arrest and conviction of Hicks.

D. C. Davis, of Lorton yesterday pleaded guilty to the third violation of the State prohibition law, before Judge McCarthy. Davis was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to 10 months on the State road force.

The Andrew Chapel School and Community League will present a play and minstrel show this evening in the auditorium of the Andrew Chapel School House. The proceeds of the show will be used for school building improvements. The league president, Mrs. John Oliver, will direct the show.

The play, "Leap Year in a One-Man Town," will be given with the following cast: Mrs. Oliver, Mrs. G. Ashley Money, Miss Pearl Coffey, Mrs. Katherine Leigh, Mrs. Lewis Rodier and Granville Wiley. The black face minstel, "Coon Town Wedding," which follows the play, will be given by Howard Gardner, Granville Wiley, Lewis Thompson, Mezick Oliver, Frank Crider, Wilson Follin, Stanley Gardner, Sharon Crider, Alfred Millard, Theodore Gardner, John Tracy Clarence Millard, Mrs. John Oliver, Miss Mary Hughes, Miss Virginia Wiley and Miss Helen Wickline.

Boy Scout Troop No. 182, which was recently organized in Fairfax, will hold its first "Parents' Night" this evening in the Southern Methodist Church at Fairfax, under the leadership of the Rev. Royal A. Rice. There will be demonstrations of scout work in charge of the four patrol leaders, Maurice Sherwood, Morgan Bennett, Lehman Young and Stanley Dove. William Langhorne Leitch Scout executive for northern Virginia, will present the charter to the new troop and show motion pictures of scout activities in northern Virginia and at Camp Roosevelt, Md. Until recently the troop held its meetings in the Knights of Wesley Hall, but as that hall has been rented as a dwelling to one of the men working on the town's water system, meetings are now held in the Southern Methodist Church.

Macklin Moore, 16, son of Mrs. Gladys Moore, of Ballston, was seriously injured yesterday when the motorcycle which he was riding collided with an automobile belonging to the Rev. George J. Garnett, colored, of Baltimore, and driven by Joseph Harris, colored, also of Baltimore, on the Richmond-Washington highway, near the Penn Daw Hotel. The youth was placed in an automobile driven by George K. Crutchfield, of Richmond, and taken to the Alexandria Hospital, where he was treated by Dr. M. D. Delaney. His injuries consisted of one leg broken in two places, fractured arm and numerous lacerations. While his condition is considered serious, it is thought he will recover.

According to reports made to the Fairfax police, young Monroe was rounding the curve just north of the Penn Daw Hotel when his motorcycle crashed into an automobile.

Harris was released on a personal bond of $100 to appear in court when required.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church at Falls Church has elected Mrs. George C. Thompson president; Mrs. E. Franklin Lord, vice president; Mrs. E. L. Redfield, secretary, and Mrs. Mary Ryer, treasurer. Mrs. E. L. Brandon was elected delegate to the annual meeting of the Presbyterial Society in Washington.

The Parent-Teacher Association at Falls Church will give an all-request program this afternoon over Station WJSV at Mount Vernon Hills. Those taking part include Robert Garner, barytone, and Miss Catherine Schofield and the school orchestra.

New York Boys Get Wild Trip on Train

Four Youths Seeking Thrill Reach Baltimore Scared and Hungry.

Baltimore, Md., March 27 (A.P.).—It was spring and the impulse to adventure stirred four boys, the eldest 15, the youngest, 10, as a freight train halted at a grade crossing on Staten Island, New York. They climbed aboard, intending to ride a few miles.

That was late yesterday. Early today the four, hungry, weary and scared, were accosted by a patrolman as the freight pulled into the Baltimore & Ohio yards here. The train had not once stopped since the boys boarded it, and for eleven hours, nine of them in darkness, the four had clung to iron rungs on the ends and to the roofs of box cars.

They were given hot breakfasts and beds at a police station while messages went to their parents. They gave the names of Salvatore Danico, Walter Cheska and John Pessalano, each 15, and Eugene Wroblenski. The three eldest said they were high school students.

Wife Slaying Hearing In Richmond Continued

Richmond, Va., March 27 (A.P.).—A hearing on a charge of murder against William F. Whiteside, World War veteran, in connection with the shooting of his wife, Mrs. Ruia Whiteside, in their home here March 9, was continued today in police court until April 1. State and defense attorneys agreed on the continuance of the case.

Whiteside told police after his arrest that an automatic pistol exploded as he laid it on a table. He said he had been illustrating a World War scene. Mrs. Whiteside was wounded in the head and died several hours later.

Lumber Sent to England.

St. Joe, Ark., March 27 (U.P.).—Dogwood timber is being shipped from the mountain forests of Arkansas to England to be made into shuttles for clothing weaving factories. Before finding this outlet for dogwood timber Arkansas timber owners made the wood into golf tees, collar buttons and other small wooden products.

Baltimore Gives Freely to Jobless

Donation Boxes Stuffed as City Rallies to Relief of Destitute.

Baltimore, Md., March 27 (A.P.).—Baltimore went to the polls today to vote destitution out. More than 2,400 ballot boxes and other containers served as the polls, the ballots were bills and coins and the returns swelled a fund for unemployment relief.

Early returns from the self-denial day indicated that the contributions had been liberal. The first 1,497 containers opened at police headquarters contained $47,876.

Airplanes soared overhead. A brass band paraded the streets, placards bore appeals to "stuff the ballot box," bells and whistles sounded and street corner speakers pleaded for liberal contributions. Police and welfare agency estimates were that between $500,000 and $600,000 will be needed to provide for relief for the remainder of the year, in addition to the more than $1,000,000 contributed through the community fund last fall.

Harwood R. Hall Dies in Petersburg

Well-Known Real Estate Man Is to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Special to The Washington Post.

Mr. Bell is survived by the following children: Mrs. John Lloyd, Mrs. Frederick Jones, of Clark County; Leonard H. Bell, Mayor of Berryville, and Herman Bell, who occupies the chair of French at Hampden Sidney College at Farmville.

Man Killed as Car Turns Over on Hill

Two Companions Slightly Injured When Speeder Hits Steep Grade.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., March 27.—Peyton Richardson, 21, of Monroe, Southern Railway employe, was killed late last night when his automobile turned over on the State highway 6 miles east of Lynchburg. His skull was fractured.

Miss Rosa Casey, Amherst County, and Richard Anderson, fellow passengers, were only slightly injured. State highway inspectors said the trouble occurred on a steep hill while the car was being operated at a high rate of speed.

Sedan Damages Truck And Continues on Way

A large sedan failed to stop after striking and overturning a light truck at Thirty-eighth and Van Ness streets northwest yesterday afternoon. The truck, property of a Rockville, Md., motor car company, was badly damaged.

ORCHARDISTS TOLD OF NEED OF TREES

Virginians Are Urged to Add to Nitrogen Fertilizer This Spring.

Winchester, Va., March 27 (A.P.).—Virginia orchardists were advised today by the United States Department of Agriculture to make earlier and slightly heavier applications of nitrogen fertilizer this spring to stimulate the fruit buds in orchards affected by last year's drought.

In the Shenandoah Valley, Potomac Valley, Mississippi Valley, and the Ohio Valley, and in southern Pennsylvania, the bulletin said, the worst of the drought-stricken areas, the majority of the apple orchards normally come into bloom in late April or early May. Fertilizer should be put on a full month ahead of bloom, it said. Nitrogen in a quickly available form was recommended.

"Because of the lack of moisture last year, fruit trees in many regions are facing the coming season in an impoverished condition," the bulletin continued. "The trees were unable to store up the usual amounts of starches, sugars and other food materials on which early growth depends, and the buds in many orchards are small. It is important, therefore, that the trees be stimulated as much as possible.

"The leaves are largely formed during the first two months of growth. In these leaves the food materials that form the fruit are manufactured during the summer. Consequently, it is necessary to build up a large leaf system so the trees will be able to develop a large crop of fruit."

"Applications this spring should be a little heavier than usual—20 to 25 per cent heavier—to make up as much as possible for the lack of the food stored in the trees."

Retired Farmer Dies in Virginia

Special to The Washington Post.

Purcellville, Va., March 27.—Wentworth C. Zevely, 80, retired farmer, died from a heart attack at the home of his niece, Mrs. Albert Hoopes, in Purcellville.

Mr. Zevely was a native of Washington and came to Loudoun County in 1870. In 1878 he married Miss Rachel H. Birdsall. Mrs. Zevely died five years ago. Since that time he has made his home with Mrs. Hoopes. The deceased was a member of the Orthodox Friends' Church and a member of the Knights of Good Templars.

Several nieces survive him. Funeral services were held from the Orthodox Friends' Church in Lincoln Friday afternoon at 2:30, with interment in the cemetery nearby.

VIRGINIA POLICEMEN RECOVER 150 AUTOS

Stolen Cars Found to Exceed Number Reported by Owners as Missing.

Richmond, Va., March 27 (A.P.).—Virginia Division of Motor Vehicle records for January and February today showed that State police recovered more stolen automobiles in that period than were reported.

During the two months 120 cars were reported to the division as stolen, and the State police recovered 150, which were returned to their owners, ten of them out of the State.

Director T. McCall Frazier pointed out that frequently stolen automobiles are not reported to the State division until local efforts are exhausted, and, with few exceptions, the stolen cars are not reported to the State authorities until several days after the theft. Therefore, he said, it is more or less common occurrence for State police to overtake thieves before they are notified of the theft.

Usually the thieves are "picked up" for some other breach of the law.

Frequently, Mr. Frazier said, the officers find opportunity to apply a little psychology on their law breakers.

DEMOCRACY'S ISSUE.

The inability of the Democratic party to flap its wings in unison is becoming daily more pronounced. Since 1928 the Northern wing under command of Chairman Raskob has been doing most of the flapping, but it is now apparent that the Southern wing has only been gathering energy. From all indications, very little of that energy will be expended in coordination with Mr. Raskob's program.

The confab which Senators Robinson, of Arkansas; Hull, of Tennessee, and Swanson, of Virginia, held with former Gov. Byrd may be considered a pooling of strength against the proposed wet platform which Mr. Raskob advocates. The party went down to defeat in 1928 with a wet candidate. Since that time there has been an economic shake-up, but the wet and dry issue cuts through both parties just as it did three years ago. The Southern branch of the party is convinced that Democracy's one chance of victory is to take advantage of the economic situation. Senator Robinson and his following insist that the prohibition issue be relegated to the background.

From present indications the Southern branch of the party will have a large element of public opinion on its side. Senator Lewis, of Illinois, has taken a stand for placing economic issues first. Last night Senator Copeland, of New York, declared that the most pressing need of America is the relief of unemployment and the restoration of business. Prohibition, he says, has no appeal to starving men and women and suffering children. Unemployment, hunger and cold drive out of mind everything else. He considers improvement of the economic situation the fundamental political issue confronting the country.

Unless drastic changes come about before the Democratic national convention Mr. Raskob's hopes may be overwhelmed by the surge of practical politics. Economic issues will come to the front in spite of Mr. Raskob, and if he insists upon leading one faction of the party into battle under a wet banner while the South votes dry, the party will lose its best opportunity in a decade. The Democratic party must make enormous gains to win the Presidency. If it divides into two camps the Republican party will win without a struggle.

Nothing could be more obvious than the discord in Democratic ranks over prohibition. The Republicans will do everything to promote these cross-purposes. Senator Jones' announcement that Tammany Hall will be made an issue is calculated to augment the hostility between Southern and Northern Democrats. Can the fiery patriots of the South defend wet Tammany Hall? When the controlling interests in the party insist on having everything their own way they jeopardize the allegiance of the most solidly Democratic section of the country.

No such dangers of schism lie in the economic issues being pushed to the front by Senator Robinson. In view of what has happened during the last two years, emphasis of the economic issue is Democracy's best hope. Mr. Raskob has the party machine, but Senator Robinson and his colleagues have the party insight. Tammany would do well to clear itself in New York before dreaming of conquering the South.

ANTITRUST LAWS MUST STAND.

An interesting conference is being held this week in New York, with delegates gathered from twelve States under the sponsorship of the National Association of Manufacturers to consider the antitrust laws, with a view to appealing to Congress for relief from certain handicaps.

The president of the association, John E. Edgerton, explained, following the first session, that it was not the opinion of the 28 conferees present that a change in the substance of the laws, or their repeal, would be necessary. They favored, rather, administrative measures, such as the setting up of an advisory board with power to pass in advance upon the legality of consolidations and trade agreements.

The proposal offers an expedient of doubtful service. Such a board would have to be a second Supreme Court in authority. And under what possible procedure could it guarantee immunity in advance? The laws are plain. Only in connection with exports to foreign countries can trade combinations be made.

Quite recently a meeting of American producers was called in Washington at the instance of a Federal board, supported by Cabinet officers, for the purpose of consultation and possible mutual agreement regarding limitation of output. The delegates in attendance, who would not have considered such a gathering on their own initiative, felt that the character of the sponsors carried unusual authority. They were barely in session, however, before the meeting was quickly dissolved under the menace of an intimation from the Attorney General that the conferees were laying themselves liable to prosecution.

The Sherman antitrust laws have served a useful purpose as bulwarks against monopolistic combination and control of prices. Freedom of competition has built up independent industries throughout the land. If changing conditions and the opposition of gigantic foreign combinations require modification of the American restrictions upon business, the changes must be made in the basic laws. Advisory boards can not be given authority that will warrant any departure from law.

The Manufacturers Association will do well to go to the fountain head with complaints and recommendations. It should be prepared, however, to give some convincing assurance that trade combinations are not to become the means of monopolistic extortion. Modification of present laws need not be expected while big business reveals only too eagerly its readiness to restrain trade. The rule of reasonable competition must prevail until big business learns how to cooperate without resorting to monopoly.

NEW TRAFFIC DIRECTOR.

The District Commissioners are to try a new regime in traffic regulation. William A. Van Duzer, of Pennsylvania, a traffic expert, is to become director of vehicles and traffic on July 1, and for a year he is to have a "free hand."

Several traffic directors have been appointed in this District since automobiles came into vogue, and each new appointee was to accomplish wonders by being given dictatorial powers and a "free hand." Yet each in his turn found himself anything but a dictator, and his hands were tied by red tape and interference from above.

The traffic situation in Washington is distinct from that of other cities. Some rules that prevail elsewhere can be applied here with good results, but other rules acceptable in other cities are intolerable here. The traffic peaks in Washington create a problem that must be worked out in harmony with local convenience and necessity, without regard to what other communities may be doing with somewhat similar problems.

Theoretically, a traffic director should be a czar, with a heavy hand and unlimited authority. Actually he can not be a czar. There are many influential officials whose personal convenience must be respected, and who have power to topple over any czar who interferes with them. The traffic director, however expert he may be, must adapt himself to the peculiarities of the situation. He must be an expert diplomat as well as a dispatcher of motor traffic. Mr. Van Duzer will have the good will of the public and the District government, but too much must not be asked of him. Reasonable progress in working out the difficult problems of local traffic is all that should be expected.

CURTAILMENT OF WHEAT ACREAGE.

Wheat farmers have made an aggressive move toward aiding themselves. Their intention to reduce wheat acreage by nearly 15 per cent this year is the most encouraging development on the agricultural horizon for a long time. If the wheat farmers abide by their announced intentions this curtailment may change the whole trend of agriculture toward stability.

The announcement of the Crop Reporting Board is especially significant, because its figures were gathered before the Farm Board made known that it would not attempt to "peg" 1931 wheat prices. Farmers decided to reduce their wheat acreage without knowing what action the Farm Board would take. Apparently they realized that if the board purchased more wheat prices would be pushed lower because of the stored surplus.

A still further reduction of acreage may result from the Farm Board's abandonment of its stabilization program. On the other hand, there is a possibility that some farmers may extend their acreage in the hope of reaping profits from the curtailment of their neighbors. This can not be too strongly discouraged. There is no danger whatever of underproduction with more than 200,000,000 bushels in Federal storage. If the crop is small the lack of volume should be made up in higher prices. The farmers must keep faith with one another if they are to improve their situation. Their reaction to the information furnished by the Crop Reporting Board may indicate the success or failure of voluntary crop curtailment.

If farmers abide by their announced intentions the exportable surplus of wheat will probably be wiped out. The wheat acreage will be the smallest since 1918 and will amount to only about half that of 1928. When American farmers supply only the domestic market the tariff on wheat will become effective, and the price can probably be maintained consistently above the world price.

Perhaps the most significant thing about this acreage reduction is that it contravenes the arguments of Senators Borah, Norbeck and other so-called friends of the farmer in favor of agricultural subsidies. It has been their contention that farmers could not make drastic reductions in their wheat output and that therefore some premium on wheat must be paid while they were reducing. The farmers evidently have lost faith in legislative relief and have determined to stake their future on sound economic law. The advocates of an export debenture and the equalization fee have been left without a leg to stand upon. Farmers are turning from wheat to sweet potatoes, flax, feed, grains, peanuts, rice and beans, which can be more readily disposed of. The much desired shrinkage in the wheat crop is apparently about to be realized. It remains to be seen whether politicians will try to upset this return to sound economics by urging stimulating bounties and subsidies.

WHAT PAUL JONES SAID

By Commander HOLLOWAY H. FROST, U. S. N., in "We Build a Navy."

The lives of few men have been more romantic than the amazing career of Paul Jones. Few naval battles have excited more popular interest than the terrific struggle between the Bonhomme Richard and the Serapis. And I doubt if any incident of war has appealed more to readers of history than the statement of this strange man, when by every rule of battle he had already been beaten, that he was just beginning to fight. For his brief sentence, shouted out in the heat of action, summed up the character and career of Paul Jones.

In this battle a great initial inferiority was aggravated by a succession of disasters which would have disheartened any one but a Paul Jones. But as the battle progressed an awesome impression began to spread over these two ships, locked together in a fight to the finish. One personality grew stronger as defeat grew more and more inevitable. The will of one man began to dominate friend and foe alike. It was a miracle of psychology. "Long before the close of the action," said Capt. Pearson, of the Serapis, "it became apparent that the American ship was dominated by a commanding will of the most unalterable resolution, and there could be no doubt that the intention of her commander was, if he could not conquer, to sink alongside. And this desperate resolve of the American captain was fully shared and fiercely seconded by every one of his ship's company." This last idea was, as we shall see, somewhat of an exaggeration.

There was another observer of this never-to-be-forgotten scene. "I was in the maintop," wrote Midshipman Fanning, "50 or 60 feet above the quarter deck, but I could hear distinctly, amid the crashing of the musketry, the great voice of the commodore cheering the French Marines in their own tongue, uttering such imprecations upon the enemy as I never before or since heard in French or any other tongue, exhorting them to take good aim, pointing out objects for their fire, and frequently giving them direct example by taking their loaded muskets from their hands into his and firing himself."

By this time it was apparent to all that the Richard was sinking. Several of her crew, who had been below and thus had not become fully infected with their captain's heroism, cried out for quarter.

"The English commodore asked me," Jones wrote to Franklin, "if I demanded quarter, and I having answered him in the most determined negative, they renewed the battle with double fury."

The British captain is more specific as to the wording of Jones' reply: "Hearing or thinking that I heard a call for quarter from the enemy, I hailed to ask if he had struck his colors. I did not myself clearly hear the reply, but one of my midshipmen, Mr. Hood, did hear it and soon reported it to me. It was to the effect that he was just beginning to fight. This I at first thought to be mere bravado on his part. But I soon perceived that it was the defiance of a man desperate enough, if he could not conquer, to sink with his ship alongside."

The version of Lieut. Richard Dale, of the Richard, corresponds closely to that of Pearson, except that its form is negative rather than positive. According to Dale, Paul Jones replied, "I have not yet begun to fight." That is the generally accepted version. I must confess that it does not quite ring true. And, somehow, it does not sound to me like Paul Jones.

A letter from Amsterdam to an English newspaper gives the following version of Jones' reply: "No, sir. I have no thought of it, but I am determined to make you strike." That brief sentence, to me, conveys exactly and concisely the idea which Paul Jones followed with unalterable resolution through the entire battle. Unfortunately this version rests upon no specific authority.

Some English sailors who deserted the Richard after the battle gave an amusing account of the incident to the press. "In the engagement between the Serapis and Paul Jones," so they said in unwitting compliment to their former commander, "his ship was so disabled that the captain of the Serapis called out to Jones to strike, else he would sink him. To which the latter replied that he might if he could; for whenever the devil was ready to take him, he would rather obey his summons than strike to any one." In one respect these deserters were probably right. Undoubtedly Paul Jones accompanied his reply with a particularly choice selection of those imprecations which Fanning in the maintop could so distinctly hear. The picture of this famous incident would not be complete without emphasizing this primitive element of Paul Jones' character.

Some years after the battle Jones was in Philadelphia. He told the story of the fight to a party of friends. Among them was Dr. Rush. He has recorded Paul Jones' own version of his reply to Pearson. Here it is: "No, sir! I will not. We have had but a small fight yet!"

That comes from Paul Jones himself. It certainly sounds like him. And I guess that he used those words—or some very like them.

But you, reader, can also guess. And probably your guess will be just as good as mine. So take your choice. But whatever may be your decision, I know you will agree with me on one point: That Paul Jones replied to the demand for surrender, by word and deed, "in the most determined negative."

POST HASTE.

Nobody west of the Hudson River cares what Tammany might do to New York City. But Tammany in power in Washington—that's different!

Among spring humors is the attempt of city slickers to break into the Progressive big league.

That faint buzzing you hear is a spring bee at work under the Jouett Shouse sombrero—it's a refrain, something about "Vice Chairman for Vice President."

If Tom Heflin took home a new crop of stories they probably will let him stay in Alabama a while—and nobody else objects.

Democrats are not entirely pleased to see themselves juggled into a pre-campaign battle of "Tammany spigots versus Southern bigots."

A new form of quadrilateral triangle was developed when Mrs. Oliver got a divorce on the grounds that the Siamese twins were not only attached to each other but too much to her husband.

The President pays quite a tribute to Denmark's perspicacity in the sale of the Virgin Islands. The United States also gave Colombia $25,000,000, but we didn't have to take much of Panama.

The man who proposes that the Philippines be ceded to Japan believes in taking a short cut to the natural course of events.

Since the Secretary of the Interior is now responsible for the Virgin Islands he should demand a battleship, so that he can cruise in the Tidal Basin.

Fluke holes in one and thirteen-trump hands receive undue publicity. A deep finesse, well figured out, and honest average fives are aboon 'em all for a' that.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

A trial judge frequently helps culprits by talking too much with his mouth. He is full of wrath and righteousness, and he can't resist the temptation to tell the evildoers what he thinks of them.

And thus he benefits the fellows he is most eager to punish, for they appeal to a higher court and are given new trials because the trial judge was so obviously prejudiced against them.

The point to remember is that the trial judge surrenders to temptation. He is tempted to express his opinions and he does it. The remarks he makes as a matter of duty or necessity are discreet and harmless. The talk that causes the trouble is talk that results from his surrender to temptation.

Here, then, is a rule. If you feel no urge to say a thing, you can say it without risk. But if you fairly itch to express yourself, anything you say will add fuel to the flames or start a little fire of its own. It isn't an infallible rule, but it works nine times in ten. The more you wish to talk, the less you should say. When in doubt, keep still.

You have noticed, perhaps, that silence is embarrassing, but that is true only when you are silent because you have nothing to say. Silence destroys your poise then, but it actually gives you greater poise if you are deliberately silent in order to keep your own council.

Do you remember how much little girls enjoy having a secret? They feel very important and superior when they can say: "I know something you don't know."

Big girls are like that, too—and big men. Some men even feel mysterious and complacent because they know the secret handshake and pass-word of a lodge!

It is a peculiarity of human nature that you can use to improve your balance.

If you tell all you know, you feel empty and useless and ill-at-ease. You have spoken your little piece; you have done your tricks; you have exposed all of your stock. You are bankrupt. You can't hold the audience any longer. You feel helpless. You are out of bait.

Keep a reserve stock, my dear. Always have one more shot in the locker. Have always the comforting assurance that you could say a lot more if you wished. It will give you an ease and self-confidence no blabber ever feels.

Love, DAD.

Tammany Handicap.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Tammany and its Eastern allies—unless the forthcoming disclosures shall cause disruptions in their ranks—will be much stronger in the 1932 convention than in the historic predecessors just mentioned, and it is they who will name the "regular" candidate. The value of the present Republican tactics remains to be seen. But the Tammany organization is so closely identified with the management of the Democratic national machinery today that the Republicans are fully justified in making all the capital they can out of the connection. And even thus early, before the investigations have begun, they have plainly put the Democrats on the defensive.

There is positively no public sentiment in favor of the removal of Mayor Walker, notwithstanding all the clamor by the anti-Democratic newspapers and the political parsons and the Republican politicians. If an election were held tomorrow Mayor Walker would be re-elected.

Gov. Roosevelt, in the "Citizen's" opinion, made a great mistake when he failed to disapprove the petition urging the removal of the Mayor by the so-called City Affairs Committee. He knows perfectly well that Mayor Walker is no more responsible for the misdeeds of some of the 120,000 city employes than the President of the United States is responsible for grafting postmasters, prohibition agents, coast guardsmen or corrupt Federal judges. Certainly, the Governor does not hold himself responsible for the misdeeds of State employes.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

"Hickory" Thinks Tammany Issue by Republicans Will Not Get Very Far if Democrats Come in Out of the Wet.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Republican party must be in a worse fix than I have imagined if the political dispatch of the United Press, printed today (March 28), is correct:

"The Republican national committee intends to fight the 1932 presidential campaign on the issue that a Democratic victory would mean Tammany control of the White House."

The Tammany bugaboo is always good for many Republican votes, and as usual it will no doubt be worked for all it is worth in the presidential campaign of 1932. That it should be made the main issue this far ahead is, however, nonsensical.

Whatever else may be said of them, the Republicans are not lacking in political cunning, and they would be foolish to make "Down with Tammany" their national slogan with the possibility that the Democrats might take the wind out of their sails by nominating a candidate unfriendly to Tammany.

Although I am proud to consider myself a high private in the Jacksonian ranks, yet as a good American I have great respect for the party of great moral ideas. Let me also state that I am opposed to the wringing wet policy of Smith and Raskob.

Inasmuch as the Republican national committee makes a mouthpiece of Senator Wesley L. Jones I have a suspicion that the apparition of the Demon Rum in the shape of Tammany is to have a special airing in sections where it will do the most good.

If, as a result, Democracy should be irritated into sticking by Smith, Raskob and Tammany my hope for a Democratic victory next year would be gone. But such a thing is not likely so far as the rank and file are concerned, and right now I think Democracy has a good chance to win if its leaders have sense enough to get in out of the wet. HICKORY.

Big Cities Are Now the Wild, Untamed Frontiers—How Can Democracy Control Them?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: More and more the city dwellers dominate over the agragrian population. Democracy was made for small groups, where every one was watched automatically, including judge, jury and police force. In these great groups that we now have, institutions are no longer watched, the city government goes on remote from the people, and it is perfectly evident, from Chicago and New York, that it goes off the rail.

To lay this ill to prohibition, and to think that there is any cure in letting the saloon back is peurile. We have got big cities and a democratic form of government. If the big cities are not suited to a democratic form of government, why does not the vast countryside, which is mentally really what predominates in this country, put its few big cities under some special control. The nub of the situation is to find how to govern big cities, how to recover for them the watching quality that made for respectability, in the small groups that built up our country. This does not mean that the small groups are patterns of excellence, but you can clean up small groups, if the citizens so desire, and you do get from them less mob psychology and more understanding of the necessity for putting on self-discipline and self-sacrifice.

The frontier is now turned back into the cities. This is the real problem that confronts America.

Monkey and Parrot Session of Congress Would Not Help Business.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When the great masses of the American people are already laying in a substantial supply of smelling salts in preparation of the regular session of Congress next December, it would seem that for the sake of humanity the Socialists and Progressives would not have the heart to impose upon the good people by requesting a special session of Congress at this time.

With the Congress so evenly divided and a National election just around the corner, no one is anticipating any constructive legislation at the next regular session. It was due entirely to the statesmen-like efforts of the "lame ducks" in the House of Representatives that saved the country in the past session.

DISCIPLINE.

"Do this! Do that!" at school they said,
"Arms at your side! Hold high your head!
And answer not a word!
And if you break the laws we make,
The punishment you'll have to take
Precisely as incurred.
The discipline may seem severe
But no one may escape it here."

As round the ground with him I walked,
Of discipline one day we talked.

"I know," said he, "I shouldn't kick,
But still it seems we get a 'stick'
For everything we do.
Infractions made with no intent
Bring down on all their punishment."

"That's life," said I. "For through the years
Come many needless sighs and tears
Until the journey ends,
And whether great or whether small
The misstep made, on one and all
The punishment descends.
Life's code of discipline is stern,
As all who blunder quickly learn.

"Whether we like it or we don't,
Escape we never can and won't,
And grumble as we may,
For every blunder past repair
In extra hours of tedious care
We're all compelled to pay.
So brave these days of training through
For that's what life will do to you."

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Society Circus At Fort Myer Draws Throng

Flags Decorate Hall and Skill Is Evinced by Performers.

AIDED by the "troopers," all well versed in the science of equitation, Washington girls, including debs and postdebs and the juveniles, put on a meritorious performance at the opening of the two-day program of the annual society circus at Fort Myer yesterday afternoon.

Before an enthusiastic audience, which virtually filled the riding hall at the Army post, the events followed one another with professional snap.

Multicolored Army flags decorated the ceiling, and were draped around the stands where members of officialdom, Army wives and a group from residential circles gathered to see members of their families perform in various figures.

To the accompaniment of martial music and occasional jazz tunes, rendered by the Army Band, the participants, before each event, lined up at one end of the hall to stand at attention for the benefit of the guests in Mrs. Hoover's box.

The First Lady, who is sojourning in Asheville, had turned her box over to Mrs. Joel T. Boone, Mrs. Mark Sullivan, Miss Alida Henriques and Miss Bertha Boone, niece of Capt. Boone.

Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, wife of the Secretary of Commerce, smart in a mink coat and brown hat, made her appearance after the show had got well under way. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Gertrude Lamont, attired in a riding habit, and Mr. A. R. Dew, Third Secretary of the British Embassy.

Others noted were Col. and Mrs. Harry N. Cootes, whose daughter, Miss Mary Cootes took part in the jumping event; Maj. Charles P. George, all smiles over the event in which his children, Ann George and Curtis George, participated; Maj. Julian W. Cunningham, Mrs. Newbold Noyes, smart in dark brown, watching her son Newbold Noyes, jr., perform.

Also Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, whose daughter, Miss Elsie Tuckerman, was in several events; the Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, accompanied by the latter's sister Miss Katherine Phillips; Mr. and Mrs. Donald McKnew, whose daughter, Patricia McKnew, was in the "Juvenile Equestrian" class; Young Carl and Amy Kurtz, children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl R. Kurtz, thrilled over the dare-devil stunts and the clowns; and Mrs. George S. Patton, whose daughters, Miss Beatrice Patton and Miss Ruth Patton, both clever equestriennes, participated in several events.

Others were Miss Francesca McKenney, Mrs. Daniel Callahan, Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell, the latter becomingly costumed in black, with which she wore a large black hat of rough straw; and Mrs. Carolyn Mitchell, whose daughter Miss Harriet Mitchell was a participant.

Vice President Curtis will attend the performance this afternoon. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Edward Everett Gann. Preparations are under way to receive him with a fanfare of trumpets and a military escort. The last show will be given tonight.

Justice and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts and daughter, Miss Elizabeth R. Roberts, are at the Ambassador Hotel in New York for a short stay.

Mr. Hubert de Wichfeld, Counselor of the Danish Legation, and Mrs. de Wichfeld are also at the Ambassador.

Mr. Schurman Visiting In Washington.

Mr. Jacob Gould Schurman, former United States Ambassador to Germany, has arrived in Washington from his home in Bedford Hills, N. Y., and is at the Carlton for several days.

Senator Henry Wilder Keyes has with him for the Easter holidays his youngest son, Francis Keyes, and his classmate, Dana Hardwick. Both boys are captains of athletic teams at Milton Academy, Milton, Mass.

Mrs. Keyes is now in Porto Rico, where she is passing some time as the guest of Gov. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

Mrs. Victor Kauffmann has returned to her home on Twenty-fourth street after passing several weeks in St. Petersburg, Fla. Mr. Kauffmann is remaining in the South some time longer, but will return to Washington for Easter.

The Military Attache of the Chilean Embassy, Lieut. Col. Zorobabel Galeno, and Senora de Galeno have moved to Wardman Park Hotel, where they will make their home until they leave Washington next month.

Col. and Senora Galeno entertained a company at dinner last evening at the Shoreham Hotel.

Mrs. Henry Hughes Hough, wife of Rear Admiral Hough, of Washington, who was formerly attache of the embassy in Paris, has left Florence, where she has been for some months, and will be at the Lotti in Paris. She returned to Paris yesterday from a stay in London.

Mrs. Dorothy Harrison Eustis, who visited Washington last winter and while here lectured on her refuge for St. Bernard dogs at Vevey, Switzerland, is spending some time in London this spring, having just gone there from her home in Switzerland.

Victor Podoski To Be Host to Ambassadors

In honor of Mme. Henri Zaniewska, of Warsaw, Mr. Victor Podoski, First Secretary of the Polish Embassy, will entertain at tea tomorrow, when his guests will be the Ambassador of Poland and Mme. Filipowicz, the Ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel, the Ambassador of Italy and Noble Donna Antonietta de Martino, the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi and several other friends.

Mme. Zaniewska will come to Washington from Montreal on Saturday and will be at the Shoreham during her stay here. She is the wife of a Polish diplomat now with the foreign office at Warsaw. A Canadian, Mme. Zaniewska has been visiting relatives in Montreal. Having been with her husband at various posts throughout the world, she numbers among her friends the Ambassador of Japan and Mme. Debuchi, with whom she formed a pleasant acquaintance while Mr. Zaniewska represented his country in Tokyo.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. De Witt Arrive From Abroad.

Maj. Gen. John L. De Witt, quartermaster general, U. S. A., and Mrs. De Witt arrived in New York yesterday on the President Roosevelt after a trip of several weeks abroad.

Gen. De Witt made a tour of inspection of the American war cemeteries in Europe. He visited Lille, Romagne-sous-Montfaucon, Thiaucourt, Serignes-et-Nesles, Belleau and Suresnes.

Before sailing for this country Gen. and Mrs. De Witt went to Paris, where they made an official visit to the American Embassy.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilcox will have as their guest for the week-end in their apartment at the Hay-Adams House, Miss Frieda Hempel. Miss Hempel sang in Washington earlier in the season at a concert at the White House.

The Woman's National Democratic Club is keeping open house through next Tuesday afternoon as a feature of the membership drive which the club is conducting. Mrs. Edward Keating will be hostess at the tea this afternoon and will be assisted by Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. George M. Eckels and Mrs. W. C. Lansdon.

Margaret West Is Engaged to John H. Chase

Marriage to Take Place in Washington in Late Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry West announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret de Maulsby West, to Mr. John Homer Chase, of New York, son of Mrs. William Harryman Rapley, of Washington.

The wedding will take place in Washington in the late spring.

Miss West, after being graduated from Holton Arms School, attended Smith College, where she received a degree. While she was in college, she made her debut in Washington, during one of the Christmas holiday seasons.

Mr. Chase lived in Washington until about three years ago, when he went to New York to engage in business. He is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, class of '23.

Mrs. Charles Lee, of Devon, Pa., is passing a month in Washington at the Mayflower. Mrs. James Carroll Frazer entertained at a small tea for Mrs. Lee this week in her apartment at 2101 Connecticut avenue. They are friends of long standing, Mrs. Frazer having been one of Mrs. Lee's bridal attendants.

Mrs. Lee's home in Devon, the beautiful suburb of Philadelphia, is one of the loveliest in that part of the country. Many of the residents of Devon are horse fanciers, and the Devon horse show is the most famous in the East.

Mr. and Mrs. James M. Beck, jr., son and daughter-in-law of Representative and Mrs. James M. Beck, who live in London, have gone to Cannes for the spring.

The engagement has been announced of Miss Helen Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Barker, of Short Hills, N. J., and a former student at Miss Madeira's School here, to Mr. John M. Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Trowbridge Martin, of Melksham Wiltshire, England. Mr. Martin attended Oxford University. No date has been set for the wedding.

A daughter was born on Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Warren Hendricksen, of Tulsa, Okla. Mrs. Hendricksen was formerly Miss Eleanor Huston, daughter of Mr. Claudius Huston, former chairman of the Republican national committee. Miss Mildred Huston and Miss Katherine Huston are visiting their brother-in-law and sister in Tulsa.

Lady Lindsay Joins Envoy In Social Life

Entertains Small Company in Luncheon Yesterday at Embasy.

The Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Lindsay, who entertained informally at luncheon yesterday at the embassy, will entertain a small company again at luncheon tomorrow.

Their guests yesterday were the Minister of the Irish Free State and Mrs. Michael MacWhite, the Minister of South Africa, Mr. Eric H. Louw; the Charge d'Affaires of the Canadian Legation and Mrs. Hume Wrong, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Forsyth, of New York, who leave today for their home after spending several days as guests at the embassy; Col. and Mrs. Louis Little, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke and Miss Boyle, Lady Lindsay's secretary.

England is very much in the "news" at present, with the Washington visit of the novelist and playwright, John Galsworthy, in the offing and the possibility of a visit from Mr. Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, who arrived in New York yesterday.

Mr. Norman is called the "mystery man" of England. To date his plans, as far as a visit to Washington is concerned, remain a secret. It is said that he is here to consult Mr. Eugene Meyer, jr., governor of the Federal Reserve Bank, in which case his visit to the Capital would be a certainty.

Mr. Meyer and his wife, with Mr. and Mrs. William Hard, however, are vacationing in the South, so Mr. Norman's visit here will probably be postponed until their return.

Mr. Galsworthy will make his appearance April 11, when he is scheduled to give a lecture under auspices of the Community Institute.

He will doubtless be entertained at the British Embassy, although any events which take place there will be of an informal nature owing to the recent illness of Lady Lindsay, who returned from New York only a short time ago, after being there for several months recuperating. She has taken no part in the social life of the Capital of late, and any fetes at the British Embassy will necessarily be small and informal.

Miss Burroughs Married To Mr. Trammell C. Lacey.

Miss Janice Burroughs, daughter of Mr. Henry H. Burroughs, became the bride of Mr. Trammell Calhoun Lacey, of Cushing, Tex., yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The wedding took place at the home of the bride on Columbia road, with only a few friends present.

The bride had as her attendant Mrs. Wellington F. Barton. Mr. William T. Snow, of Washington, was the best man. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. A. A. Johnson. Mrs. Lacey is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority and Mr. Lacey is affiliated with Sigma Chi and Phi Delta fraternities.

To Wed in London

MLLE. ELIZABETH DE MAREES VAN SWINDEREN.

Bridal Couple After Wedding To Come Here

Elizabeth Van Swinderen to Visit Glovers on Her Honeymoon.

Washington will be the ultimate objective in the wedding itinerary of Mlle. Elizabeth de Maress van Swinderen and Mr. Frederick Hoyer-Millar, whose marriage will take place in London on April 15. After a honeymoon in Paris Mr. Hoyer-Millar will bring his bride to Washington for a visit with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Glover, before going to his post in Cairo.

Mlle. van Swinderen is the daughter of the Netherlands Minister to London and Mme. van Swinderen, the former Miss Elizabeth Glover, and the bridegroom is a member of the British Foreign Service. Mr. Charles C. Glover, jr., has already gone to London for the marriage, which will take place in St. Margaret's, Westminster.

Mlle. van Swinderen has chosen for her eight bridesmaids Lady Margaret Bingham, Lady Angela Scott, Lady Jean Dalrymple, Lady Helen Bouverie, Lady Alexandra Haig, the Hon. Joan Marjoribanks, Miss Barbara Hoyer-Miller, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Edith Lowther. Mlle. van Swinderen's wedding gown will be of the conventional ivory satin made very long with the skirt flaring at the hem. Her grandmother's old rose-point lace will trim the gown and will be draped on the tulle veil, held by a wreath of orange blossoms. The bridesmaids will wear frocks of pale anemone-mauve satin covered with deeper mauve tulle.

A reception will be held at the Netherlands Legation in Portland Square.

Mlle. van Swinderen has spent m[illegible] of her life in Washington, her most recent visit having been winter before last, when she was here with Mr. and Mrs. Glover. She made her debut in London a year or two ago. Her mother was formerly Miss Elizabeth Glover.

Mr. George C. Minnigerode has gone to Old Point Comfort.

Mrs. Greenwell Sees Her Sister In New Drama

Miss Cahill, Well Known to Capital, Now Acting in New York.

Mrs. Samuel A. Greenwell, wife of Capt. Greenwell, U. S. A., who is now stationed in Washington, has returned from New York where she went to attend the premier of "As Husbands Go," in which her sister, Miss Lily Cahill, is taking the leading role.

The Greenwells came to Washington in the early fall and will be here for four years.

Mrs. Greenwell and her sister hail originally from San Antonio, Tex. Miss Cahill since school days has been interested in the stage. She is well known to Washington's theater-going public, having been here last winter with the Theater Guild.

Mr. and Mrs. David Lawrence are in New York for a visit and are stopping at the St. Regis Hotel.

The hospitality committee of the Arts Club will present an evening of music at the clubrooms tomorrow evening following a chafing dish supper. The artists will be Miss Sonya Troyano, soprano; Mr. John Wiggins, pianist, and a trio with Miss Helen Belt, violinist; Miss Beulah Chambers, pianist, and Mr. Dore Walten, violoncellist.

Mrs. P. Augustus Simpson has returned to her apartment in the Wyoming after spending two weeks in New York.

Mrs. John T. Axton and Miss Axton have gone to New Brunswick, N. J., where they will be joined by Lieut. and Mrs. Fred R. Pitts, of West Point, for a visit with Col. Axton, of Rutgers College.

Dr. William Francis O'Donnell will return today from Baltimore, where he attended a convention of the American College of Physicians. At the session on Wednesday night Dr. O'Donnell was honored by the bestowal of a fellowship.

Miss Phyllis Hight Entertained in Egypt.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Hight have with them for the Easter holidays their son, Mr. Frank Hight, jr., who has come from Choate School, with his roommate, Mr. Frederick Keyes, of Geneva, N. Y.

Miss Phyllis Hight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hight, is in Cairo, where she has been the guest for some time of the United States Minister to Egypt and Mrs. William M. Jardine. Miss Hight and Miss Marion Jardine made their debut the same winter, when Mr. Jardine was Secretary of Agriculture. Interesting letters have been received describing Miss Hight's visit. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Jardine were dinner guests at the royal palace, and later the younger members of the family, with their guest, were invited for the large reception which followed. Miss Hight describes it as being different from anything in Washington; a strange and interesting pageant of Oriental grandeur and Western simplicity.

Former Senator and Mrs. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, made

THE advent of commercial television will raise new problems which the present radio act does not cover, in the opinion of Radio Commissioner Harold A. Lafount. New legislation will be necessary, he said, particularly to provide censorship authority.

The American home must be protected, he asserted, both from too much advertising and from immodesty or obscenity in the visual field of broadcasting.

"I believe that television transmission must be censored," he said. "I do not undertake to say by whom. There is no existing law on the subject, unless it is assumed that the existing radio act applies to visual broadcasting. Personally, I should not like to see commercialization of television until Congress has had an opportunity to enact such a law."

Senator C. C. Dill, coauthor of the radio act, stated recently that he believed that the law would apply to television as well as radio, though it provides no censorship authority except when stations fail to operate in "public interest, convenience and necessity."

A NATIONAL chain broadcast will originate in the studios of Station WRC tonight, when Ted Lewis and his Musical Clowns are heard for a half hour, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Ted is famous for his introductory line, "Is Everybody Happy?" and for the high silk hat, originally purloined from a doorman at Rector's in 1917, which he has taught to do almost everything but talk. This deficiency prevents it from appearing on the radio, though Ted still clings to it in his stage appearances. His program is made up of old favorites, including "Down the Old Church Aisle," "Wabash Blues" and "Three o'Clock in the Morning."

The tussle for American supremacy at ping pong will be reported by Graham McNamee tonight (WRC, 11:15 o'clock).

All participants in the program to be presented today (WMAL, 3 p. m.) are blind. The appearance was arranged to direct attention to the work of the New York Association for the Blind—Lighthouse, No. 1.

The trio—Andy Sannella, Lou Raderman and Frank Banta—rehearse 110 hours for 30 radio appearances weekly.

The Wesleyan University Glee Club will be presented this afternoon (WMAL, 4 o'clock) in a half-hour concert. This organization, founded in 1862, has sung twice at the White House by invitation of Presidents McKinley and Coolidge.

A dramatic sketch of pioneer days of the West—a stage coach ride from Tipton, Mo., to Los Angeles, will be offered in the Pacific Feature Hour this afternoon (WRC, 4:15 o'clock). An Indian ambush, a holdup and a "Forty-niner" jamboree are included.

THE Wilkins Coffee Orchestra has moved to the 8:30 o'clock period over WRC for the next several Saturday evenings.

Listeners are hereby reminded, now that they have the winter schedule of programs fairly well memorized, that daylight saving time, with its upheaval of schedules, commences April 26.

The course of practical self-helps in piano playing, to be conducted by Sigmund Spaeth, will begin this morning (WRC, 11:30 o'clock). The instruction charts may be obtained from the NBC.

England heard Paul Robeson over the radio almost a year ago. The radio debut of the great Negro singer was made in this country night before last.

"CHEERIO," who, under all circumstances, makes every possible effort to keep his identity a secret, is often so closely pursued by his admirers that one night recently he found it necessary to dash up a small circular iron stairway to the floor above the studio from which he had broadcast in order to escape.

Jane Interprets the Mode

Spring frocks, and those for summer, too, require form fitting and not bunching bloomers, and a sprig of embroidery or two! (Says Dah-ray.)

Paris, March 27.

LINGERIE, pronounced "Lahn-geree" if you please, since it is a French word and there is no adoption of it into the English language—well, lingerie, as I started to say, is getting more difficult every day. No sooner do we discard all our short costume slips, or make them over into little tindies, in favor of form fitting and nicely gored long slips, than the styles come along and while long, decide that underslips are to be short. Not only that but knee length panties are decreed for summer wear by the smartest Paris shops.

All in all, a poor Fashun Cricket doesn't know where she's at 'cept that anything in the lingerie line has to fit smoothly around the hips and at the bodice if any—and has to be of the finest and not too sheer material—and showable if desired. But most especially fitted and smooth under the tight hip-lines that are the demand of the day.

Just between you'n'me I don't think anyone but a mannequin will wear a transparent chiffon or lace summer dress with only knee length shorts under it. And I for one will pay a little more attention to new my lingerie fits and shows as nicely fitted under my dress, and less to the advance artillery of the mode that says that sooner or later my panties will have to show.

• • • •

To show 'em or not to show 'em, that is not the question in the new leaflet that just came back from the printers. But the darling bloomers that you can find out how to make from this leaflet are quite showable, at that—because using our basic pattern that makes a whole bloomer out of one yard of material, and one with a bias seat that doesn't have to gather at the waist, we have designed some darling sets. Better get that stamped, self addressed envelope ready to send to the Dare Department of The Washington Post right away, before you forget it—for these are bloomers et comment which is "and how" in another language!

• • • •

A little touch of plaid is so youthful, and so colorful—it's miraculous how it brightens up the most tuneless outfit. But a couple of dabs too many is too very much don't forget. I saw a lovely scarf and matching hat crown the other day, in plaid worn with a beige tweed suit. And somewhere else I saw plaid glove linings, oh, very big glove cuffs, and a wide plaid belt! That reminded me to tell you that two touches of plaid were about all you could stand in one ensemble, to be in good taste and perfectly chic.

• • • •

Just little touches of paillettes are smart—like the black paillette belt on a black lace dinner dress, and the black tulle jacket, double thickness, that had the rather wide sleeves banded in matching black paillettes about 8 inches deep.

• • • •

Do you know what they mean when they say that evening gowns are longer in the back, and slightly shorter in the front than last year? Well, no more than a couple of inches, my dear! It means not that you could possibly get the impression from the fashion journals—many of the smartest evening gowns for the coming season will cover the pump in the back, come quite to the floor, really—and be only ankle length in front.

• • • •

And if you want to know how to make the cunningest little spring hat imaginable, just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the leaflet telling you how to do it!

• • • •

Do make it a point to look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in the big Sunday Washington Post.

• • • • •

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

She Can't Make Him Jealous.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: I'm a constant reader of your column and am coming to you for advice because I've got a funny feeling that if I went to anybody I knew they would laugh at me, but it is real serious with me.

I'm engaged to a wonderful boy and ought to be the happiest girl in the world. I know he really loves me, his actions tell me that, but he's just so lofty in some things that I could shake him. No matter what I do to make him jealous he refuses to say a word about it, unless it's "Now why act like that, you know you don't really mean it, you're only acting like a spoiled child," or words to that effect. If I try telling him how interested one of the other boys is in me, he'll tell me he doesn't blame them, and then change the subject.

It's driving me wild. Isn't he human or am I crazy? He never bothers with any one else and is always doing little things for me to show me he loves me. I really love him so why can't I be satisfied? Do you know? If you do, for goodness sake tell me before I do something I'll be sorry for.

You'll think this a crazy letter, I'm sure, but really I'd be ever so much obliged to you if you could help me.

CATHERINE.

Did you read "Yankee Doodle's" letter in the column a few days ago? She has even a worse man. He did not tell her he loved her when he proposed and did not kiss her even when he gave her the badge of ownership. So you see things could be worse.

Personally, we would not say your man was out of the ordinary. A sensible man who loves a sensible woman is not easily moved to jealous rage. And what a blessing! Think of the married people whose professions make necessary situations truly quite difficult. How terrible if jealousy were spouting up and raising sand at the least opportunity.

After you are married you will be mighty thankful that you have a man who will not glower at the very approach of another male. The consciousness of a husband's jealousy can make a woman look and act positively guilty. It is the supreme misery. And it is one agony that you will be spared. When you see your married friends sitting stiffly at parties in a vain effort to keep their husbands from sulking for a week, you will understand our lack of sympathy in your plight.

And just a word for your private ear. Stop telling your lover about other men's interest in you. It is cheapening to do so. It will not make him jealous, but it will lower his estimation of you.

So stop looking for trouble and get busy hemming the dish towels instead.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF March 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 8:40 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 2 p. m. and from 9:30 p. m. to 10:45 p. m.

Events on this date (March 28) will throw you on the threshold of an altered course of life, bringing with it both regrets and pleasing compensations. Do not give any decisive answers, or enter into any binding contracts at this time.

The child born on this March 28 will have a passive nature and be indifferently ambitious. It will thoroughly enjoy the good things of life, but will never fight for them. Attention should be given to its physical welfare, if a sound adulthood is desired for it. Music will make a strong appeal to it, and it could become a musician of renown.

Activity and change are strongly shown in your life. One of your type must be busy to be happy and contented, and you are seldom caught mooning or with idle hands. With you it is work and play, and not the reverse; you never neglect your duties for your pleasures. When you have made up your mind about anything you usually stick to your decision, and you are not given to postmortem regrets. Destiny has planned many changes for you, and you will never be sailing so smoothly that you may not expect unsettled winds to blow you off your course without much warning.

One of the nicest things about you is your silent intelligence—your ear is more powerful than many tongues. You could never be called "brainy," but you are most understanding and have a large fund of common sense and a good sprinkling of humor. Others like to confide in you, and they do so with little risk, for you are not a tale-bearer. You are almost too secretive about your own affairs, and you are often bent with your own burdens or sorrows, when there are many willing hands ready to help you. You usually suffer your lot with a smile as you are rather fatalistic in your views.

You love harmonious surroundings, and possessing artistic tastes, you generally seek to make your environment as beautiful as possible. It is not easy to deceive those born under your influence of above sign, and you have remarkable intuition.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFARRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Barnard" is one of the many variations of "Bernard." "Bernard" is derived from "Berinhard," an old Germanic personal name meaning "firm bear." This name was common in England in very early days but its popularity increased noticeably in the twelfth and thirteenth centuries because of the fame of Saint Bernard, the Cistercian monk. A certain Walter Bernardi is mentioned in an English document of the year 1214. The modern German variations of this name are most numerous. Some of the commonest are "Barnhard," "Bernert," "Bernet" and "Pernhart."

The family name "Malone" has been borne by many persons famous in the history of Ireland. This name is the modern form of the original Irish "O Maoleohin" which means "the descendant of Maoleohin." The personal name "Maoleohin" means "the servant of St. John." The personal name "John" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and may be translated "the Lord's gracious gift" or "the Lord is gracious." The commonest variations of "Malone" are "Melone" and "Mullone."

Although the family name "Freeland" has the obvious meaning of "free land," it does not generally indicate an original place of residence. There is evidence that in the great majority of cases it was originally given to children as a personal name. Some of the many thirteenth century variations of this name are "Frelund," "Prelond," "Frylende" and "Prelande." In a few cases the family name "Freeland" indicates an original residence in the parish of Freeland in the diocese of Oxford.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

IS it true that the mignonette is rather hard to transplant? I lost almost all my plants last summer. After the first shift they wilted and died. RUBY T. P.

While desirable in every way, the mignonette is rather whimsical and very hard to transplant successfully. For this reason it is best to sow the seed directly in pots rather than in flats, which would mean transplanting as soon as the plants are of sufficient size to be moved. When planting mignonette, make a slight depression in the center of each pot and drop into it two or perhaps three seeds, then cover slightly with soil. When the seeds have germinated, which will be in about two weeks, thin to one plant to a pot, saving the strongest plant.

Please tell me when to prune a rambler rose which was set out last year. MRS. HENRY H. P.

The various climbing roses should be pruned as soon as they have finished flowering. Cut out such long branches as have produced great masses of bloom; this will result in the growth of long, willowy canes which will bloom next season.

The buds on my roses all decayed last summer. Is there any spray I might use at this time to prevent this calamity this year. BETTY A. L.

Your roses are suffering from a form of bud rot which can be controlled by spraying with Bordeaux mixture just as the plants start growth. Later it will be well to spray about once in two weeks until after the buds have formed.

Would it be possible to grow a European beech tree in this country as a hedge, as they grow it in England? MIISS ANABELLA H.

Yes.

Is it true that when setting out a holly tree that it is best to remove all the leaves? NANCY T. R.

Yes, you should remove about two-thirds, in some cases all the leaves, when transplating hollies. This is done to reduce transpiration. Be careful not to expose the roots to the air for any length of time. Plant a holly in well-drained soil. Most authorities recommend top dressing the soil with manure rather than mixing it with the soil.

There are white scales on the needles of my pine trees. What do you suggest doing to cure this condition? MRS. JULES T. P.

The pine-leaf scale will stunt the growth of your trees if it becomes serious. Better spray the trees in early June with nicotine solution. It is at this time when the young scales are being formed that it is easiest to control this disease.

Please tell me how deep to plant peonies. FRANCIS T. P.

Put peonies only two or three inches below the surface of the soil. The deep planting will result in the roots rotting or in small or no flowers.

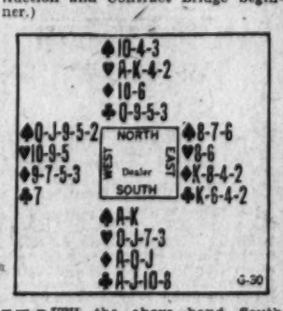
WORK ON BRIDGE

(This article is intended for the Auction and Contract Bridge beginner.)



WITH the above hand South would be playing one No Trump at Auction; three or more No Trumps at Contract.

West's original lead would be the Queen of Spades won by South. Declarer would see that he must lead Clubs from North and may want to lead Diamonds twice from that hand; and that the needed three entries in North probably can be made up in the Heart suit by winning with the Ace, King and Four—the Four being a sure winner unless the adverse Hearts are divided 4-1.

So South should lead the Queen of Hearts to trick 2 and North should play the Deuce on it. Then the Seven should be led from South and won with North's King; the Seven being led instead of the Trey so as to make North's Four good on the fourth round.

If one of the adversaries refuses on the second Heart, North will be limited to winning two Hearts; but if both follow, the three entries will have been made up.

Having won the second Heart trick, North should lead the Club Queen and South play the Jack or Ten if East does not cover, or North can lead the Nine and South play the Eight if East plays small. The important point is to keep the lead in dummy.

If West has the King of Clubs, only one Club lead from dummy is needed; but East has it. Declarer wants to capture it without sacrificing entries. With four Clubs East would not cover the Queen or the Nine; he would hope that South had only three Clubs and that the Ace would fall on the third round, making East's King good.

With the Queen led, East playing small and the Jack played by South, North's second lead would be the Nine; and with East again playing small, South would play the Eight, thus permitting dummy to lead a third Club and South to make all his Club tricks.

Now we come back to the Hearts; only one adverse Heart remains unplayed, so South leads the Jack and overtakes with dummy's Ace. Then a Diamond is finessed, and when South wins he has the Trey of Hearts to lead for North to win with the Four. This shows the importance of playing the Seven of Hearts at trick 3. Dummy, by virtue of this third Heart entry, has another lead for a second Diamond finesse and the taking of thirteen tricks.

CANCER PRIZE RITES SLATED FOR TONIGHT

Dr. Alexis Carrel Will Get Award at Annual G. U. Kober Exercises.

The Nordhoff-Jung cancer prize for 1930 and an accompanying check for $1,000, awarded by a German commission to Dr. Alexis Carrel, of Rockefeller Institute of New York, will be presented by Ambassador con Prittwitz, of Germany, tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the annual Kober exercises at Georgetown University. Ambassador Claudel, of France, Dr. Carrel's native land, will be present.

At the same time announcement will be made of the award by the Association of American Physicians of the Kober medal for 1931 to Dr. Henry Sewall, of Denver, Colo., in recognition of tuberculosis research work. Dr. Frederick George Novy of the University of Michigan, famous bacteriologist, will deliver the Kober lecture at the exercises on "Respiration of Micro-organisms."

The Nordhoff-Jung prize is awarded every two years for outstanding work in cancer research, having been founded by Dr. Sofie A. Nordhoff-Jung, of Washington, a member of the Georgetown Medical School faculty. It is being presented this year for the first time in the United States.

Dr. George M. Kober, dean emeritus of Georgetown Medical School and president of the Washington Tuberculosis Association, has made provisions under a foundation for annual medals and lectures to advance the cause of research in medicine. Today is Dr. Kober's eighty-first birthday. For a half century he has been a leader in the war against tuberculosis and in the fight to improve sanitary measures. Under the provisions of the foundation, the Kober exercises are held at Georgetown University.

G. W. U. Planning Presbyterian Club

Students Will Meet Tomorrow at New York Avenue Church.

The Presbyterian students of George Washington University will meet in the New York Avenue Church, tomorrow at 3 o'clock. Addresses will be delivered by Mark Woods, president of the Presbyterian Club in Maryland University; Dean William A. Wilbur, of George Washington University, and Dr. William L. Young, of Philadelphia, director of university work for the Presbyterian churches.

A plan of organization of a Presbyterian Club, worked out by a committee of university students including Andrew V. Allison, William B. Hanback, and Edith Mitchell in conference with Dean Wilbur, Rev. D. Hobart Evans, Rev. Stanley White and Rev. J. R. Duffield will be submitted for consideration.

Epiphany Choir to Sing Du Bois Sacred Cantata

Dr. Z. B. Phillips, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, will preach on Good Friday at noon, and that evening at 8 o'clock the Epiphany choir, under the direction of Adolf Torovsky, will sing DuBois' sacred cantata, "The Seven Last Words."

The addresses at the afternoon services at 4:45 o'clock will be delivered by the parish clergy as follows: Monday, the rector; Tuesday and Friday, the Rev. Alvin Lamar Wills; Wednesday, the Rev. Dr James W. Morris, and Thursday, the Rev. Dr. Francis Yarnall, vicar of Epiphany Chapel.

Men's Bible Officers Installed Tomorrow

J. Morville Barker, former president, will install the newly elected officers of the Men's Bible Class of Eastern Presbyterian Church at the class session tomorrow morning.

The new officers are: Teacher, George H. Winslow; president, J. C. Rundles; first vice president, T. J. McAdams; second vice president, Earl J. Bush; secretary, R. E. West; assistant secretary, Beverly M. Leache; treasurer, J. P. Hunnicutt; assistant treasurer, J. C. Kauffman; social secretary, D. J. Roberts.

Dr. Sizoo Will Ordain Deacons on Thursday

The Lord's Supper was instituted by Jesus Christ on Thursday night. In commemoration of this event the Easter Communion service at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church will be held the same evening. This is said to be one of the most impressive services held during the year at this historic old church.

Dr. Sizoo, the minister, will install and ordain the deacons and elders recently elected at the congregational meeting on this occasion.

Women End Revival Tomorrow.

Miss Amy Lee Stockton and Miss Rita Gould, who have been conducting a three weeks' revival at the Metropolitan Baptist Church, will close out these services tomorrow. On Tuesday they return to Grand Rapids, Mich., where they begin their fifth campaign in the Wealthy Street Baptist Church.

ESSAY JUDGE

WILLIAM J. COOPER.

COOPER WILL PRESIDE AT ENVOYS' SELECTION

only three and one-half days until their essays in the European good-will trip contest must be in the hands of their teachers, this group of young people is becoming increasingly active. Libraries are being besieged for information; parents and teachers are being quizzed as to their ideals of American youth, and books are being eagerly studied in the hope of acquiring a new idea that will aid in assuring the student of the coveted trip.

Moss Stimulates Interest.

Personal appearances by Col. James A. Moss, president general of the Flag Association, at some of the leading high schools during the week restimulated interest in the contest and gave a new impetus to the efforts of those already engaged in writing the necessary essay, which determines the two students to be selected from each school for part in the preliminary test. The boys are writing on "The Typical American Boy" and the girls on "The Typical American Girl."

Since the announcement that the preliminary test on April 11 would consist in part of a written examination on American history and the ideals of the American flag, the office of the United States Flag Association has been besieged with requests for information as to where literature bearing on the flag may be found. The Flag Association can not answer questions over the telephone, all information being printed first in The Washington Post. There is published a book, "The American Flag, Its Glory and Grandeur," which may be obtained at any public library, and which furnishes complete information in regard to the flag, its ideals and principles for which it stands.

Seek Best-Fitted Pair.

Every effort is being made to pick the best possibly fitted boys and girls for this trip, which will take 63 American boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18 years to Europe on a good-will trip, to convey the friendly greetings of the boys and girls of the United States to the boys and girls of France. It is felt that the boy and girl best fitted to make the trip will be those with the best knowledge of the history of their own country and their own flag.

Pride of our country and loyalty to one's flag inculcates into the child the respect for the same love of country and flag on the part of other children of other countries, it is pointed out by the United States Flag Association officials, creating a rational patriotism that will lead to council tables in the settling of disputes rather than to the battlefields.

Interest in the contest is spreading by leaps and bounds. People in other cities, reading of the Washington contest in The Washington Post, are writing in to learn if similar contests can not be established in their respective localities. Whenever possible such contests will be arranged, until arrangements for selecting the entire delegation of 63 children have been made. Because of the desire to carry out the idea of the "Living Flag," as explained in yesterday's Washington Post, the delegation is strictly limited to this number.

Former World Editor Joins Herald-Tribune

New York, March 27 (U.P.).—The New York Herald-Tribune will announce in its editions of tomorrow morning that Walter Lippman, formerly editor of the New York World, has joined its staff of special contributors.

He will write a signed column dealing with topics of his own choosing "and will be given the same latitude that is accorded all contributors to its columns who write under their own signatures," the announcement said. Mr. Lippman sailed tonight on the Saturnia for Greece and the Balkans. After spending the spring and early summer in those countries and Italy, he will return to New York to assume his new duties.

Sixth Presbyterian To Hear 3 Preachers

Three preachers will participate in the Holy Week services at the Sixth Presbyterian Church next week. Tomorrow morning the minister, the Rev. Godfrey Chobot, will preach the Palm Sunday discourse, and in the evening Dr. Florian Vurpillot, pastor of the French Congregation, will officiate.

On Wednesday evening the Rev. Frank S. Niles, minister of the Georgetown Presbyterian Church, will be in the pulpit; on Thursday evening the Lord's Supper will be celebrated, and at the Good Friday service Dr. Douglas P. Birnie will be the special preacher.

Flowers Will Feature Confirmation Reunion

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock the annual confirmation reunion of Concordia Lutheran Church will be held. The young people's organizations will present flowers to the oldest members of the oldest confirmation classes present. Dr. Paul A. Menzel, a former pastor of Concordia Church, will speak on "The Unfailing Virtue."

The consecration service will be conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Charles Enders. A social hour will follow the worship service.

Washington Pythians Will Greet Virginians

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., March 26.—The local lodge of Pythians has received an invitation from the Washington Lodge to attend a meeting of the uniform rank in the Pythian Temple in Washington on April 20, when officers will be installed by Col. Keefer, of Westminster, Md.

A large number of members from the Fredericksburg Lodge are making plans to attend the session.

GANDHI IS CERTAIN OF CONGRESS' VOTE

Mahatma Will Go to London With Full Approval of Truce's Terms.

Karachi, India, March 27 (A.P.).—Vindicated in all his principles, Mahatma Gandhi is certain to carry everything before him at the present All-India National Congress and go to the second round table conference in London with the undivided strength of the convention and India's millions behind him.

The congress working committee, which corresponds to the platform committee of an American political convention, passed resolutions today ratifying the term of Gandhi's truce with Viceroy Irwin and designating him as the chief Nationalist plenipotentiary at London.

Victory Is Assured.

That Gandhi will win almost complete unanimity at the convention and emerge as a greater figure than ever before was further assured by the dramatic eleventh-hour capitulation of Subhas Bose, leader of the Revolutionary party, who instructed his followers to support India's ascetic leader in the interests of national unity. It was from this group, which advocates violence in achieving India's freedom, that Gandhi expected the most determined opposition.

Approved by the All-India Congress committee, which embraces representatives of all provincial congresses, one resolution memorialized the bravery and sacrifice of Baghat Singh and his two comrades, who were hanged at Lahore this week for revolutionary activities, but disassociated itself from political violence in any form.

Boycott on Goods.

India's absolute independence, qualified by the declaration that such independence does not necessarily exclude the possibility of association with England or equal partnership with other components of the British Commonwealth.

An absolute boycott of foreign goods as a necessary measure to promote native industries, making it clear that the boycott of British goods shall not be used as a political weapon.

Redeclaration of the policy of massed nonviolence to achieve India's freedom.

Release of all political prisoners identified with the present movement, whether violent or nonviolent.

Union Communion in Chevy Chase.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock will be the first Union Lenten Communion service at the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, in which members of the Chevy Chase Methodist Church, the Wesley Methodist Church and the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church will unite.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES ARRANGE HOLY WEEK

Elaborate Program Planned at Church of Immaculate Conception.

An elaborate program has been planned for the observance of Holy Week at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at Eighth and N streets northwest, of which the Rev. Francis J. Hurney is pastor.

On Wednesday, Holy Thursday and Good Friday, the tenebrae services at 7:30 p. m. will be sung by the Friars of the Atonement. The preacher at this service on Tuesday will be the Rev. Stanley Czyz, assistant at Immaculate; on Thursday the Rev. Vincent Koraki, U. S. N.; on Good Friday Father Hurney will deliver the sermon.

On Holy Thursday a solemn high mass and procession at 9 a. m. Father Hurney will be celebrant, Father Czyz will be deacon and Father Mathias, of the Atonement Friars, subdeacon.

On Good Friday the mass of the presanctified will be said at 9 a. m. by Father Czyz. The "Three Hours Agony" will be preached by the Rev. Joseph V. Buckley. The service at which Father Hurney will preside, will last from noon until 3 o'clock and will be broadcast by Station WOL. The soloists of the service will be Miss Florence Yocum Miss Mary O'Donoghue, William Cross, Lawrence Downey. There will be no reserved pews at this service.

On Holy Saturday there will be blessing at 8 a. m. by Father Czyz. The mass of the dawn will take place at 9 a. m. and confessions will be heard from 3 to 6 and 7:30 to 9.

On Easter Sunday there will be a solemn high mass at 11 o'clock which Father Hurney will celebrate and at which he will preach the sermon.

The Washington Catholic radio hour, broadcast every Sunday afternoon from the church, will, on Easter Sunday at 5 o'clock, introduce the Rev. Raphael Burke, prior of St. Dominic's, in the first of his series of sermons on this hour. This service is directly broadcast from the church through Station WOL.

Franciscan Monastery.

The Church of the Franciscan Monastery in Brookland, following a ritual similar to that used in the Holy City of Jerusalem, will usher in the Holy Week services tomorrow with the blessing of palms and a solemn high mass during which the Passion of Christ will be sung. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the office of tenebrae will be chanted by the community at 4 o'clock. Holy Thursday the solemn services will begin at 9 o'clock, followed by the mandatum (washing of the feet). There will be the holy hour at 8 in the evening.

On Good Friday the Passion of Christ will again be sung, followed by the veneration of the cross and the mass of the presanctified. The way of the cross will be made out-of-doors at 3 in the afternoon, and the sacred pageant of the funeral of Christ, with sermon by the Rev. Anthony Braun, will be held at 8 in the evening.

On Holy Saturday the services begin at 6:30, and in the evening at 8 o'clock is the beautiful resurrection service.

A special feature of Easter Sunday are the holy masses in the Holy Sepulchre, which is an exact reproduction of the one in Jerusalem. The solemn mass will begin at 9 o'clock, with an elaborate musical program under the direction of the Rev. Bonaventure Simon, and with Prof. George H. Wells at the organ. The Monastery Choir will sing the Mass of Vanden Elsen; "Vidi Aquam," by Hamma; introit, "Sequence and Communio in Gregorian," with gradual and offeratory by Dress. At the solemn benediction service, which takes place at 3:30 in the afternoon, will be heard Meuer's "Panis Angelicus" and Ett's "Tantum Ergo." The services are open to the public and no tickets of admission are issued.

St. Dominic's Church.

Palms will be blessed and distributed at the high mass, 11 a. m., on Palm Sunday, at St. Dominic's Church, Sixth and E streets southwest.

Tenebrae will be sung by the students of the Dominican House of Studies, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings, at half-past 7 o'clock.

The morning services Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be at 8 o'clock.

The Three Hours' Agony will be conducted on Friday from 6 to 9 o'clock p. m., instead of at midday. This is a departure being inaugurated at St. Dominic's for the convenience of thousands of workers who are not free from 12 to 3.

St. James' Church.

St. James' Catholic Church, Mount Rainier, Md., will hold special services throughout Holy Week. Palm Sunday masses, 7, 9 and 10:45 a. m.; blessing and distribution of palms before the 10:45 mass; stations of the cross, benediction of the blessed sacrament, 7:30 p. m.

Holy Thursday — Holy Communion at 7 a. m., high mass and procession to the repository at 9 a. m., holy hour at 7:30 p. m.

Good Friday—Services at 9 a. m., stations of the cross, sermon, veneration of the cross, 7:30 p. m.

Holy Saturday — Services begin at 7:30 a. m., high mass will start about 8:30 a. m.

Two Will Preach For Dr. Wilfley

Drs. Harmon and Roberts in Pulpit Tomorrow; Special Music.

Dr. Earle Wilfley, the minister of the National City Christian Church, is slowly recovering from his recent severe illness, but is not yet able to resume his place in his pulpit. During his absence several able members of his church from other cities have been preaching for him. Tomorrow two ministers from widely separated parts of the nation will preach at this church—Dr. H. H. Harmon, of Indianapolis, and Dr. T. T. Roberts, of Cisco, Tex. Dr. Harmon will preach in the morning and Dr. Roberts in the evening.

Dr. Harmon is secretary of endowments for the national board of education of his church, and is also in charge of the organization that financed the building of the National City Church. Dr. Roberts is president of Randolph College.

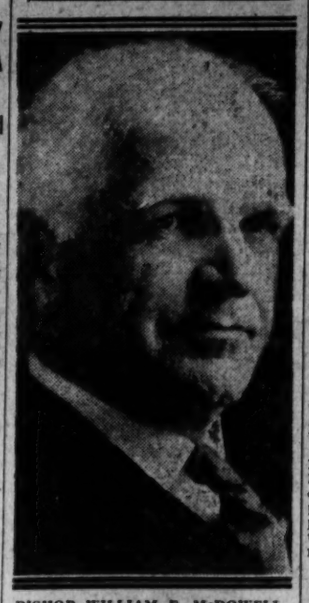
Special music appropriate to Palm Sunday will feature both services, with Walter S. Pagan, jr., as trumpeter at the morning hour, and Miss Inez Becker, a recent graduate of the Franz Liszt Conservatory of Music of Budapest, as violin soloist in the evening.

First Congregational Will Hear Dean Weigle

The Rev. Luther A. Weigle, dean of Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Conn., will be the preacher tomorrow morning and evening at First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest. Dr. Weigle is the author of several books on religious education.

There will be special music by the Vested Chorus Choir of 80 voices at both services. "The Palms" will be sung Sunday morning by Dorothy Wilson Halbach, contralto, and Francesco Della-Lana, tenor.

LENTEN SPEAKER



BISHOP WILLIAM F. McDOWELL, speaker at the noonday Lenten services all next week in New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Bird Will Preach 7 Sermons Next Week

Dr. Andrew Reid Bird, minister of the Church of the Pilgrims, will preach a series of seven sermons on the last words of Jesus as He hung on the Cross, beginning tomorrow morning and continuing through Friday night. The evening services will begin at 7:45 o'clock.

The subjects announced for this special series are tomorrow morning, "Love Triumphant;" evening, "Love Rewarded;" Monday, "Love Remembered;" Tuesday, "Love Amazed;" Wednesday, "Love in Want;" Thursday, "Love Victorious," and Friday, "Love at Rest."

Watch Service in Brightwood Church.

There will be a morning watch service of the District Epworth Leagues of the city at Brightwood Park Methodist Church, Eighth and Jefferson streets northwest, tomorrow at 7 a. m. The pastor, the Rev. Walter M. Michael, will speak on "The Hidden Road" and Mrs. Sara Neifert will sing "The Palms." Breakfast will be served at 8 o'clock.

CURTIS WILL PLACE NEW CORNER STONE

Vice President Will Feature Metropolitan Church Rites Easter Day.

Vice President Charles Curtis will lay the corner stone of the new Metropolitan Memorial Church on Easter Sunday at 4 p. m. in the presence of the members and three bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church as well as the pastor, Dr. James Shera Montgomery, who will officiate. Bishop William F. McDowell of the Washington area, Bishop Frank Bristol and Bishop John W. Hamilton will participate. Mr. Curtis will use the same trowel used by George Washington in laying the corner stone of the Capitol.

The new church is located at New Mexico and Nebraska avenues, in Wesley Heights, and occupies a portion of a triangular lot containing approximately 1½ acres. When completed, the entire building, including the Campanile Tower, will cost in the neighborhood of $800,000.

Occupied 62 Years.

The cost of the site amounted to $30,000, and the unit now being built, consisting of the nave, will be $270,000. A total of $190,000 was received from the Federal Government for the old church at John Marshall place and C street northwest, which was occupied for 62 years as a church. All of the old memorial windows, tablets and sacred relics will be used in the new structure.

Dr. Montgomery is serving his second pastorate at Metropolitan, having served for four years from 1911 to 1915. He announced today that $20,000 had been pledged as a memorial for the new Skinner organ.

Metropolitan Church is national in concept and scope. In 1852 it was resolved by the General Conference to erect in Washington a church which would be regarded as a monument to Methodism, and in 1869 the original church was dedicated.

Among the national figures who have worshiped in Metropolitan are President Grant, President McKinley, Vice President Fairbanks, Salmon P. Chase and John A. Logan. Mr. Curtis occupied the President's pew in the old church.

Formal Dedication Later.

The formal dedication of the new church building will probably take place in October or November of this year. Though the structure will not be entirely completed by that time, it is expected that it will be near enough to completion that services may be held.

BIBLE LEADER

WILLIAM C. BOND.

Mt. Pleasant Arranges Communion Thursday

The Easter communion, with reception of new members, will be celebrated on Holy Thursday evening, and on Good Friday evening the Mount Pleasant Congregation Chorus, under the direction of Claude Robeson, will sing Stainer's "Crucifixion," with solo parts taken by Miss Elsie Schulze, soprano; Miss Mary Apple, contralto; William P. Shanahan, tenor, and Herman Fakler, bass.

Will Lead Annual Ingathering.

Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, of Rochester, N. Y., will give the main address at the annual "ingathering" of the Woman's Council of the Washington Federation of Churches this year. The service is to be held on Wednesday, April 8, at 2 o'clock, in the Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, 1410 Columbia road.

A very beautiful service is being planned for Easter morning in the Elizabeth Somers Memorial Chapel of the Mount Vernon Seminary on Nebraska avenue in which the members are meeting for worship pending completion of the new building. Mrs. Somers was a devout member of the congregation during her life and her brother, Dr. Thomas M. Eddy, was one of the first pastors of the church. Students of the school will attend with their vested choir singing the Easter music. Mrs. Caroline Schoenthal, soprano soloist for the church, will sing.

W. C. Bond Heads Bible Institute

Accepts Presidency Offered to Him by Cabinet of Institution.

William C. Bond has accepted the presidency of the American Home Bible Institute, the position being offered him by the cabinet of that institution. Mr. E. W. Collamore, former president of the Bible Institute, died in August, 1930, and since that time the cabinet members have directed the work.

Mr. Bond is a young man, having received his A. B. degree from Lafayette College, having also taken special work in the Harvard Graduate School of Administration, and is a graduate of the Providence Bible Institute. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bond are well known in many Washington churches for their work among the young people.

The American Home Bible Institute was organized in 1918. Since that time scores of classes have been conducted in churches and homes in Washington and, in addition, many classes and individuals, both in this country and in Canada, have been directed in systematic Bible study. The present headquarters of the institute is at 837 Allison street.

Revival Lasting Week Planned by Dr. Melton

Dr. Benjamin H. Melton, pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church, announces a one-week revival for his church, to begin Palm Sunday and end Easter Sunday, with the Rev. C. N. Williams doing the preaching.

Each night in the week a different group in his church will have charge of the services, and the chorus choir, which will have charge of the music, will be under several different leaders.

Reunion Is Arranged Of Confirmation Classes

Tomorrow evening at the 8 o'clock service, a reunion will be held at Grace Lutheran Church to which the members of confirmation classes of past years are being invited.

An effort is being made to locate the oldest of the church's confirmed members as well as members of the first class confirmed more than 50 years ago. The sermon for the evening will have as its subject: "Confirmation Memories."

Girls to Feature Easter Pageant.

An Easter pageant, "The Resurrection," will be the main feature of the Easter sunrise service on Temple Heights this year. The participants will be young ladies in training at Rust Hall under the direction of Miss Decker.

SUNRISE SERVICES PLANNED ON EASTER

Three Include Rites at Walter Reed Hospital and at Arlington Cemetery.

Easter morning will be ushered in here by three sunrise services, one a memorial service at Arlington, one held on Temple Heights under the auspices of the Federation of Churches, and the third in the grounds of Walter Reed Hospital, under the auspices of the United States Army and under the direction of Capt. R. Earl Boyd, Chaplain of the Army Medical Center.

If the weather is bad, provision has been made for holding the Federation service at the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church. In addition to the church groups, a number of young people's organizations will participate in this religious ceremony.

Walter Reed Hospital expects to care for 35,000 celebrants this Easter, and their expectation is that this will be the largest sunrise Easter congregation in the United States, at least in Eastern America. Last year nearly that number were present.

Will be Broadcast.

The service will be broadcast over a national hook-up that will carry it to every part of the continent and wherever there is an Army station in continental America and in the Carribean islands.

One of the features of the service will be the living cross, constituted of the nurses of Walter Reed; and another will be the tableau, "The Empty Tomb," presented by the Army student nurse corps.

It will be strictly an Army affair, at which the entire corps in Washington, with many civilian officials, will be present.

In Arlington Cemetery.

They have planned a sunrise memorial service to be conducted in Arlington National Cemetery. An elaborate program has been arranged for the occasion under the supervision of the religious committee of the grand commandery, with Eugene E. Thompson chairman.

The Rev. Ze Barney Phillips, who is rector of Epiphany Church and chaplain of the United States Senate, will deliver the sermon. The Rev. James Shera Montgomery, who is pastor of the Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, chaplain of the United States House of Representatives and grand prelate of Knights Templar, will officiate in part of the services. The Rev. Capt. Sydney K. Evans, chief of chaplains of the United States Navy, and the Rev. John G. Palmer, who is pastor of the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, grand chaplain of the grand lodge and Royal Arch Masons, and prelate of Washington Commandery, will assist in the services.

Selected music is being prepared for the event. The Masonic Glee Club, Warren W. Grimes, director, will render special numbers and lead the hymns. The United States Marine Band, under the direction of Capt. Taylor Branson, will furnish the music.

Hugh Paull to Head Young People's League

At the annual dinner of the Presbyterian Young People's League of Washington, held on Tuesday evening at Eastern Presbyterian Church, the following young people were elected as officers for the coming year:

President, Hugh Paull of Eastern Church; first vice president, Vernon Smith of Arlington, Va.; second vice president, John Cook of New York Avenue Presbyterian Church; third vice president, Miss Elizabeth Morrow of Gunton-Temple Church; fourth vice president, Frank Plager of Sherwood; secretary, Mrs. Dorothy Curtiss and treasurer, Mr. Henry D. Curtiss, both of Metropolitan Church; first member-at-large, Scott Pollock of Eckington Presbyterian Church; second member-at-large, Miss Grace Wooden of Fourth Church; third member-at-large, Miss Helen L. Lyon, of Covenant-First Presbyterian Church.

Crimson Cross to Light Metropolitan Baptist

Dr. John Comton Ball will hold special communion services next Thursday night at the Metropolitan Baptist Church. Several people will be baptized and old-time songs will be sung by the congregation. The Scripture texts referring to the institution of the Lord's Supper will be read by Miss Florence Gravette, Mrs. Hugh Weston, Deacon L. T. Gravette and Superintendent E. B. Shaver.

The reading of Jesus in Gethsemene will be given by Miss Maude A. Saunders and the story of the crucifixion will be read by Deacon William Scholey and Mr. Victor Koons. Special music will be rendered by the choir and a large illuminated crimson cross will decorate the platform, the light of which will be the only light used during the service.

Dr. Freeman to Confirm Epiphany Church Class

Bishop James E. Freeman has a busy week ahead of him. Tomorrow morning he will be in his old pulpit at the Church of the Epiphany, when he will preach and confirm a large class. In the afternoon at 4 o'clock he will preach in Bethlehem Chapel at the regular evensong, a service that will be broadcast over WMAL. On Tuesday evening he will visit Epiphany Chapel to confirm a class; and on Thursday evening at Trinity Church he will administer the rites of confirmation to a large class.

During Holy Week Bishop Freeman will be the noonday preacher at the Epiphany from Monday through Thursday.

Y. M. C. A. to Conduct Services for Boys

The Y. M. C. A. will hold a Sunday afternoon service at the National Training School for Boys tomorrow. J. J. King, head master of Woodward School, will lead the singing, and a motion picture, entitled "The Welcome Guest," will be shown with a brief talk on the same subject given by Louis B. Nichols, associate religious work director.

E. A. Drumm, employment director, will also assist in the service.

Migrant Children Topic of Meeting.

At the meeting of the Woman's Interdenominational Missionary Federation Friday afternoon, at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, Mrs. G. C. D. Townshend, of Francis Asbury Methodist Church, will preside and present a program in the interest of migrant children in the United States.

Sentence Sermons

By DR. SAMUEL JUDSON PORTER

(Pastor First Baptist Church.)

Loch Lomond and Loch Long

ON three different occasions we see Paul look death in the face without wincing—once when the mob was on the point of killing him in the Temple court, once when his ship was wrecked on the Mediterranean Sea, and once when he sat in prison in Rome calmly awaiting the end. In all three instances there was not a word indicative of fear, but rather the note of assurance and hope, as when in the Roman prison instead of repudiating his belief, he reaffirms it, saying—"I know whom I have trusted, and I am certain he is able to keep that which I have put into his hands till that Great Day."

Only a mile intervenes between Loch Lomond and Loch Long. Loch Lomond is an inland lake whose waters I have seen so disquieted and boisterous that they lashed the shores with angry waves. Loch Long is an arm of the sea whose waters are usually so perfectly calm that through their lucid depths may be seen the seaweed rooted on the rocks beneath. And the life of the soul, when it is like a small isolated lake, is quickly disturbed, and little annoyances toss it into convulsions. But when the soul is acquainted with God, when it knows its vast relationship and feels the tidal flow of the infinite within itself, it possesses the secret of a great calm, and the trivial things leave it undisquieted. When the soul knows God it can be still and rest.

CHURCHES PREPARE FOR PALM SUNDAY

Impressive Ceremonies to Be Observed Commemorating Christ's Entry.

Next to Easter, which is a sort of threefold celebration—it being the anniversary of the Lord's resurrection, the time when nature begins to blossom, and the occasion for erring man and woman to adorn themselves like Solomon in all his glory—Palm Sunday is the greatest feast day in the Christian Church.

It commemorates a memorable event in the life of the founder of the Christian Church. His entry into Jerusalem and the beginning of His firm and steady march to His crucifixion. That was a glad day with his followers in the City of David, for they broke palm branches from the trees and waved them as he passed along seated on the back of the humblest of carriers, an ass's foal. His pathway was literally strewn with them, and so the palms have come to be a symbol in the Christian religion, which some of the churches have held on to, notably the Catholic and the Episcopal.

Will Observe Holy Day.

In all of the churches in this diocese the Holy Day will be observed. The word "diocese" is used in its broadest sense, for it does not belong exclusively to any church, though one or two have appropriated it in their nomenclature. In reality it is an administrative unit, and was originally under the Roman law a civil unit, so organized by Diocletian and the great Constantine, who called it a prefecture. Later it became an ecclesiastic term, and now it broadly means a circuit. Whether it be called diocese, presbytery, district, or what not, it all means the same thing and so far as Washington is concerned it embraces the District of Columbia and its environs, including the suburb of Baltimore.

Episcopalian and Catholic clergy will bless the palms tomorrow in an impressive ceremony and then distribute them to the faithful, who will go forth from their houses of worship carrying this symbol of the event they have just been celebrating.

Music to be Appropriate.

In the churches in which the palms do not play a part the service will be just as impressive and almost as ceremonial. Much of the great music that will be used in all of the churches will be the same, for in creating it the master musicians have devoted all of their talent and creative genius. There is a universality in music that is possessed by none of the sister arts, and it knows no creed and no denominational line.

Preparatory to Palm Sunday practically all of the churches have arranged special music, and this will be featured. In many of the churches new members will be received into membership.

After Palm Sunday comes the sad events, the terrible events one might call them, of the procession to the cross, each full of significance in the Christian system. These will be earnestly observed throughout the week until the anniversary of the entombing of Christ, which bears the name Good Friday. A silent day follows. And then joyous Easter!

Luncheon to Conclude Mayflower Services

On Wednesday Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo will conclude his annual series of Lenten lectures held weekly during the Lenten season in the ball room of the Mayflower Hotel, with a lecture on "The Strength and Weakness of Christianity." This lecture will bring to a close a series of studies dealing with the strength and weakness of the various world religions.

Directly at the close of the lecture a luncheon will be served in the Chinese room of the Mayflower Hotel for those who have shared this series of Lenten lectures. At this time Dr. Sizoo will answer questions concerning this particular series of lectures on religion that have been asked him from time to time.

Holy Week Sermons At Covenant-First

Dr. Albert Joseph McCartney, minister of the Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, will preach a series of special sermons during Holy Week, beginning with the sermon tomorrow morning. These services on the week days will be held at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and will have the following subjects: Monday the subject is "A Place Called Gethsemane;" Tuesday, "About a Stone's Throw Farther;" Wednesday, "And Peter Followed Afar Off;" Thursday, "When He Had Tasted, He Would Not Drink;" Good Friday, "Now There Stood by the Cross of Jesus—?" and Easter Day, "If They Could Come Back From the Other World, for Whom Would You Ask?"

Dr. McCartney will personally administer the communion to those who wish. Music furnished by the Covenant Quartette.

Communion in Silence Planned in Petworth

Dr. George W. Cooke and Harold Vignuelle, the Gospel crusaders, who recently conducted a revival at the Petworth Methodist Church, will return Wednesday for special one night services in that church. On Thursday evening Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Public Morals, will preach.

Friday evening the Rev. Robert Louis Wood, the pastor, will conduct a service that he calls "The Service of the Old Rugged Cross." It will tell in scripture and hymns the story of Good Friday. At its conclusion communion will be served in silence at the foot of the cross.

Keller Church School Holds Rally Tomorrow

The Keller Memorial Lutheran Sunday School will hold its annual spring rally tomorrow morning at 9:30 in the building at Ninth and Maryland avenue northeast. More than 1,000 persons are expected to attend.

On Palm Sunday last year about 1,050 were present. A Bible lesson on "Humility" will be taught from the platform, and special selections will be rendered by the large orchestra. Mrs. Paul D. Miller and Mrs. E. V. Benham will sing a duet. The public is invited to this service.

Dr. Shelton Will Hold Holy Week Services

Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church South, announces a special series of services for each evening of Holy Week, except Saturday.

From Monday through Thursday, the services will be held in the Sunday school auditorium. On Friday evening they will be held in the main auditorium, when the choir will sing Mendelssohn's great oratorio, "St. Paul."

Three to Address Ministers Union

Officers Will Be Elected on Monday in New York Avenue Church.

The meeting of the Ministerial Union of Washington and vicinity will be held Monday morning at 11 o'clock in New York Avenue Presbyterian Church. The program includes three speakers: Oliver O. Kuhn, managing editor of the Evening Star, will talk on "The Pastor and the Press;" J. M. Gibbs, organizer for cities, States and towns, will speak about the relation of the churches to the approaching bicentenary celebration of the birth of George Washington, which occurs next year; Dr. Samuel J. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will give a Lenten address.

Dr. H. B. Melton, pastor of the Ninth Street Church of the Disciples, will preside. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected. The meeting will close at 12:15 in time for the Lenten service, at which Bishop William F. McDowell will speak.

Universalist Choir Will Render Cantata

One of the most popular of the cantatas that will be sung in many of the churches tomorrow will be Maunder's "From Olivet to Calvary." This noted work recalls simply and reverentially some of the scenes which mark the last few days of the Saviour's life on earth, and some of the reflections suggested thereby.

In one church, the Universalist National Memorial, the choir, under the direction of Dr. Albert W. Harned, will use this canta for vesper services, which will be held in the afternoon, beginning at 4:30 o'clock. Maunder's work gives full scope for the effective singing.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

A SKIN DISEASE FROM RATS.

A CERTAIN part of northeast Texas is trying to supply new diseases for old. The section engaged in this laudable enterprise is Dallas and the nearby country. The new disease is rat mite dermatitis. It is caused by the bite, not of the rat itself, but of a mite which infests rats. There are a number of varieties of mites and more than one will bite man if no other food is available.

If the rat mite can cause disease in man it is not beyond possibility that chicken mites and other members of the mite family have the same evil power. Something over a year ago there came some tragedy in the rat life of northeast Texas. In certain regions there was a rat exodus similar to that of the Israelites from Egypt, but still more along the lines of various other established rat migrations. This exodus was supplemented by some local rat campaigns. Because of these incidents rat hosts became inaccessible and the mite had to find other food supplies as well as other homes.

An epidemic of dermatitis developed. More than 200 cases were recorded and perhaps a still larger number were missed. Complaints came from theaters, movies, stores, boarding houses, hospitals, and homes that they were infested with mites. Insects were caught and identified as rat mites. The complaint was of the eruption.

In most cases the bite was similar to that of a bedbug. In many it looked like a chigger bite. But there were many cases in which the eruption was not so easily diagnosed. In many the eruption had the appearance of nettlerash. In some there were blisters around the bite. It was in children that the tendency to form blisters was noticed, and since some of these children had fever chickenpox was often suspected and occasionally it was diagnosed. In most of the typical cases nettlerash was the diagnosis. Occasionally a case was called eczema.

Tomorrow's article will deal with an infective fever which appeared to be spread by this mite.

It is not necessary to call the rats back in order to end the source of danger. Infested premises are easily cleared by the use of fumigants, followed by cleansing.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

GARDEN FOR FOOD URGED IN APPEAL

Land Around Homes Shown as Available, Helping Unemployment.

Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth, chairman of the woman's division of the President's Emergency Committee for Employment, has issued a Nation-wide appeal for home gardens to provide food while money for work is scarce. Dr. Gilbreth calls on the agencies which directed war gardens to rally to this cause.

"We are now engaged in a war on human suffering within our own borders in which all persons can help," declared Dr. Gilbreth.

Individuals are also urged to start home gardens in any land available and it is pointed out by Department of Agriculture experts cooperating with the committee that seed and fertilizer for a garden to supply vegetables to a family of from five to eight persons will cost no more than $8. Such a garden, it is declared, would provide some surplus for storage.

Food Is Inexpensive.

The purpose of the home garden is twofold, Dr. Gilbreth points out: it will offer work to the unemployed in many instances; and will also be a source of inexpensive food supply, especially for those persons whose winter diets have been limited because of lowered incomes. To use more vegetables in the diet is to follow the recommendation by the Bureau of Home Economics that the diet include more vegetables, wherever possible, than the quantity outlined in its low cost food guide developed for the committee.

According to the bureau, vegetables, particularly the green leafy ones, are especially important for iron, and, with the exception of milk, furnish more calcium than any other class of foods. They are also valuable for their vitamin content and bulk. Home-grown vegetables seem to taste better than others perhaps because the family makes special effort to produce them. The longer the planting season is extended, the better balanced the diets are likely to be, the bureau says.

Would Use Vacant Lots.

In order to assist the unemployed in raising vegetable gardens the committee suggests that vacant city lots be utilized and that civic organizations make every effort to help in financing the work. It follows this up with a plan for instruction in the care of such gardens.

The Department of Agriculture experts suggest the following group of vegetables for the home garden which can be planted in the following order: Peas, potatoes, onion sets, beets, spinach, radishes, lettuce, cabbage, turnips, broccoli, carrots, string beans, tomatoes, peppers, and lima beans. They say, however, not to plant peas and potatoes if space is limited. The department distributes a bulletin, "The City Home Garden," which goes into the problems of the small vegetable garden in much detail and should be of great help to those who are attempting one for the first time.

In the South, turnip greens, and collards, which have wintered in the fields, are already available, the department points out. Northern gardeners can get early crops of greens by planting spinach, beets, and carrots as soon as the ground can be worked in the spring. The thinnings of carrots can be served as creamed baby carrots.

For Family of Five.

A family of five including father, mother, and three children should buy every week:

Bread, 12-16 pounds.
Flour, 1-2 pounds.
Cereal, 4-6 pounds.
Whole fresh milk, 23-28 quarts, or canned unsweetened milk, 23-28 tall cans.
Potatoes, 15-20 pounds.
Dried beans, peas, peanut butter, 1-2 pounds.
Tomatoes, fresh or canned, or citrus fruit, 6 pounds.
Other vegetables (including some of green or yellow color), and inexpensive fruits, 15-18 pounds.
Sugar and molasses, 3 pounds.
Lean meat, fish, cheese, eggs (8 eggs approximate 1 pound), 5-7 pounds.
Eggs (for children), 8 pounds.
Coffee, 1 pound.
Tea, ¼ pound.

Beef Stew with Vegetables
Whole Wheat Bread Butter
Coffee (adults) Milk (children)

Five-Minute Cabbage.

3 cups milk
1½ quarts shredded cabbage
3 tablespoons melted butter or other fat
3 tablespoons flour
Salt
Pepper

Heat the milk and cook the cabbage in it for 2 minutes. Add the blended fat and flour, and the seasoning, cook rapidly for 3 or 4 minutes, and stir constantly. The cabbage retains its crispness and is delicate in flavor and color.

Chocolate Blanc Mange.

1 quart milk
¾ cup sugar
6 tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
½ teaspoon vanilla

Melt the chocolate in a double boiler, add the milk, and then the sugar, cornstarch and salt, which have been thoroughly mixed, stir until thickened, cover, and cook for about 20 minutes. Beat the egg until light, pour the hot mixture into it, add the vanilla, beat well, chill and serve with soft custard or cream.

Beef Stew With Vegetables.

1½ pounds beef, rump or round.
¼ cup flour
2 onions chopped
1 quart water
3 cups diced potatoes
2 cups diced carrots
Salt
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Wipe the meat and cut it in inch cubes. Fry out the fat from the meat in a skillet and add the meat which has been rolled in the flour and the onion. Cook and stir until the meat has browned. Put the beef in a saucepan, add the water, using some of the water to wash out the tasty particles left in the pan. Cover and simmer the meat until almost tender then add the vegetables and cook until they are soft. Season with salt and sprinkle the top with the parsley after it is placed in the serving dish.

Molasses Fudge.

2 cups sugar.
1 cup evaporated milk.
¼ tsp. molasses.
1-8 teaspoon salt.
1 cup walnuts.

Boil sugar, milk, molasses and salt to soft ball stage (236 degrees F.). Cool slightly, add vanilla and nuts, beat until creamy. Knead 10 minutes. Press into buttered pan. Cut into squares. Yield: 24 pieces.

FRENCH "SOUFFLE" IN OVEN

(Bureau of Home Economics.)

It is suggested that an oven thermometer be used to insure slow, even heat.

Recipe Is Offered For Everlasting Rolls

Everlasting or Dinner Rolls.

4 cups scalded milk
2-3 cup sugar
1 cake compressed yeast dissolved in ½ cup warm water
1 cup mashed potatoes
½ cup shortening, melted
2 tablespoons salt
12 to 14 cups Washington flour
2 tablespoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda

Scald and cool the milk, add the sugar, yeast, potatoes, shortening, salt and 4 cups Washington flour. Put the sponge thus made in a warm place (80 to 85 degrees F.) for an hour, or until it is filled with gas bubbles, then add 4 cups of Washington flour in which baking powder and soda have been sifted. Add additional flour to make a smooth dough; grease the top; let rise until double in bulk; punch down, and place in the refrigerator for future use. When rolls are needed, cut off the amount of dough required, form into rolls, place on baking sheet or in muffin tins, brush with butter and let rise until light. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.).

Honey Orangeade.

Mix orange juice and honey thoroughly, using two tablespoons of honey for each serving. For each portion add one cupful of chilled water in which the thin paring of an orange has been boiled. Pour mixture over crushed ice and allow to stand for several minutes before serving.

You Can Be Sure of All Baking If You Will Adopt

Washington FLOUR

Washington Flour is made in two ways — Plain Washington Flour for all purposes; Self-rising Washington Flour which comes prepared with the proper proportion of the purest leavening phosphates for making biscuits, waffles, etc. Both are made of the same special growth of wheat which is best adaptable to kitchen facilities, and your results with either Plain Washington or Self-rising Washington Flour will be so eminently successful that you will become a regular user of them.

There's no worry in making biscuits with Self-rising Washington Flour—and you will save the expense of baking powder. Just follow your regular formula, using Self-rising Washington Flour and they will be ready for the oven in a jiffy, coming out delicately brown, light as a feather and with that delicious natural nutty flavor which is a feature of all baking done with Washington Flour.

All Washington Flour—both Plain and Self-rising—is guaranteed to give satisfaction or the purchase price will be refunded. Your grocer and delicatessen have it in all sizes from 2-lb. sacks up.

Mueller's Macaroni is different. It is more tasty—lighter—fluffier—and far more nourishing than any other. That's because Mueller's Macaroni is made from farina—the heart of the wheat. Children and adults eat Mueller's Macaroni with eager zest—they appreciate it because it tastes better and because it is better. You owe it to yourself and to your family to try Mueller's. Ask your grocer. He has Mueller's or can get it for you.

BABIES' DEATH CAUSE PRESSURE ON BRAIN

Maryland Doctor Tells College of Physicians Method of Treatment.

(Associated Press)

Baltimore, Md., March 27 (A.P.).—Treatment for an ailment that is one of the most common causes of death among newborn babies was described today before the American College of Physicians.

The ailment is intercranial hemorrhage, or bleeding inside the baby's head, said Dr. C. Loring Joslin, child specialist of the University of Maryland. It is brought on by pressure on the child's head during the process of birth.

The bleeding results in pressure and irritation on the brain. Dr. Joslin told how he relieved the pressure by withdrawing fluid from the spines of babies through a hollow needle.

Babies that do not die of hemorrhages usually become mentally deficient. Many die of hemorrhages because the symptoms are not widely known among physicians, he said.

Dr. Charles Begley, jr., brain specialist of the University of Maryland, has produced the symptoms in young dogs by injecting blood into their brains experimentally.

A series of group meetings and special clinics this afternoon brought to a close the fifteenth annual clinical session of the college of physicians. Over 1,800 physicians attended the sessions that began Monday.

Tomorrow many of them will go to Washington to attend additional clinics and special meetings at scientific and medical institutions there.

Wheat MenAsk Pay While Land Is Idle

Government Leasing Plan Would Retire Acreage on One-Third Basis.

Enid, Okla., March 27 (A.P.).—A proposal that the Federal Farm Board lease between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 acres of wheat land and retire it from production until the domestic surplus is reduced has been submitted to Chairman Stone of the Farm Board by the Oklahoma Farmers Cooperative Grain Dealers Association.

Stone, who addressed a meeting of the organization here yesterday, made no comment regarding his attitude toward the plan.

The grain dealers proposed that the Farm Board's grain stabilization Corporation execute the leases, paying the owners one-third of potential production while the land lays idle. By thus cutting down production, the value of the wheat already held by the Stabilization Corporation would be enhanced to an extent more than covering the cost of the experiment, advocates of the plan argued.

Originators of the scheme said it would not prove a permanent burden on the Federal Treasury.

"If you'll only give this agricultural marketing act a fair chance," Stone said in his address, "we'll work out something for American agriculthre of which you will be proud.

"The farmers of this country do not want a dole. They want a fair chance to make a living."

U. S. Sympathizers Supplying Sandino

(Associated Press.)

Marine Corps officials said yesterday that followers of Gen. Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent chieftain, are being supplied with funds and ammunition from the United States.

Renewed activity since December by the insurgents operating in the mountainous regions of Nicaragua was followed by the discovery that they were well equipped with ammunition and weapons, including machine guns.

At that time State Department representatives said the source of supply was "not definitely known," but Marine officials said today it had been established supplies and funds came from sympathizers in this country.

Marine Corps officers said Sandino's whereabouts were unknown, but he was thought to be in the rough region lying on the Nicaraguan and Honduran border.

French Have Name For Auto Rail Cars

Automotrice Is Six-Cylinder Bus That Runs on Tracks.

Paris, March 27 (A.P.).—Automotrice is the name which French railways have fastened on their new self-propelled cars.

The automotrice is really a six-cylinder motor bus on rails. It has the appearance of a street car, contains 34 seats and can average about 50 miles an hour.

The railways are using the new conveyances to link up cities and towns on secondary lines where use of regular trains is not justified by the passenger business.

Dog Unconscious, But Eats.

San Jose, Calif., March 27 (U.P.).—The case of a dog which is able to eat regularly although it has been unconscious ever since an automobile ran over it some time ago has been reported by Dr. P. H. Browning, veterinary. Despite brain concussion, the terrier eats automatically when food is placed in its mouth, and is said to be gaining strength.

AUTHOR DIES

ARNOLD BENNETT.

ARNOLD BENNETT, 63, IS KILLED BY FEVER

One of Century's Greatest Literary Figures Dies After Transfusion.

Stricken with influenza seven weeks ago, the famous novelist and playwright was recovering when he contracted typhoid fever. After hours of unconsciousness he passed away peacefully after a blood transfusion had resulted in temporary relief.

News of the death of Bennett, who wrote some 30 novels and more than a dozen plays, though not unexpected, came as a shock to his personal friends as well as to hundreds of thousands throughout the English-speaking world who were familiar with his works.

Novels Rated as Classics.

His earlier novels of the drabness of "the five towns," England's pottery district—particularly "The Old Wives Tale"—were rated as classics even in the author's lifetime. In less serious works he acted as guide to what is best in literature, travel and recreation, having always been a keen observer of human life. His manifold interests were shown in all his writings.

Though personally of a deeply reserved nature, he could chat with the common man on paper as few authors of his calibre have been able to do.

Arnold Bennett never was destined by his parents to be an author. He was trained for the law. He was born at Hanley in Staffordshire, in the potteries district, May 27, 1867, and christened "Enoch Arnold Bennett." He was educated at the New Castle School and placed in a lawyer's office. There he remained until he was 26. During the time he was supposed to be poring over cases, syllabuses and commentaries, he was trying his hand at composing articles. When the opportunity to join the staff of "Woman" came he eagerly took advantage of it.

Complained of Loose Writing.

Commenting on what he considered the enormity of style committed by present-day writers, Bennett cited a sentence in a much-discussed popular novel, which reads:

"Thus he literally pulled his eyes away and fixed them upon the piece of cake in his hand."

In 1926 Bennett declared that the two best books of fiction he read during the year were by American writers—Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy," and Herman Melville's "Pierre," written years before.

LINGLE POLICEMAN TELLS OF 'VISIONS'

Notre Dame Professor Says Brothers Bears Resemblance to Slayer.

Criminal Court Building, Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—The Leo Brothers murder trial took an unexpected fantastic turn today when a South Park police officer, stationed near the place Lingle was assassinated, testified that at the time he was chasing the supposed slayer of Lingle, he was following a "vision."

Anthony Ruthy, former traffic officer, now attached to the State's attorney's office, told a hushed courtroom that he had had "visions" ever since he suffered a head injury in 1924 and that they took the form of "everybody in general—from the Good Lord down."

The "vision" he had on the day Lingle was murdered, he said, was of another policeman who seemed to have been killed. A man crossed in front of his station at Randolph and Michigan streets and he ran after him when he heard the shout "Catch that man," but all the time his "vision" was right in front of him, Ruthy said.

Surprise Move Objected.

Defense attorneys had indicated they intended to call Ruthy later because of his identification in court at a bail hearing of Frank Foster, Chicago gangster, as the man whom he chased, but when the State offered to produce him today as a court witness, the defense objected strenuously to the surprise move.

Assistant State's Attorney Wayland Brooks warned the attorneys and the court that the man was mentally unbalanced and that the State would not produce him as its own witness because it would not vouch for him.

"Didn't you identify Frankie Foster as the man you chased?" Ruthy was asked by Defense Attorney Louis Piquett.

"No, he was the vision I saw that day," Ruthy replied. He later said his mind was "absolutely blank" on the day he looked at Foster.

Another Links Brothers.

The other high spot of the day was the testimony of the Rev. John Reynolds, of Notre Dame University, who said he saw a man run from the pedestrian subway after Lingle was killed and who asserted "Mr. Brothers answers the description."

Marcus David, a shipping clerk, testified he heard the shot that killed Lingle, saw a young man run out of the tunnel, heard a shout, "Catch that man," and saw him run away, chased by a policeman.

Asked if he saw that same man in the courtroom, David pointed to the defendant and said, "There he is, looking right at me."

David was the seventh person who either said Brothers was positively the man who fled from the murder, that he "looked like" the man or that he "fits the description" fixed in the mind of the witness.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

IN the motion-picture section of tomorrow's issue of The Sunday Post mention is made of a printed interview with Will H. Hays, so-called czar of the movies, evidently distributed for use apart from its intended purpose in the April issue of the Motion Picture Monthly, official organ of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.

Because of the soundness of the views they express, and their easy inclusion among those lofty aspirations by no means impossible of practical accomplishment, it may not be amiss to quote Mr. Hays' predictions made in reply to the query, "What are the directions of development now open to the screen?"

"First, I would say," replies Mr. Hays, "is the continuing improvement of motion pictures as a general entertainment medium. It is to the glory of the screen that it has been able to democratize the entertainment of the stage, the concert hall and even the opera to the millions of our people.

"Second, I believe, is the continued improvement of the film as a medium of information. There is no saturation point in the informative services required by the human mind.

"Third is the increasing development of the screen as an educational medium. Through the industry's cooperation, medical films, school films and popular educational films are already bein produced, but the problem is still to be met upon a scale commensurate with its importance.

"The fourth development that now beckons to the motion picture industry is in the field of selective entertainment directed to specific cultural groups."

It will be interesting to observe with what degre of completeness, if any, these forecasts are fulfilled, and how rapidly.

Heartiest congratulations are hereby extended the Fox Theater upon the acquisition of an organist, in the person of Bob Hamilton, who finally seems to known what a three-manual Wurlitzer orchestral-unit pipe organ is all about.

For the first time, I am temped to say, since theopening of the house, there is being manifested from the console a comprehensive grasp of the almost limitless possibilities of the most versatile, most complete and most genuinely satisfying of all musical instruments—when properly and understandingly played.

In his current organlogue, "The Organ Speaks," Mr Hamilton—with the aid of a cleverly devised screen commentary upon his work—traces the development of the organ from the days of the Puritans, through the monkey-and-the-crank stage to the little church instrument, the majestic cathedral organ, and, lastly, the modernized and almost unbelievably complicated electrical organ used in present-day theaters. While much that he does is in the nature of a demonstration of the mechanical capabilities of the high-pressure instrument, there is combined with it, too, a generous measure of discriminating and skilled musicianship, uncontaminated by repeated over-the-shoulder exhortations of "Yell it out!" to an audience obviously disinclined to sing, as has long been the practice at the Fox.

Yesterday afternoon a crowded house placed me directly at Mr. Hamilton's elbow in the first row of the orchestra and it was intensely gratifying to note from that vantage point that he is an organist and not a side-show barker or a ballyhoo man!

Supplementing the original information disclosed here Thursday morning, C. Harry Schreiber, who is remaining at the R.-K.-O.-Keith Theater until the first of the week to induct Hardie Meakin into the details of management at the Fifteenth street house, has been promoted to the R.-K.-O.-Capitol, in Cincinnati, a de luxe house of much greater capacity than the local theater. M. H. McIntyre will continue in charge of advertising and publicity as a member of Mr. Meakin's executive staff.

With the ranks of the character men being rapidly thinned by the passing of the Lon Chaneys, the Louis Wolheims and the Robert Edesons, it is worth pointing but that George Fawcett is porminently cast in "The Drums of Jeopardy," at the Rialto this week.

Mr. Fawcett was slated for the life of a Virginia gentleman, with plantation property his major interest, but he chose to be an actor instead and became a member of a Baltimore stock company after a brilliant career at the University of Virginia. When he had worked his way to Broadway, he was for three seasons with Maud Adams and later spent several seasons in London. He entered pictures in 1914.

Grace Hayes and Neville Fleeson cancelled out of the headline position at the Earle, owing to Miss Hayes' sudden illness, and were supplanted at the last minute by Bert Rome and Harry Dunn, purveying "harmony as you like it," opening today—which is one of the reasons movie editors get gray, if movie editors get gray.

Well, those robins were back, trying to date up a couple of worms in the side yard yesterday—no kidding.

HEALTH SUPERVISION IN SCHOOLS FAVORED

Asst. Supt. Kramer Urges Care, Physical Training of District Pupils.

A need for active supervision by proper medical officers of the school children in the District was voiced yesterday by Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, in an address delivered at a meeting of the early diagnosis committee of the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis.

A program which would be based upon the one installed in Atlanta, Ga., schools by Dr. William Sutton, superintendent of schools in that city, would place physical training and health education on the same basis as that occupied by the academic studies.

Dr. Sutton fully explained his system in an address before members of the District Dental Association and local school officials last Monday night at the McKinley High School, and to all outward appearance it is a system which schools all over the country are preparing to adopt or working toward.

In the case of the District Mr. Kramer charged that the District Health Department was not adequately prepared to cope with the situation, and urged that a staff of about five physicians be employed to constantly keep the school children under observation and give periodic examinations.

Mr. Kramer urged a four-year major course in health in the schools of Washington. This course, he declared, should include physical training, hygiene, health attitude development, economics of health and social relation.

Strike Echo Heard In Communist Case

Two on Trial for Deportation Deny Seeking Military Information.

Boston, March 27 (A.P.).—Denial that Communists attempted to obtain military secrets during the recent Lawrence textile strike was voiced at today's hearing before immigration officials on the question of deporting Patrick Devine and Miss Edith Berkman.

The two alleged Communists were leaders of the strike.

Harry Hoffman, attorney for the International Labor Defense Committee, representing Devine and Miss Berkman, today denounced the story.

Merrie Childrey, 1440 Rhode Island avenue, won first prize of $25 in a poster contest to advertise the "Festival of Nations" which will be held under Girl Scout auspices the week of April 27 in Constitution Hall. Second prize of $15 went to Dorothy Yaeger, 3221 Garfield street, and Marian Ryan won the $10 third prize. The contest closed yesterday.

Marguerite Kumm, Clarendon, Va., was awarded honorable mention. Youngest contestant was Rintha Hyslop, Silver Spring, Md., 11 years old. Eben F. Comins was chairman of the contest and judges were Alexander B. Trowbridge, Miss Ada Rainey, C. Powell Minnigerode and Ward Brown.

Shrimp Boat Lost; Trio Is Adrift Two Days

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—William Henderson, master of a shrimp boat bound from Charleston, S. C., to West Palm Beach, and two deck hands arrived at the Flagler Beach Coast Guard Station today in a small yawl after the sinking of their boat Wednesday about dawn.

They had been adrift more than two days. Henderson said the boat ran aground and was damaged so badly that she soon sank.

Mrs. McCormick Laughs at Wedding

Says Idea of Marrying Former Legislator of New Mexico Is "Funny."

El Paso, Tex., March 27 (A.P.).—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, former representative from Illinois, good-humoredly commented when she arrived here today from Albuquerque, N. Mex., that "if newspaper reporters had their way" she and Albert Simms, of Albuquerque, former New Mexico representative, already would be launched on the sea of matrimony.

"It's screamingly funny," said Mrs. McCormick. "Due to the fact that I might be considered the only congressional widow and Mr. Simms the only congressional widower, I dare say reporters thought the eligibility of such a match about perfect."

Mrs. McCormick came here to spend a part of her birthday in El Paso. She was 51 today. She was accompanied by her 14-year-old son Medill.

LINDBERGH TESTS NEW BULLET PLANE

Retractable Landing Gear Put on Craft Capable of 4 Miles a Minute.

The plane which the colonel tried out is a new one shaped like a projectile and carrying retractable landing gear which can be pulled into the wings after a hop-off. In many respects it is like Lindbergh's low-winged monoplane.

Her husband made a 35-minute flight.

Col. Lindbergh was responsible in large part for the construction of the disappearing landing wheels feature, designed to reduce head resistance.

Injury by Bus Alleged in Suit.

Sol Nechamkin, of Baltimore, Md., has brought suit against Robert Lee May, trading as the A., B. & W. Rapid Transit, for $50,000 damages. He claims that a bus of the company struck his car on the Highway Bridge January 12, causing him serious injury.

Democratic Control Of Congress Opposed

Columbia, S. C., March 27 (A.P.).—Representative H. P. Fulmer, of the Seventh South Carolina District, in an address to the General Assembly today, said it would be a blunder for the Democrats to attempt to organize the next Congress.

Mr. Fulmer said the Democrats have a splendid chance in 1932 if they "nominate for President a progressive—something of a radical, perhaps—one who is not too dry and not too wet."

Youth Seeks Share In Wendel Fortune

Maryland Lad, 15, Is Latest Claimant for Estate of $100,000,000.

Frederick, Md., March 27 (A.P.).—A 15-year-old boy came forward today as the latest claimant for a share of the $100,000,000 estate of the late Ella Wendel, of New York.

Relatives of the boy, Irving Swope, said they had started action through counsel here and in New York for a portion of the fortune, builded on furs and real estate by the late John Gottlieb Wendel.

The youth was said to be a grandnephew, by marriage, of the late Rebecca Wendel Swope, sister of Ella Wendel, last of her line, who died in New York recently.

Irving is the grandson of John Swope, who was a railroad engineer. The latter was said to be a brother of the late Prof. Luther Swope, who married Rebecca Wendel.

MONTGOMERY ROAD GRADING TO BEGIN

Work Starts Next Week on First Unit in Rock Creek Park Section.

Grading for the first unit of the proposed road system in the Montgomery County section of Rock Creek Park will begin next week, it was announced yesterday by Irving C. Root, chief engineer of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The contract will not be actually signed until the meeting of the commission next Thursday night, but work will begin Monday by the firm of Muldoon, Long & Penney, of Hagerstown.

Signing of the contract is being held up until deeds to the land to be traversed are in the hands of the planning commission. Delay was caused by difficulty in obtaining title to 22 acres of the Dunlop estate because one of the heirs is a minor. Judge Robert B. Peter has issued an order ratifying the sale, removing the last obstacle.

The road will be 1.2 miles long and will connect Beach drive in the District with Jones Mill road and the East-West highway in Montgomery County. The low bid was $8,936.45 to grade the roadbed and provide for drainage. Bids will be asked in about two weeks for surfacing, but this will be delayed until the commission decides upon the material to be used in surfacing.

Th road will run through the John Marshall Brown property, the estate of Capt. C. C. Calhoun and the Dunlop estate.

NATS TO RETAIN GRIFFITH AND TAUSCHER ON STAFF

Mt. Rainier No Match for 115-Pounders From Virginia.

LAST NIGHT'S RESULTS.

Junior girls—Montrose, 38; Hyattsville, 36 (semifinal round).

SUBURBAN and visiting teams held the center of the stage last night at the Tech High School Gymnasium as four teams forged their way into the finals of the sixth annual Washington Post-A. A. U. basket ball tournament.

Suburban rivalry of a keen order was promulgated as the Rockville Sextet moved into the finals of the junior girls' event with a 36-23 upset victory over the Alexandria Buddies. The Rockville girls are now bracketed to meet the Montrose Girls, whose 38-36 victory over Hyattsville last night was one of the major highlights of the entire tournament.

Hyattsville staged a rally in the dying moments of the game which saw them overcome an 11-point lead to tie the score at 36-36. The game was won in spectacular fashion in the the last twenty seconds of play, as Onalene Lawrence broke loose from her guarding to sink the decisive basket.

The Charlottesville Fives, made up of the same group of fleet passing and shooting stars who won the 100-pound division laurels last year, stepped easily into the finals of the 115-pound event with a 38-to-13 victory over Mount Rainier. The Fives played a brand of game that knew no answer.

In another feature of the night's jamboree of court warfare the Boys Club Optimists became a finalist at the expense of the Olmsted Grill tossers, 29 to 22, after trailing throughout the first, second and parts of the third quarter.

Charlottesville Team Much Superior.

The Charlottesville Fives advanced to the final round of the 115-pound division by outmaneuvering, outpassing and decisively outshooting the Mount Rainier tossers, 38 to 13. At no time was the Mount Rainier outfit a serious contender.

In face of the shooting of the two Charlottesville forwards and their center, Little, Stricker and Roberts, who scored 36 points among them, the Mounts could do nothing in the way of making progress.

Coupled with the inability of the Mounts successfully to check the torrent of baskets from the enemy was the bright bit of guarding work turned in by the Charlottesville guards, who held Emery and Frey, Mount Rainier's forwards to one point during the game.

Montrose Girls Win in Thriller.

A shot from the hands of Onalene Lawrence, most of whose fame has come from her swimming propensities, gave the Montrose girls a sensational 38 to 36 victory over the Hyattsville girls. The score was tied up at 36 to 36 and but 20 seconds remained of the fast and furious game when the quick footed all-around athlete came through the decisive basket.

The victory moves the Montrose outfit into the final round, where they are bracketed to meet the Rockville Sextet. This game will be played Wednesday.

A determined last period drive, which saw the score change from 34 to 23 in favor of Montrose to 36 to 36 remains as one of the greatest spurts in the current tournament. Led by Jean Hamilton, stellar forward, whose point contribution to her team was 30 markers, the Hyattsville girls came up to tie the score when all seemed lost. It was a grand drive, checked only by the basket of Miss Lawrence.

Miss Jones, of Montrose, kept her team ahead throughout the major portion of the game by her fine basket work, while Jean Kelly's guarding was also noteworthy.

Optimists Reach 130-Pound Final.

Scoring a 28-22 victory which many in the audience viewed as an upset, the Boys Club Optimists eliminated the Olmsted Grill Five to advance to the final round of the 130-pound division. Riding on the crest of a game comeback, the Optimists defeated their opponents only after trailing 8-2 at the end of the first quarter and 14-10 at the half.

The winning drive took root in the middle of the third quarter when May's good "snowbird" deadlocked the count at 18-18. The Optimists forged ahead from here on, never to be headed. The Grillmen could score but four points during the remainder of the game.

Doubtless the feature of the night was the worok of Fitzgerald, Gallagher, Bayliss and Kessler, a quartet of guards who held the sharpshooting brace of Grill forwards, Reichardt of Tech, and Waters of Eastern, to a basket apiece in the last half.

Buddies No Match For Rockville.

The Rockville sextet created something of an upset when they stepped to a 36-to-23 victory over the highly touted Alexandria Buddies, to go into the final round of the junior girls' play, where they will meet the Montrose girls Wednesday night.

Rockville was off t oan early and never-headed lead, holding a 19-to-10 advantage at the half and changing that count into 28 to 14 at the three-quarter mark.

Miss Kanode, of the winners, rang up a real score in coming through with fourteen 2-pointers and a 1-pointer to advance her team's scoring by 29 points.

Much credit for the victory must go to the Misses Hutchinson and Huntington, who held down the score of the dangerous Buddies' forwards, Bell and Carne.

Cards Make Last Offer To Phils for Chuck Klein

Bradenton, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—Vice President Branch Rickey returned to the St. Louis Cardinals' camp today and said he had made his final offer to the Phillies for a trade involving Chick Hafey and Chuck Klein. The Phils are reported to be holding out for another outfielder and a pitcher to accompany Hafey.

Today's practice was curtailed because of a high wind and stand storm. Jimmy Collins, rookie first baseman, departed for St. Louis to be treated for an infected foot and is not expected to return here.

Saks Five and Uniteds Will Clash Tomorrow

One of the court features of the basket ball year is promised tomorrow when the United Typewriter Uniteds and the Saks Clothiers, who hold semifinal berths in separate divisions of The Post's A. A. U. tournament, now being run off at Tech High, will clash in a game staged to keep them in shape for their tourney duties.

The Silver Spring Armory is the scene of the game, which starts at 3 o'clock. The Typos, with many of the major college and prep stars in their line-up, have won 20 of their 21 games this year, while the Clothiers, the stellar high school quint, has triumphed in 38 out of 40 contests.

12 Matches Scheduled For Army Net Team

Special to The Washington Post.

West Point, N. Y., March 28.—Listing twelve matches, including the University of North Carolina, the Army tennis schedule was released today by Maj. P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at the U. S. Military Academy here. Practice has already started, the squad holding daily workouts on the three courts laid out in the new skating arena. George Ward, who has coached the Army tennis team for the past two seasons, will arrive April 1 and again take charge.

Although four letter men were lost through graduation, Ward will have a fair nucleus on which to build the 1931 team. Letter men now at work are John Helms, Ft. Benning, Ga., southpaw captain of the squad; Arthur R. Kerwin, Hollywood, Calif.; Herbert B. Thatcher, Honolulu, and Roger B. Derby, New Orleans, La.

Other experienced players who are expected to develop this year are Bun M. Praband, Siam and Blair A. Ford, New Kensington, Pa. They were both on last year's squad. New men coming up from the plebe squad who are expected to push older players for places on the team are Edson Schull, Troy, N. Y., and Royal Reynolds, Denver, Colo.

The complete schedule is: April 22, Fordham; 25, Amherst; 29, Haverford; May 2, Columbia; 6, U of North Carolina; 9, Lehigh; 13, New York University; 16, Swarthmore; 20, Rutgers; 23, Lafayette; 27, Wesleyan; 30, Penn (at Philadelphia).

Barnard Dies Suddenly in Hospital

the American League, Barnard has been credited with smoothing over political difficulties among the club owners and has worked in harmony with Commissioner Landis.

At the time Barnard was elected to the presidency of the American League he was connected with the Cleveland club, with which he had served for 25 years. He served at Cleveland first as secretary, later as president, after the death of James C. Dunn, owner of the club, in 1922.

With his election to the presidency Mr. Barnard immediately severed connections with the Cleveland club. He negotiated for the transfer of the stock to a syndicate of Cleveland baseball fans, headed by Alva Bradley, millionaire manufacturer.

He had a guiding hand in persuading Billy Evans, the American League umpire, to give up his mask and chest protector to become business manager of the club.

Starting his career as a baseball writer and sports editor, Mr. Barnard's interest always had been centered in baseball, and when he was elected president of the American League his experience was backed up in every department of baseball management.

"Barney," as he was known to his intimates, gave the impression of being "hard boiled" because he always worked hard in the interest of the sport. But his intimate friends always regarded him as sincere and kindly, with the welfare of baseball always in his heart and in his decisions.

Since the stormy years that ended only when Ban Johnson was virtually ousted from the presidency, the affairs of the American League have run smoothly under the management of Barnard. There had been no dissension among the club owners such as prevailed during the regime of President Johnson. The club owners virtually gave Barnard a free hand in directing affairs of the organization.

"Terrible Shock," Says Navin.

Detroit, Mich., March 27 (A.P.).—Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit Club, of the American League, said tonight the death of E. S. Barnard, president of the league, in Rochester, Minn., came as "a terrible shock to me, and to baseball in general."

Mr. Navin is vice president of the American League and becomes acting president.

"The American League certainly has lost an outstanding man with his death, and all baseball men, both of the National and the American Leagues, will agree to this," he said.

"His manner was superb, and his last official act, bringing the minor league clubs into the draft, won him the admiration of both major and minor league baseball men. Since he assumed the presidency of the league Mr. Barnard had devoted much of his time to studying the different angles that would help the game. His hnoesty and integrity have never been questionde.

"His passing is a distinct loss to baseball, and to the American League in particular."

Praised by Heydler for Achievements.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Regret over the passing of a "close personal friend" as well as of one of baseball's "most constructive workers" was expressed tonight by John Arnold Heydler, president of the National League, when informed of the sudden death of Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American League.

"I can't tell you how great a shock this news is to me," said Mr. Heydler. "He was a close personal friend of mine for years, a very fine, capable gentleman and a great constructive worker in baseball matters.

"I remember my last meeting with him. He, Commissioner K. M. Landis and myself held an advisory council meeting after the dedication in St. Petersburg, Fla., of Miller Huggins field. He remarked then that he was not feeling wll and said h was going to Rochester, Minn., for a thorough examination. He did not dream, however, there was anything radically wrong with his health.

"Mr. Barnard was under a great strain during the past winter when he played a leading part in adjusting differences between the major and minor leagues. Then came the rules committee meeting and then a series of conferences over the schedule.

THE cormorant SWIMS with its WINGS and can travel just as fast under water as it can in the air. The bird can outswim some fish and captures faster swimmers by diving in order to gain speed. The Japanese take advantage of the cormorant's excellent ability at fishing and train it to catch fish for them. Usually the bird swallows its catch under the water, but the clever fishermen avoid this by placing a metal ring around the bird's neck to prevent the fish from going down its throat, and keep it tied to their boat with a long string.

DAY and KNIGHT have been elected cocaptains for the 1931 Sam Houston Teachers College football team. This team won the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship for the last season. Incidentally, during the next season part of the games will be played at night and part in the day time.

Tex Rickard put on fights from 1916 to 1928 without having to call off any of his bouts because of bad weather. According to U. S. Weather Bureau records Tex simply had lucky breaks, for under normal conditions the chances are that at least one-third of his bouts would have been prevented by rain.

NAVY'S CREW DRILLED AT TOP SPEED

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 27.—Finding the Severn River as calm and smooth as the proverbial mill pond, Coach Richard A. "Old Dick" Glendon today took his Midshipmen varsity eight through more than the usual six miles of pulling, several of which were at racing speed, and the result proved to the satisfaction of the mentor.

The varsity boat was composed of Steffanides, bow; Jewett, Gray, Anderson, Phillips, Hartley, Schoeni, Shelton, stroke, and Fulton, coxswain. Ray Hunter, now in his fourth year at the academy, was taken from the regular shell and placed as stroke of the Jayvees.

Hunter has not missed a plebe or varsity race since he entered the academy and his demotion is believed to be only temporary. The Texan's place was taken by Jewett, who recently recovered from an illness.

Duke Crinkley, also a regular of two seasons, was at the boathouse this afternoon, but the crew trainer, A. K. "Doc" Snyder, ordered him to rest for at least another week. Crinkley has just finished a strenuous boxing season which found him being crowned intercollegiate heavyweight champion.

Young, a regular of the third varsity, quit today and went out for field sports in which he hurls the javelin and shot.

"Doc" Snyder Completes Twenty-Year Term.

Twenty years ago tomorrow Augustus K. Snyder, known to every Naval Academy athlete as plain "Doc," arrived at the Naval Reservation to assist in keeping the middies in good health. "Doc" came here from the old U. S. S. Minnesota, where he had been a chief pharmacist's man. As the years rolled by and "Doc" displayed rare ability in nursing along injured muscles and bruises he advanced to the position of trainer of football and crew and has his hand in other sports as well.

Many of the academy's best athletes paused today to extend little favors to the man who has soothed hundreds of aches and pains.

Another Navy veteran, James C. Cantler, is celebrating his twenty-second anniversary with Navy crews this week. Cantler has doctored the Navy shells for more than a score of years.

Virginia Van Wie Wins Midsouth Open Title

Southern Pines, N. C., March 27 (A.P.).—Virginia Van Wie, caught in a hard downpour of rain that descended on the final 18 holes of the Midsouth women's 36-hole medal tournament, overcame the elements today to win the championship. The Chicago girl found the going rougher than yesterday when she posted a sparkling 73, but nevertheless shot an 84, 1 over women's par, for a final total of 157.

Her score was seven strokes better than the next best in field of 80 contenders, Edith Quier, of Reading, Pa., could offer. Miss Quier added an 84 today to her 80 of yesterday for a 164.

Dean Repents, Decides To Stay With Cardinals

Bradenton, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—Dizzy Dean, the Cardinal's eccentric young right-hander, who has declared he will win 25 or 30 games for the Red Birds this season, nearly deserted the Cardinals this afternoon because of reprimands from Manager Street and because of his daily hunt for Secretary Lloyd to obtain his $1 a day allowance.

But at the last moment he decided he ought to say good-by to Branch Rickey, Cardinal vice president, and Rickey persuaded him to stay until October 15.

"I had an offer from an independent team at San Antonio that would pay me $250 a month," Dean explained. "I felt pretty mad at the way Street and Lloyd talked to me; but after Mr. Rickey got through talking, I felt like I ought to tell Lloyd to make my allowance 90 cents a day or maybe 6 bits. That man has talked me right back from San Antonio."

Lucas and Rixey Halt A's After Homer by Foxx Scores Two.

ORLANDO, Fla., March 27 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds, using the cream of their pitching staff, held the champion Philadelphia Athletics to four hits today and won out, 4 to 3.

Red Lucas, starting for the Reds, was wobbly in the first inning and two walks and Foxx' home run scored three runs. After that the heavy hitters were held in check, even after the veteran Eppa Rixey took up the pitching burden in the sixth. The Reds made four runs off Krausse in four innings, then Hank McDonald, coast recruit, went in and held them scoreless.

Trial Won, Dempsey Again Reiterates Wills Challenge

CHICAGO, March 27 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey, the old Manassa Mauler himself, whipped across a legal knockout in the fifth round today in the $500,000 damage suit filed against him for not risking his heavyweight championship against Harry Wills, Negro challenger, five years ago.

Beaten in the first four rounds of the court battle on legal technicalities, Dempsey suddenly floored the opposition when Circuit Court Judge T. Sterling Pomeroy directed the jury to return a verdict of dismissal in the case brought by the Chicago Coliseum Co., which attempted to promote the Dempsey-Wills title match in 1926.

The verdict, promptly returned by the jury, brought to an end, barring a successful appeal, all legal battles in which Dempsey and his successor to the heavyweight throne, Gene Tunney, became involved. However, there appeared a chance that Dempsey might carry his fight back to the squared arena by finally meeting Wills.

During a heated court argument yesterday Dempsey stood up and told the plaintiff attorneys and Paddy Mullins, manager of Wills, that he would fight the Negro any time the Chicago Coliseum Co. would pay him $1,000,000, the original terms of the Basket Ball Coaches Blamed For Demonstrations of Fans

NEW YORK, March 27 (A.P.).—Members of the National Association of Basket Ball Coaches, in convention here, heard themselves taken severely to task today by Dr. Charles W. Kennedy, chairman of the Board of Athletic Control at Princeton University and president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

In an address, "Sports and Sportsmanship," Dr. Kennedy declared the coaches were in a measure to blame for the increasing poor sportsmanship of cage fans. He urged them and their players to be more lenient with officials and to avoid any demonstration that would arouse the crowd.

"Time and again I've seen a coach, by jumping to his feet when a decision went against his team, cause the entire crowd to hiss the official and make life miserable for him the remainder of the evening."

"It actually has gotten to where the home fans cheer the errors of the visiting team," he said.

President Andreas, in his annual address, pleaded with the coaches to abandon the so-called "stalling game" and make basket ball a "virile, rugged game of action." He pointed out that ice hockey is becoming increasingly popular in the East and North and might supplant basket ball as the leading winter sport unless steps are taken to put more action in the court game.

Johnson Relies on Hadley, Crowder, Marberry and Brown for Early Games

Fan Sees Nats Third to A's and Tribe

MARSHALL W. DOUGLAS, of Burnleys, Va., "views with alarm the trend of the letters sent in to the "Baseball Editor" of The Washington Post. Nine out of ten fans are picking Washington to win the pennant. Just why they do this, perturbs Mr. Douglas.

Guess-work must needs play a large role in the picking of a team to win the championship this early in the year, Mr. Douglas remarks. Nothing, however, would please him more than to see the world series played at Griffith Park next October, but fond joy he does not expect to revel in.

Mr. Douglas picks the Nats as holder of third place at the end of the season. The Athletics are going to make it three straight, and the much improved Cleveland Indians are going to create the sensation of the league by moving into second place.

Nats Too Old Is Douglas' Belief

The Washington ball players are too old, is the contention of Mr. Douglas. Washington will be not as good a club as it was last year, for its bulwarks are one step nearer the limbo of ball players. Joe Judge, Mr. Douglas believes, will feel the approach of the 40 year mark in no mean way this year. The veteran first sacker's legs are about "due." The same holds true for Sam Rice.

Mr. Douglas likes the looks of the pitching staff well enough, but with the reservation that Jones is getting pretty old and that no one ever knows what Marberry will do.

The Post's box seat contest invites the fans to speak their mind about the Nats' 1931 prospects and if they speak it well enough, in a letter of 250 words, the "Baseball Editor" is going to award the writer six choice chairs for that open-game April 14 between the Nats and the Athletics. The contest is scheduled to close next Wednesday. Write only on one side of the paper.

Army and Navy Club Sets First Golf Date

Friday, April 10, was set as the date of the first women's golf tournament at the Army and Navy Country Club for the coming season at a meeting of the women's golf committee of the club, held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Angwin, at the Naval Hospital. Weekly tournaments will be held on each Friday during the season.

La Barba Outpoints Kid Francis in Upset

Ping Pong Title Tourney In Washington Planned

That Washington is rapidly becoming ping pong conscious, as evidenced by the formation this year of six ping pong teams, became even more of a reality last night when it was announced by A. T. Reed, of 1414 Chapin street northwest, captain of the Public Parks Ping Pong Team, that plans were under way for the staging of the first ping pong championship of the District.

A meeting, to which all local ping pong exponents are invited, has been called for next Tuesday at the home of Mr. Reed. If sufficient response is forthcoming, the scene of the title play will be named.

D. C. Crain, donor of the trophy emblematic of the, women's tennis championship of Washington, has put up a trophy for the winner of the proposed ping pong tourney.

Jones, Too, Reaching Best Form Quicker Than Expected.

Fidler, Grayson and Smith Will Not Be Carried on Staff.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

BILOXI, Miss., March 27—Manager Walter Johnson has virtually made up his mind which of the pitchers now in camp are likely to help the Nationals in the coming race and even has gone so far as to map plans for the first few weeks of the season.

As already has been stated, he intends taking all now here as far as Washington, at least, and in addition has signed up a Biloxi youngster named Milton Pradat as batting practice hurler. Art Fidler, George Grayson and Joe Smith are slated to perform elsewhere, while it now seems likely that both Lefty Lynn Griffith and Walter Tauscher will hang on throughout the season. Griffith has made the most of the chances given him, while Tauscher's opportunities have not been so many and he will be given further trials, including a shot at the Baltimore Orioles in Gulfport Sunday.

Jones to Be Ready When Play Starts.

Johnson's pretraining camp plans will hold good, except that the veteran, "Sad Sam" Jones, is coming along faster than was anticipated and he will be ready by the time the opening gong is sounded. Fred Marberry, after a slow start, is making up for lost time and has turned in several hard days' work since he was pounded so badly in his debut last Sunday.

The advance dope was that Marberry, Irving Hadley, "General" Alvin Crowder, Lloyd Brown and possibly Ad Liska would have to carry most of the burden during the first two weeks of the coming race, but Liska has been bothered with a sore arm and Jones, no doubt, will take his place.

With this quintet of experienced man available, especially as Brown and Hadley appear to be in almost perfect physicial condition, Johnson hopes that he will not have to call on the others except for occasional relief shifts. Bobby Burke looms as number one relief man, with Liska, if he doesn't break in as a starter, as number two. Fischer and Griffith or Tauscher, or both, will do most of their work in stick drills until they show better form.

Believes Burke Too Cautious.

Regarding Burke, Johnson declared that he has the stuff to win games if he would only cut loose and take a chance instead of playing safe and serving too many "fat" ones to alien swatsmiths. "Bob's side arm delivery would make him a great pitcher if he would only gain a little confidence in it," said the Nat leader tonight, "but I can't get him to 'bust' it in. He's likely to be lots of help to us this season, at that."

Art Fidler probably would be kept for a while as batting practice pitcher, but Johnson says he has a chance to develop into a good man and he, no doubt, will be farmed out to some club which will use him regularly. This also applies to Joe Smith, with George Grayson probably due to hang on a while, giving the Nat hitters practice. This Warrenton youngster has considerable stuff, a strong arm, and good control, and has proved himself to be an ideal man to serve them up to the tee in workouts.

Water-Soaked Field Prevents Drill.

A water-soaked infield prevented batting and fielding drills this morning, but Johnson had his entire squad on hand indulging in pepper games, with the four catchers kept mighty busy warming up every flinger on the squad.

300,000 SEE GRAKLE, 100-6, WIN GRAND NATIONAL

Favored U. S. Hopes Fall In Stake

Gregalach, Vietor in 1929, Second and Annadale Third.

Easter Hero Comes Cropper After Setting Pace.

By TOM WILHEIM.

LIVERPOOL, England, March 27 (A.P.).—Grakle, British bred, owned, trained and ridden, today scored a record-breaking triumph in the classic Grand National Steeplechase, leaving behind him on the punishing field of Aintree the pick of the world's cross-country horses. Three hundred thousand saw the race.

Close at his heels was the 1929 winner, Gregalach, great Irish jumper of Mrs. Gemmell, and in third place was Lady Glenapp's Annandale, making it a clean sweep for the British lion. Grakle paid the nice odds of 100 to 6. The time was 9:32 1-5.

Whitney's Pair Goes Down.

Easter hero and Sir Lindsay, owned by the young American sportsman, John Hay (Jock) Whitney, and chief hopes of America, both went down, Easter Hero at Beecher's Brook, where Mrs. Chester Beatty's swift Rowland was destroyed, and Sir Lindsay at one of the other jumps. The latter finished, but far out of the money.

The defeat of Easter Hero was costly to his backers, 21,000 of the 65,592 win bets placed in the pari-mutuels being on the nose of the American favorite.

Grakle's victory was richly deserved and Jockey Tom Coulethwaite rode a smart race for Cyril Taylor, Liverpool cotton broker, his owner. It was Coulethwaite's third Grand National victory.

Laying behind the field and avoiding the jams which brought Swift Rowland and Easter Hero down, Coulethwaite sent Grakle out after Gregalach on the second time around, challenged the big Irish jumper in the stretch and wore him down to finish one and a quarter lengths ahead. Gregalach's margin over Annandale was ten lengths.

Rhyticere Is First American Horse.

Behind Annandale came the first of the American contingent, Victor Emmanuel's Rhyticere, which just beat out M. D. Blair's Ballyhanwood. Behind them was Shaun Goilin, the Irish horse that won last year. R. K. Mellon's Gangiesia was seventh and Blair's bay gelding, Great Span, eighth.

Of the other American horses Gordon Selfridge's Ruddyman fell at the canal turn, Stephen (Laddie) Sanford's Sandy Hook refused a fence on the back country while Emmanuel's Royal Arch II. and Mellon's Alike were far back in the field.

After a false start the field was away at 3:04 p. m. (10:04, E. S. T.) with all of the American jumpers well up and going nicely.

Swift Rowland hesitated at Beechers Brook, which lies behind a high hedge fence, finally jumped and, landing on the edge of the brook, broke his neck.

On around the turn and across Valentines Brook the field went, with Great Span, Gregalach and Easter Hero well in the lead and fencing nicely. They held that order past the stands and the starting line and started around again.

Easter Hero Falls At Brook Jump.

Great Span began to fall back. Gregalach and Easter Hero fought it out nose and nose to Beechers Brook. Here the American horse swerved slightly, tangled up another jumper and went to his knees on the far side. A great groan went up from the crowd as they saw the Whitney silks go down.

The runners were lost from sight for a moment in the slight haze. Then around the canal turn and across Valentines Brook came two horses, striving for the lead. They negotiated the first fence safely, sailed across the long water jump and headed for home with only three fences left.

Nose to nose the horses ran until a furlong from home. Then Grakle's lighter impost—he was in at 161, 7 pounds under Gregalach—began to tell, and he pulled away to win.

According to Easter Hero's trainers, his favoritism with the crowds cost him sorely, as the jam around his stable and around him while he was in the paddock being saddled caused him to become fretful and irritated. Three men had to walk beside him on the way to the post and he was covered with lather before the start.

Fifth Grand National For Grakle.

Today's race was the fifth grand national for Grakle. He fell in 1927, 1928 and 1930 and was sixth 1929, the year that Gregalach won.

The time of 9:32 1-5 was a record for the course, as now constructed.

Three hundred thousand persons thronged the historic course to witness the race, among them society leaders from both sides of the Atlantic, workmen and shopkeepers from all of England.

G. U. and Maryland Riflists in Tourney

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., March 27.—Georgetown and University of Maryland will send their rifle teams to Annapolis tomorrow to compete in the indoor championship of the Intercollegiate Rifle Association. Other teams entered are Navy, Cornell, Pennsylvania, Penn State, University of Pittsburgh, Virginia Military Institute, Cooper Institute, and Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

The established collegiate course of ten shots to each man in the prone, kneeling and standing positions, will govern the competition which will be with small bore rifles at 50 feet.

CHAMPIONS PRACTICE.

The Anacostia Eagles, winners of the District section of The Post's Capital City League last year, will play under the name of the Congress Heights Athletic Club, it was learned last night from Manager Otte. They will again be members of the league.

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime—By H. T. Webster

Boots and Saddles

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—St. John's Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

THE Junior League handicap for a purse of $1,000 features the final day of the winter meeting at St. Johns Park this afternoon, at a mile and a sixteenth. The crowds have disappointed during the racing season there but the best of weather prevailed throughout. Several records were lowered.

LAHOR and TYPHOON meet at even weights, and while seven horses are to start, it looks like the race was between these two. Lahor is selected to win, but Typhoon doubtless will be the favorite, for he beat Lahor the last time they met. But previously Lahor beat Typhoon and conceded weight and also beat Dr. Parrish. On his entire record Lahor far outclassed the field. SUNNY MORN may be third.

There is no race provided for 2-year-olds, the first being for platers at five and a half furlongs. VANDION looks like the winner. ROSCOMAR has shown improvement and should be second. MIRAGE or ELUSAGON will be third.

BOLD ROBIN is selected to win the second race over keen opposition. OLD KICKAPOO is fast at present, but may find six furlongs too far, as he is a five-furlong horse. EXTERNAL has shown good racing ability recently and should hold the others safe. AMSTERDAM has disappointed more than most any plater for the last year, but seems to have come to form at last and is picked for the third race. GILDED CASINO will be the contender. FLYING EXPRESS is well named and will cut a figure in the race.

LONDON ROCK has been racing several times a week recently, but he is so much the best in the fifth race that he is selected to win. He will only have to repeat his winning effort of Tuesday to coast along in front of his opposition. ICARUS is next best in this lot. JOHN GREENER should be in the money.

HOBCAW seems to be the winner in the sixth race. PAT CALHOUN may be close up in this race. BRAHAM made a good effort last out, but tired near the finish. He may go on today.

CROYDEN, winner of his last race in a better field, looks best in the seventh, the curtain race of the meeting. It may be a question about his going 1 3-16 miles, but there seems to be nothing capable of catching him in this field. YAM TOY won recently, and in his last was second to CROYDEN. He should again be the contender. MAGIC CARPET will cut some figure and should be no worse than third.

CENTRAL HIGH DEFEATS ALL-STAR SWIMMERS

In their last and most dramatic match of the season, the Central High school tank team yesterday defeated a team of all stars swimming under the name of the Washington Collegiates, 38-37, at Central High pool.

Leading 34-to-32, the Collegiates saw their advantage erased as the Central 300-yard medley trio of Burns, Mamer and Gastin came home ahead of Mullins, Kane and Rote, the latter an ace of the George Washington University team.

It was the finale for one of Central's most successful seasons in the tank. The Clifton Park School's record for the year reads seven victories and three defeats.

The summaries:

50-yard free-style—Washington Collegiates (Mullens); Central (Taylor); Washington Collegiates (Burnside). Time, 0:27.

Maryland-V. P. I. Game Delayed, Due to Field

The Maryland V. P. I. baseball game scheduled for this afternon at Blacksburg, Va., has ben posponed to a later date because of snow and rain, which have made the Gobblers' diamond unfit for play. Coach Burton Shipley, of the College Parkers, made this announcement last night immediately upon receipt of a long distance call from C. L. Miles, director of athletics at V. P. I.

As a result of the postponement, Maryland will not open its 1931 baseball season until next Monday, when Washington and Lee will be met at Lexington. Tuesday the Old Liners will play V. M. I. at Lexington; Wednesday and Thursday, Georgia, at Athens, Ga.; Friday, North Carolina State, at Raleigh.

STROKE LEAD RETAINED BY TURNESA

Tops Golden in North-South Play as Rain Delays Finish.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 27 (A.P.).—Touring the championship Pinehurst course in a fine 73 despite a drenching rain, Joe Turnesa, of Elmsford, one of a famous family of New York golfers, tonight retained his lead in the North and South $5,650 open golf tournament with a 54-hole score of 215.

Although he started when the downpour was at its height, and played the entire round under difficult conditions, Turnesa conquered par and the elements. He was out in 4 under perfect figures, but trouble off three holes coming in pushed him up to 38.

The Elmsford pro, who shot 70 and 72 yesterday, to top the field at the half-way mark, missed a 6-inch putt on the fourth and another small one on the fifteenth. His iron tee shot on the short seventeenth hooked and caused him to take a bogie four.

Final Round Delayed Until Today.

Continuous rain during the morning made playing difficult and accurate putting almost impossible on the wet sand greens. The condition of the course caused tournament officials to postpone the final round, set for this afternoon, until tomorrow.

Just a stroke behind the leader came Johnny Golden, chunky Norotan, Conn., professional, who has been shooting the most consistent golf in the field. Golden today had his third consecutive 72.

Runyan Among Group Tied With 22.

Five prominent professionals, including Paul Runyan, White Plains, N. Y., last year's winner, were grouped at 221, just a stroke behind Willie MacFarlane, Tuckanhoe, N. Y., and Harry Cooper, Detroit, who were tied for seventh at 220. Those having 221 were Denny Shute, Columbus, Ohio, who shot his best round of 72 today; Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Horton Smith, Detroit, and Tommy Armour, Detroit.

Eddie Williams, Cleveland; Tony Manero, Elmsford, and Roland Hancock, Lynchburg, Va., had 222, and Bill Mehlhorn, 223. Frank Walsh, Chicago, Tom Harmon and Charles Rice, Chicago, had 226 each.

Several prominent players, including Craig Wood and Mike Turnesa, found the going rough and picked up, while Walter Hagen, Lew Waldron and Emmett French took one look at the weather and withdrew without playing.

"GREETINGS," SAYS MAX TO STRIB

3 Champions Defend Titles In Amateur Fights Tonight

Miller-Covaleski Match Looms as Feature of A. A. U. Card at Rockville; Bordeau and Irving to Clash.

FOUR bouts, in which three 1930 champions appear, will be bathed in the floodlight's rays tonight at the Rockville High School Gymnasium as the semifinals of the annual District A. A. U. boxing championships get under way at 8 o'clock before what promises to be a capacity house. Two exhibition matches and a wrestling bout are also on the program.

Four bouts which almost promise to take some of the sting out of the finals are on tap tonight, but it is probable that the unofficial title of "main event" on the card will be the one in which Jocko Miller, crack Jewish Community Center welterweight, appears for the first time in the 147-pound division, with Leo Covaleski, rugged Knights of Columbus color bearer.

Have Met In Four Previous Bouts.

Miller, undisputed champion of the lightweight ranks last year, has his work cut out for him. The two have squared off at each other on four occasions, and extra rounds had to be appended to each bout before the winner was decided. Miller holds the edge over his rival, having taken three of the four combats, but gained that trio of decisions by the narrowest of margins.

Vieing with this bout in point of interest is the return to the A. A. U. tournament of LeRoy Bordeau, Georgetown University light heavy, who will wear the J. C. C. emblem in his eagerly awaited bout with Henry Irving, the ace of the American Legion "stable." Irving just missed getting in the middleweight division, of which he is champion. Bordeau won the South Atlantic light heavy title in 1929, but yielded last year to a Hoya ban on outside boxing competition.

Both boys are fast-stepping free hitters and promise to engineer some of the major pyrotechnics of the tournament. The featherweight division, too, will see a champion in action, as Mike Tardugno, the Jewish Community Center's 126-pound pride, squares off against Paul Bogikes, of the American Legion. Tardugno rules a pre-fight favorite, although little is known of his opponent.

Boyle vs. Coleman, Lightweights.

In the remaining tournament match "Reds" Boyle, center for George Washington University's 1929 football team, will meet Bob Coleman, of the Rockville Athletic Association, in the lightweight feature of the night.

Besides this quartet of championship bouts the chairman of the A. A. U.'s boxing committee, Edward Rosenblum, announced last night that two special boxing matches have been added. Angelo Pappas and Bill Colomaris, two 75-pound exponents, will be seen in the first event, to be followed by Willie Seay and Harry Thompson, who tip the scales at 100 pounds each. All four are from the Boys Club.

A wrestling match between C. Barrett, of the Y. M. C. A., and C. Silverman, of the J. C. C., is also on the books.

Hitting The Head Pin

THE sweepstakes season reaches its peak tonight with no less than four stakes to be run off for the edification of local duckpin fans, the Bill Wood "Dub" affair at Lucky Strike and King Pin; the Maryland-Virginia Stakes, at Rosslyn; the Old Timers' event, at Georgetown Recreation, and the Father-Son Tourney at Mount Rainier, all sharing in the spotlight. Each will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

One hundred and eight of the 153 entrants in the Bill Wood Stakes will conclude their efforts tonight, those in the first group who shot at King Pin last week performing at Lucky Strike tonight, and last week's Lucky Strike contingent turning about and rolling on the King Pin drives tonight.

The third group of 45 bowlers, which has worked on the Lucky Strike alleys the last couple of Tuesdays, will not conclude its efforts until next Saturday night on the same drives.

Heading the procession is Arthur Davis, with a 1,180 total for 10 games. Arthur Darling is close behind with 1,177. Third place is held down by W. Hays, with 1,149; fourth, by F. Kral, with 1,144; fifth, by G. Bradt, with 1,141.

The pace in the Maryland-Virginia stakes is just as hot, with Joe Freschi out in front with 1,196, seven pins ahead of his nearest rival, Brud Kessler. Astor H. Clarke, is third, with 1,181; Thurston Furr, fourth, with 1,170; Oscar Hiser, fifth, with 1,159.

Georgetown Recreation's "Old-Timers" event is in the nature of a doubles stakes. Entrance in the affair is limited to those doubles combinations whose total ages reach 100 years or over.

An afternoon shift, starting at 4 o'clock, also has been arranged. Five games will be rolled, total pins to count. A $5 entrance fee will be charged each team. The winners will receive $25.

The Gurtons, with 689 to their credit, are showing the way to the rest of the father-son teams in the Mount Rainier tourney which also ends its one week's activity tonight. The Wolstenholmes are second, with 673; the Crawleys, third, with 634; the Pitts', fourth, with 615; and the Iers', fifth, with 607.

The individual duckpin battle of the year" between Eddie Espey and Jack Whalen enters the home stretch tonight when the second and concluding five-game block will be rolled on the Arcadia drives, starting at 8 o'clock sharp.

Despite the 10-pin lead he amassed last Wednesday night when the first block was run off at the Columbia, Espey is given but an even chance of taking the measure of his arch duckpin rival. Both pin artists were off form in this inaugural lash, Espey collecting a 551 and Whalen a 541. Local bowling critics attribute their mediocre scores to the fact that they used new pins.

Monk Frazer, popular manager of the Arcadia alleys, has made arrangements t ohandle a capacity crowd which is expected to be on hnd for the match. Five hundred persons witnessed the first block, and at least this number is antic

STOCKS IN DECLINE AT LIVELIER SPEED

Renewal of Liquidation in Important Groups Is Cause of Selling.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Stocks declined at a livelier clip today, ending the moderately active session with the largest losses in just three weeks.

The market had fairly well resisted the unfavorable news of Wednesday and Thursday, but lacked the strength to defend prices against a series of bear drives and reappearance of liquidation in important groups.

Chemicals, steels and utilities were soft, while the railroads averaged into new low ground for the year. Selling increased in the last hour, when the day's worst prices came out. The turnover was 2,900,000 shares, an increase of 300,000 over Thursday.

U. S. Steel Slumps.

Two-point declines in U. S. Steel, American Can, American Telephone, Union Carbide, Sears Roebuck, Atchison, North American, Allied Chemical, Johns-Manville, United Aircraft, Electric Power & Light and Case measured the scope of the reaction. General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, National Biscuit, New York Central, Radio, United Corporation, Consolidated Gas and Montgomery Ward were down about a point.

National Cash Register established the lowest price on record in response to the dividend cut, recovering one-fourth of its 4-point drop. Eastman Kodak, Du Pont, Bethlehem Steel, American & Foreign Power and Worthington Pump were off 3 to 4. Pennsylvania sagged 1½ when the poor February income statement appeared. Auburn was contrary, although it lost most of its 7-point advance. Alaska Juneau was extremely active, rising more than a point. Gold prospecting has been stimulated by talk of a possible shortage, and this company has reported some profitable operations.

The upward trend in commodity prices noted by some of the mercantile reviews during the fortnight immediately preceding this week suffered a reversal in the last few days, and current indices show a majority of declined. Grains, cotton, rubber and alcohol were among the heavier items. Commercial failures also increased, whereas there had been some improvement in recent weeks.

Retail Trade Spurts.

Easter buying is helping retail trade; otherwise little change is noted by the business surveys. Dun's says the first quarter is ending "with an improved sentiment based upon a moderate uplift in some lines and a decided advance in isolated instances," although the indications of improvement are "qualified by the continuing unsatisfactory aspects." Bradstreet's calls attention to a gradual expansion of factory operations, particularly in textiles.

Wheat was firm on bullish weather reports, closing unchanged to a small fraction of a cent higher. Corn sagged and cotton met enough realizing to check an early upturn, ending the day 2 points higher to 1 lower.

Foreign exchanges were narrowly mixed. The Spanish stabilization credit helped the peseta, but Far Easterns eased with the small decline in bar silver and the French franc made a new low, off slightly.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, March 27 (A.P.).—Rising prices for wheat today accompanied increased anxiety about possible crop damage Southwest as a result of low temperature. Bullish ardor was curbed, however, by reports that snowfalls preceding the cold wave had protected winter wheat from any material harm. Official summaries indicating that United States spring wheat seeding would be reduced 3,000,000 acres this season were largely offset by prospects that winter wheat remaining for harvest would be 2,000,000 acres more than last year.

Wheat closed firm, unchanged to 2¼ cents advance, the latter for June. Corn ended 5/8@¾ cents decidedly to 4 6/8 gain, and provisions varying from 2 cents setback to a rise of 7 cents.

At first wheat prices tended downward, the abundance of moisture over the winter wheat belt being regarded as extremely auspicious for crop growth. Bears made much also of reports that Russia would insist on one-fourth of the world's wheat export market, the same proportion as before the war, and that the alternative would be unlimited Russian dumping. There were also advices that owing to Russian and Australian competition, Argentina was exporting wheat freely with shippers obliged to accept low prices.

Wheat price rallies here ensued, nevertheless, after Canada reported 10 below zero in some places, and Kansas messages told of zero temperatures at various points. Jetmore, Kans., dispatches asserted that actual damage had resulted from severe cold. Further uptrend of the wheat market was hampered by spreading operations, with July rising at times to about 1 cent premium over September. Export demand for North American wheat was again slow, overseas business totaling only 250,000 bushels.

Corn tended to sag on account of spread trading in which corn was sold against purchases of wheat. Unfavorable weather for corn movement from rural sources failed to act as a counterbalance. Oats were eased by the largest deliveries yet on March contracts, 140,000 bushels.

Provisions were firm, responsive to upturns in hog values.

BOND MARKET SAGS TO LOWER LEVELS

Australian Issues Strong, While Other Foreigns Prove Heavy.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—The bond market declined to lower levels today. Sales totaled $11,400,000, the largest total for a full session since March 4, when the total was $12,000,000.

The outstanding development was the sharp recovery in Australian obligations. Both issues of 5s and the 4½s of the commonwealth and both issues of 5s of New South Wales made good gains. Official information on the subject was lacking but reports were current to the effect that the interest on the dollar issues of Australian bonds would be paid.

Other foreign issues were generally lower. Both issues of 6½s of the Brazilian federal government closed higher but the 8s of 1941 lost 5 points. City of Sao Paulo 6½s and the 7s of 1940 of the state of that name and Rio Grande do Sul 7s of 1967 lost more than 1 point each. The Stock Exchange announced that interest on the 7½s of 1952 would be paid when due, April 1.

Peruvian 7s and first and second 6s all slumped. The last named reached a new 1931 low at 27⅞, the closing price. M. A. Vinelli, minister of finance, announced that interest and sinking fund payments due on April 1 on the 6 per cent issues would not be paid.

Weakness appeared again among railroad obligations while February earnings reports continued to compare unfavorably with 1930. Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s, Cincinnati Union Terminal 4½s, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy refunding 4½s, Illinois Central 4½s of 1966 which closed at a new 1931 low at 90, Missouri Pacific 5s, series H and I, and Southern Consolidated 5s were active and lower.

Obligations with conversion or stock purchase options followed the corresponding stocks downward. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s, Chicago & Northwestern series A 4½s, Atchison 4½s of 1948, American Telephone 4½s of 1939, and the several issues of Alleghany 5s all closed lower.

RUSSIA TAKES HAND IN WHEAT CONGRESS

Soviet Official Attacks Idea of Preferential Tariff for Europe.

Rome, March 27 (A.P.).—Russia entered the World Wheat Conference today and made its problems triangular.

Prof. Leon Kritzman, vice president of the Soviet five-year plan, declared, on the one hand, that Russia would have nothing to do with the preferential tariff proposed by the European bloc at the conference, but added that it would not be possible for the country to curtail its wheat acreage.

Ambassador Perez, representing the Argentine, became the spokesman this afternoon for the large wheat-growing areas of the Americas and Australia. For them, he attacked both the preferential tariff scheme of the European bloc and also the cheap wheat production of Soviet Russia.

Prof. Kritzman answered that Russian production of wheat had been increased only because industrial conditions in the country had been bettered and that, consequently, there would be no acreage curtailment, but, at the same time, he said, there would be no "dumping," because the increase in production would be absorbed in Russia.

Roumanian Minister of Commerce Madgearu presented the contention for the Danube countries, that the only hope for Europe's wheat crisis lies in the preferential tariff plan.

Both Perez and Kritzman declared themselves absolutely opposed to the tariff idea, but Kritzman added that the Soviet government stood ready to examine any other agreement prompted by economic rather than political motives.

Ambassador Perez told the World War at Europe's door and charged that it was responsible for the present situation of the wheat-growing industry. The ambassador told the European delegation that it is unjust to ask the American countries and Australia to relieve troubles he said they had not caused. The real remedy, he declared, is to be found in free competition.

900 Men Will Resume Full-Time Employment

Newell, W. Va., March 27 (A.P.).—Nine hundred pottery workers will resume full time work at the Homer Laughlin China Co. plant No. 6 here next week, officials announced today. The plant has been idle since last May 1.

The No. 8 plant of the company will increase its working force also next week, increasing the daily pay roll to $10,000.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, March 27.—A. W. Leonard has been elected chairman of the board of Puget Sound Power & Light Co. to succeed C. W. Kellogg, resigned. Mr. Leonard was succeeded as president by J. F. McLaughlin, vice president of Eastern Texas Electric & Gulf States Utilities Co.

This country would use 60,000,000 more bushels of wheat a year, and take a decisive step toward restoring farm prosperity if every person were to eat an extra slice of bread a day, according to Joseph Wilshire, president of Standard Brands, Inc., which controls Fleischmann Co. Mr. Wilshire said that "the consumption of wheat has decreased about 20 per cent during the past ten years, so one more slice of bread per person daily will help the farmer more than any program of restricted acreage."

AUTOMOBILES—New passenger automobile registrations during February in 41 States and the District of Columbia increased slightly more than 7 per cent over the previous month. The February total of 111,438 compared with 103,832 for January and 178,440 for February last year. The fact that while registrations increased only a little over 7 per cent compared with a 28 per cent increase in production last month over February was partially explained by the fact that January registration figures always include many sales transacted in December, but whose actual registration has been held over into January because of registration fees.

AUTOMOTIVE PARTS—February output of manufacturers of automotive parts and accessories continued the upturn that has marked the industry since the beginning of the year, the Motor and Equipment Association reports. Indications are that March will show still further improvement. The grand index of shipments for all groups of manufacturer members reporting for February stood at 93 per cent of the January, 1925 base index of 100, as compared with 81 per cent in January, 69 in December and 138 in February last year.

HEAVY CONSTRUCTION—The last week of March closes on the largest volume of heavy construction and engineering plans announced since the beginning of the year, Construction Daily reports. All types of new work, except highways, reached a total value of $119,194,000 for the country as a whole, against $82,595,000 in the preceding week and $53,823,000 in the like week of 1930.

INSOLVENCIES — The commercial insolvency record this week shows a sharp reversal from last week's trend, defaults numbering 654, compared with 549 last week, R. G. Dun & Co. reports. For the corresponding week last year 533 failures were reported. Of the present week's total, 399 involved liabilities of more than $5,000 each, compared with 342 such failures last week and 300 a year ago.

The New York Stock Exchange announced today that it had been notified of a proposed reduction in the capital stock of the Curtiss-Wright Corporation from $75,192,888 to $40,000,000. Net assets in excess of $40,000,000 are to be transferred from the capital to the capital surplus account. Neither the assets nor the number of shares of the class A and common stocks is to be reduced.

The United States Treasury on Tuesday will withdraw $5,607,300 from depository banks in the Second Federal Reserve district. The withdrawals throughout the country then will aggregate $14,694,400. Thereafter there will remain on deposit in the second district $181,303,700 and throughout the country $475,124,700. These withdrawals and balances are on account of the proceeds of the certificates of indebtedness dated March 16, 1931.

The Chase National Bank, as trustee, will start foreclosure proceedings soon against the property of the Ajax Rubber Co. at Racine, Wis., H. L. McClaren, Ajax president, has announced in a letter to stockholders. The Chase Bank has declared the $1,324,400 of the company's bonds still outstanding due and payable. Interest on this issue was defaulted on December 1, 1930. The McClaren Rubber Co., an Ajax subsidiary, is to be refinanced by Ajax bond and stock holders.

INVESTMENT IN DANGER OF BEING LOST, HE SAYS

Asks to Know Why Business Allegedly Was Transferred to Utilities Company.

Charging that Harry C. Fleming and others, including Raphael Semmes, of Chevy Chase, are engaged in "unlawful, illegal and improper effort to ruin the H. C. Fleming Motor Co." of Hyattsville, Leroy C. Clements and others yesterday filed a petition in Prince Georges County Circuit Court asking an injunction to prevent the present officers from carrying on the business.

The petition consists of sixteen pages. Clements states he is one of the minority stockholders of the H. C. Fleming Motor Co. His suit is directed against the H. C. Fleming Motor Co., the Fleming Motor & Utilities Co., Harry C. Fleming, president of both organizations; Ruth V. Fleming, his wife and a director; Raymond Czarra, a director; Robert A. Phillpson, a director, and Raphael Semmes, a stockholder.

Business Declared Transferred.

Clements charges that the defendants set up the Fleming Motor & Utilities Co. "to cause loss to the plaintiffs by fraud and collusion" and that the business of the Fleming Motor Co. was transferred to the Motor & Utilities Co. He claims that his investment is in danger of being lost.

There has been no directors meeting since 1929, when the defendants gained control of the Fleming Motor Co., he alleges. They set up the Motor & Utilities Co., to which the assets of the motor company were transferred, the motor and utilities company taking over the premises, the bill states.

Owns 49 Shares, He Claims.

Clements claims he is owner of 49 shares of the H. C. Fleming Motor Co., while the defendants own 51 shares. He says that when the company was formed in 1926, Fleming borrowed $5,100 from Robert E. Clements, now dead, to put into the company. For this reason, he says he believes Fleming actually has no money invested in the motor company. Clements claims he holds the note and that it has never been paid. He claims that if the money was used for the motor company, the note constitutes a lien on Flemings' 51 shares.

Semmes, the bill charges, is a creditor of the motor company, but is a party to "fraudulent transactions," and owns $9,500 worth of preferred stock of the utilities company. For this reason, it is claimed, he is actually a preferred creditor of the motor company. Czarra, it is claimed, gave $3,000 to the forming of the Motor & Utilities Co.

Injunction Is Asked.

Clements' bill asks that the court assume jurisdiction of the premises and issue an injunction forbidding the defendants from entering on them. He also asks that Fleming be summoned to tell what use was made of $5,100 allegedly borrowed from Robert E. Clements, and if it was used for stock in the motor ocmpany, that the note given for the loan be declared a lien on the stock.

In addition, he wants the officers of the motor company to tell why they repeatedly turned the business over to the utilities company and how much the utilities company paid. He also asks that the transfer to the utilities company be set aside, and the motor company be declared to own the business.

He seeks to have Semmes and Czarra tell how much they gave toward the formation of the utilities and how much stock they own. A date for the hearing on the request for an injunction has been set for April 8. M. Hampton Magruder and G. L. Munter represent Clements.

CHILD HEALTH DAY PLANS OUTLINED

New ideas and new projects for Washington's part in the coming May Day Child Health Day for the Nation, based on the findings of the recent White House conference, were discussed and tentatively adopted at the first meeting of the District May Day committee yesterday afternoon in the boardroom of the District Building. Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, chairman, presided.

"The keynote for the coming May Day celebration is to be 'communiyt child health and protection,'" said Dr. Murphy, "and the general purpose is to fulfill the aims of President Hoover's White House conference as expressed in the children's charter."

Dr. Murphy also explained that as in previous celebrations, the various persons and agencies interested directly and indirectly in child health are requested to take their appropriate part in the day's observance and in continuing its work throughout the year. As there is no public appropriation from which the committee may finance its work, it was urged that all agencies send in such contributions as they can, making checks payable to Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, treasurer.

Reports were made by the chairmen of various subcommittees present as follows: Miss Margaret Klein, of the Children's Bureau, on publicity and posters; Mrs. Milton Baum, show windows; Miss Elizabeth Dyer, moving pictures; R. J. Posson, of the Washington Dairy Council, on educational activities; Mrs. Thomas Elkins, of the Parent-Teacher Associations, on preschool examinations; the Rev. W. L. Darby, churches; Mrs. Louisa S. Roberts, indorsements; Miss A. Patricia Morse, for the Board of Public Welfare; Dr. Charles A. Tignor, for examinations of colored children; Miss Edith Aldridge, child welfare; Miss Inez Cadell, radio speakers; Dr. Rebecca Stoneroad, physical training director public schools, school activities; Miss Anita Turner, physical training director, activities of colored schools; Dr. George A. Smith, dental activities in white schools; Dr. Eugene Mazritte, dental activities in colored schools; Mrs. Maud N. Parker, playgrounds; Mrs. A. B. Hunter, of the Children's Hospital social service department, under-par children; Miss Ada Hill, hearing demonstration.

"Corral" of Ancient 3-Toed Horses Found

Torrington, Wyo., March 27 (A. P.).—One of the biggest corrals of the West is prehistoric—a place near here where lie the bones of thousands of three-toed horses.

This horse was the Mesohippus. Harvard University scientists, who uncovered the "corral," are trying to learn why so many of them gathered in one place. Mesohippus has been one of the rarer prehistoric horses.

INSURANCE OFFICIAL DIES AT RESIDENCE

Holcombe G. Johnson, 54, Was Long Outstanding in Church Affairs.

Holcombe G. Johnson, 54, a member of the firm of Johnson & Adams, insurance brokers here, died yesterday at his home, 3010 Ellicott street northwest, after a short illness.

Mr. Johnson had long been connected with insurance circles in Washington and was Southeastern manager of the Continental Casualty Co. and the Continental Assurance Co. as well as a director of the Commercial National Bank and the Washington Loan & Trust Co. He also was a director of the National Union Fire Insurance Co. He was also a member of the Columbia Country Club and the Rotary Club of Washington, of which he was at one time secretary, and was a Mason, being a member of the Lafayette Lodge.

He was senior member of the Board of Deacons of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, with which he had been affiliated for many years in an official capacity. He was born in Lambertville, N. J., and came to Washington in 1904. Before forming the firm of Johnson & Adam he had been associated with the United States Trust Co. here.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Lillian C. Johnson, and son, Richard Johnson. Funeral services will be conducted from the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock after brief services at hte home, both of which will be conducted by the Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the church.

Baker Celebrates His 91st Birthday

Brunswick, Ga., March 27 (A.P.).—Holding to his life-long policy of silence, George F. Baker, New York financier, a familiar figure in Wall street for nearly 70 years, moved up into John D. Rockefeller's class today by celebrating his ninety-first birthday.

Next July 8 will be Mr. Rockefeller's ninety-second birthday.

Mr. Baker spent the day aboard the yacht Viking, owned by his son, George F. Baker, jr., off the coast of Jekyll Island, near here.

Enjoying good health, his friends said, the financier boarded the yacht this morning, and at noon partook of a birthday dinner with 25 friends and members of the family.

Among those at the dinner were George F. Baker, jr., a daughter, Mrs. Howard St. George; several grandchildren and E. E. Loomis, persident of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. Mr. Baker will leave here for New York tomorrow.

Montagu Norman Lands in New York

Bank of England Governor Reticent as to Purpose of His Visit.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Silence concerning all question financial surrounded Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, as he arrived today for a visit.

Interest in the Nation's money marts was heightened by a statement in the London Daily Mail that Mr. Norman is seeking American cooperation for the establishment of an international bank to finance trade with new markets, principally Soviet Russia, but Mr. Norman was uncommunicative.

"You struck an off day," he told reporters. "Hope you have better luck next time."

A denial that Mr. Norman had come to America to discuss the international bank was made by Dr. O. N. W. Sprague, of Harvard, who recently became statistical adviser to the Bank of England.

Features in Tomorrow's Post

Around the problem of birth control a sharp ecclesiastical controversy is being waged. Many of the leading clergymen of Washington, representing a wide range of faiths, will present their views on the subject in a symposium arranged by David Rankin Barbee appearing in tomorrow's Post. The article is one of the most intensely interesting to appear in recent months.

The Tabloid Magazine is brimming with a variety of entertaining articles. Science has ransacked the globe for new fruits and vegetables, now by means of refrigeration available in markets far out of season. "The Genesis of Our Daily Menu" tells of this metamorphosis.

"The Woman Political Leader Arrives." This gripping article in the magazine visualizes two women busy as political manipulators in a big way for the first time in the 1932 presidential campaign.

A new glimpse of unfolding Alaska is presented in "The Woods Gods Call and the Hunter Heeds," an article in Sunday's Post describing the land of giant forest dwellers.

Edith Johnson's advice to the lovelorn and to those with intimate problems, and two splendid fiction stories, "The Ice Cream Sailor" and "The Playboy," also offer unusual treats for the reader of tomorrow's Post.

A CORRECTION

In the issue of The Washington Post of January 21, 1931, an article appeared wherein it was reported that Raymond Goodman had been arrested and held under a $2,000 bond for setting up a gaming table. The Post is glad to correct this article, which was erroneous. Investigation reveals that Mr. Goodman was not arrested for setting up a gaming table, nor was he held under a $2,000 bond for any such offense.

City Saves Firemen's Wages on Technicality

Because L. C. Kengla, a private in the Fire Department, failed to give 30 days' notice of his intention to resign and was consequently absent one day without permission, he was ordered dismissed yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of the Trial Board.

Kengla had left the city and was not present at the hearing. Among other charges placed against him were that he disobeyed an order and failed to report for duty at the required time. The penalty is forfeiture of all the salary due him when he quit.

Hodges Is Bonded; Hearing Set Today

Pacific Financial Manager Acts After Indictment Over Car Seizure.

The case arose originally, Hodges told the court, when an agent of his company repossessed an automobile from Presgraves because of a default in the time payments on the machine. He said the machine had been taken with the consent of the Virginia police. The claim was made that the entire matter was one for the civil courts and that he was not, therefore, subject to criminal proceedings. Attorney T. L. Jeffords represented Hodges.

CONTRACTORS LAUD WAGNER MEASURE

Construction Industry Used as Balance Wheel, Men Point Out.

Enactment at the last session of Congress of the Wagner bill for the advance planning and regulation of public construction has placed in the hands of President Hoover a sure means of maintaining general business stability in the future, officials of the Associated General Contractors of American declared here yesterday at the opening session of its new executive cabinet.

With a six-year advance plan of public construction laid down in detail, as required by the new law, several billion dollars worth of business will always be in reserve to be thrown into the breach as needed when business begins to lag, the contractors pointed out.

"The theory of using the construction industry as a business balance wheels—of accelerating this work in time of depression—has been generally accepted for more than a decade," A. P. Greensfelder, of St. Louis, president of the association, explained, "but the available means of acceleration heretofore have been too slow to be entirely effective."

Members of Mr. Greensfelder's cabinet also pointed out that following the example of the Federal Government, the establishment of similar advance planning procedure is expected to be provided for in eighteen States by the present legislative sessions. They also believe that advance planning of private construction will be given greater consideration than in the past.

Members attending the meeting, which will be continued today, include in addition to President Greensfelder: A. E. Horst, of Philadelphia; Col. George B. Walbridge, of Detroit; Alan Jay Parrish, of Paris, Ill.; David J. White, of Boston; Richard Hopkins, of Albany, N. Y.; Thomas J. Baker, of Milwaukee; Burt L. Knowles, of Worcester, Mass., all nationally known general contractors, and Edward J. Harding, of Washington, managing director of the association.

City Center Boring Contract Let.

The Pennsylvania Drilling Co., Inc., of Pittsburgh, yesterday was awarded a contract by the District Commissioners on its bid of $2,060 to make borings in the Municipal Center area, preparatory to laying the foundations for the new buildings.

RHEEM CUSTOMERS WILL REGAIN NOTES PLACED WITH FIRM

Issues Will Be Returned if Trust Deeds Have Not Been Released.

COURT TELLS TRUSTEES TO PREPARE ORDER SOON

Customers of the defunct firm of Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey, who left notes in the company's vaults for safekeeping, will regain possession of the property where deeds of trust securing them have not been released, Justice Adkins ruled yesterday in District Supreme Court.

Justice Adkins directed trustees to prepare an order covering return of the notes. He said he would sign the order Wednesday when hearing is resumed on the trustees' petition that all securities held for safekeeping be returned on proof of ownership.

Other Disposal Undetermined.

Disposition of notes secured by deeds of trust already released was left undetermined at yesterday's hearing. Alternative briefs by W. Gwynn Gardiner, representing the Westchester Apartments, holding released notes should be restored to apartment owners, and Leon Tobriner, representing the bankrupt, who claims the court has no jurisdiction, will be filed with Justice Adkins Monday.

More than a score of attorneys, representing every class of creditor, appeared, presenting almost as many proposals for disposition of the property. Only one, however, Charles T. Clayton, who said he represented twenty claimants, objected to the return of the unreleased notes. He said the transaction would incur tremendous expense and cause the trustees a great deal unnecessary labor.

Asked Return of Both.

At the outset of the hearing, Judge Michael M. Doyle, who spoke for the trustees, asked the court to permit return of both released and unreleased notes in the same operation, so as to avoid duplication of effort.

Misuse of released notes, he said, could be prevented by the statement stamped on the securities by the trustees: "The deed of trust on this note appears to have been released, according to the District land records."

He said the receivers would surrender no notes to which the estate itself laid claim.

Objection to the indorsement proposed by Judge Doyle was made by Hugh H. O'Bear, who said it should also show whether the maker had been paid, and by William C. Sullivan, representing the Broadmoor, who claimed it was inadequate.

An effort to have the proceedings again postponed was made by the law firm of McKenney, Flannery & Craighill, who said they represented the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. J. S. Flannery told the court that, due to conflicting claims, and a challenge of its jurisdiction in the case, any judgment it might make at this time would be "premature."

Appeal for Early Return.

An appeal for an early return of all notes held in safe-keeping, so that holders need not be kept longer in doubt as to whether their notes are actually in the vaults, was made by Conrad H. Syme. Other references were made to the "uncertainty" prevailing among creditors as to presence of their securities in the vaults.

A statement was made by Mr. Tobriner, who said he would oppose issuance of an "omnibus order" covering all classes of notes. He said each petition for return of notes should be referred to the referee in bankruptcy or a special master, and a separate record kept.

Judge Doyle told the court that trustees considered proper proof of ownership alone was necessary for the return of notes, and that this would save customers the necessity of petitioning through counsel.

THE CENSORING OF RED RIDING HOOD.

* * * *

Picture Man—I think they're going to give it some name like "Hell's Gateway," but it is really the story of Little Red Riding Hood. It begins with Little Red Riding Hood on her way through the woods to her grandmother's cottage when she is stopped by a wolf.

Censor (disappointedly) — Oh, another animal picture!

Picture Man—No, there's just one wolf in it. You remember the story—the wolf stops Red Riding Hood and asks her where she is going and the girl says she is going to see her grandmother, who is sick. The wolf tempts her into picking flowers and while she is thus absorbed he runs to the cottage, knocks on the door and when grandma asks, "Who is it?" he says it is Red Riding Hood.

Censor—Frightfully silly, but go on.

Censor—This is going to be very offensive to grandmothers. Have you thought how many grandmothers there are in the British Empire.

Picture Man—It's the big scene. We had six directors on it, including Lubitsch. We've tried to picture the mental reactions of a grandmother under such circumstances. Can you imagine your grandmother about to be eaten by a wolf?

Censor—Certainly not!

* * * *

PICTURE MAN—Well, this picture does it. As the wolf leaps into bed they struggle. The furniture is wrecked but grandma, this being her first fight with a wolf, loses and is devoured. But it's done very delicately by a series of flash-backs. You get a quick flash of the wolf and grandma * * * then a flash showing only about half of grandma, possibly three-quarters * * * then a flash showing just a suggestion of grandma * * * It's all beautifully done. * * *

Censor—Quite subtle, I should say.

Picture Man—Then the wolf puts on grandma's nightcap and gets into bed just as Red Riding Hood knocks on the door. The wolf calls for her to enter. Little Red Riding Hood goes to the edge of the bed and when she says, "What big teeth you have, grandma!" the wolf says, "The better to eat you with," and jumps out of bed to devour her. You see, the wolf is very hungry. He hasn't had anything to eat in days.

Censor—In years, I should infer.

Picture Man—Well, Red Riding Hood screams and is overheard by a hunter, played by the American actor, John Gilbert. He rushes in as they struggle and saves her. Red Riding Hood and Gilbert get married any everything ends happily.

Censor—Especially for grandma!

* * * *

Picture Man—Well, is it okay?

Censor—Certainly not. We've got to consider the effect on little children. You'll have to cut out the wolf and substitute Mary's little lamb!

Thy boresome railroad hops—

Mr. and Mrs. William Fowler, of Kensington, Md., who were the recipients yesterday of felicitations on the sixty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. They have seven children, 21 grandchildren and 7 great-grandchildren.

Kensington Couple Receive Congratulations From Host of Friends.

For nearly two-thirds of a century Mr. and Mrs. William Fowler, of Dresden street, Kensington, Md., have walked hand in hand through life's pathway, and yesterday they received felicitations of relatives and neighbors on the occasion of the sixty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

Representatives of three generations, including 7 children, 21 grandchildren, and 5 great-grandchildden, mingled with scores of friends who called to pay their respects. A huge basket of flowers adorned the living room, where guests were received.

When Mrs. Fowler was asked to name her children, she replied:

"Now, let's see. There's William N., who lives in Jamaica, Long Island, who is 62. Why, he's just a boy! Then comes another youngster, Fred C., of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is 60, and Charles R., also of Brooklyn; Frank R., of Stamford, Conn.; Thomas B. Fowler, of Nutley, N. J., and Mrs. Reginald A. Wright, of Cleveland, Ohio."

Another daughter, Mrs. E. W. Brown, of Kensington, died a year ago.

Mr. Fowler said that he became engaged on July 4, 1865, in Milford, Conn., where he was born. Mrs. Fowler, a native of England, said she came to the United States at the age of 12. They were married on March 27, 1866, and went to Brooklyn to live. Mr. Fowler subsequently became president of the American Photoengraving Co. and said he was the first one to provide the engraving trade with the half-tone as used today. He is also interested in several other concerns, including the Fowler Bottling Machine Co., of New York.

Mr. Fowler is 88 and Mrs. Fowler 86. They were visibly touched by the observance of the anniversary by their friends, who wished them continued happiness.

UNION TAXI DRIVERS SAY STRIKE GROWS

Officials of Drivers and Chauffeurs Union No. 169 yesterday raised their estimate of the number of drivers who "walked out" on the Diamond Cab Co. to 120, predicting the figure will go much higher before the week is out.

Edward Rayford, business agent for the local, said seventeen "owners," who are members of various building trades unions, but operate a cab in "dull times," have deserted the "open shop" Independent Taxi Owners Association for the "closed shop" Protex U Cab Co. and the Independent Cab Operators.

The strikers expect to recruit 50 additional individuals from this class of drivers, he said. He added that a large number of Diamond Co. cabs owned by union men are in paint shops having their color scheme changed to the blue body, red stripe and silver top of the Protex U Co.

Officials of the Independent Taxi Owners Association had little to say about the "strike" other than that no cabs idle. Alfred D. Smith, counsel for the company, after conference with Harry C. Davis, president, said they believed only "between five and ten" drivers actually left their employ.

RKO-KEITH'S

"LONELY WIVES," Pathe's picturization of the play by Walter De Leon, featuring Edward Everett Horton, Esther Ralston, Laura La Plante and Patsy Ruth Miller. Directed by Russell Mack. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Bob Considine.

Some of the zingo which may have cloaked the lines of this venerable vehicle along about the time all the boys were saying "Go way back and sit down," has suffered at the ruthless hands of a new age of more intimate and straightforward speech.

It tells the tale of a gruff and ready lawyer named Richard Smith, who was gruff all day, but once his work was finished was ready to entertain anything topped by a finger wave. The magical transfiguration from a business man to a roue took place promptly at 8 o'clock each night. An omnipresent mother-in-law at his heels so often hampered his style that he hired a noted impersonator to stay at home in his stead, while he deserted the domestic fireside for the sowing of an oat or two.

Complications of an Avery Hopwood tang crop up when the wife of the lawyer returns from the mountains. To alll appearances, the impersonator and the beauteous blande spent the night in each other's company, while the culprit himself is pinching a brace of cheeks in a cabaret. Things begin to stir in the morning as the lawyer returns home to confront his impersonator. His wife idly speaks of their actions the night before, the lawyer brandishes a gun and a merry chase sends all the cast around the house in a stampede that would have done credit to the memorable Keystone Kops.

Edward Everett Horten does what he can with his two parts. He has an enormous number of lines, which he gets across with ringing vigor and sly insinuation which is his, and his alone.

Of the others, Patsy Ruth Miller looks and plays better than ever as the stenographer. Spencer Chatau, as the butler who believed he was suffering from pernicious alcoholism, is another who turns in a creditable performance. Esther Ralston as the wife is sufficient, but Laura La Plante, as the wife of the impersonator, again fails to ring the bell. Maud Eburne, as the mother-in-law, is appropriately and terrifically annoying.

The only short subject worthy of note is the second scoop Johnny Farrell has scored over the stars of the golf and tennis world who are now making short educational films. Farrell's newest is called "Fore!" and is a golf lession sugar-coated with dialogue.

DATE OF CRUCIFIXION FIXED, CLERIC SAYS

Theologian Says Date Falls on April 7 of Year 30 A. D.

Berlin, March 27 (A.P.).—Double as to the exact date of the crucifixion of Christ may have been set at rest by Prof. Oswald Gerhardt, prominent Berlin theologian.

By collecting voluminous biblical, historical and astronomical data he has fixed April 7 of the year 30 A. D. as the day on which the Saviour was executed.

Prof. Gerhardt explains in a scientific journal that fixing this date was by no means a simple affair. As a matter of fact, arguments could be advanced that the crucifixion year might be 29, 30, 31, 32 or 33.

Jesus made his first appearance in public, Prof. Gerhardt explains, after the advent of St. John the Baptist, which was, according to the Gospel of St. Luke, in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar. The Emperior Augustus having died A. D. 14, the fifteenth year might have been either A. D. 28 or 29.

But Tiberius had gubernatorial rank and privileges equal to the emperor while Augustus was still alive, and Roman provincial coins exist on which A. D. 12 is designated as the first year of Tiberius. That would make the baptism of Jesus by John occur in 26 or 27.

This tallies with the Gospel of St. John, which says, ii-20, that Jesus first came to Jerusalem at the time when "forty and six years was the temple in building:" that is, in the spring of 27.

The gospels agree in fixing Christ's public activities as extending over three years and nine months. Jesus died on Friday in Passover, a feast beginning on the 14th Nisan. It was the next day that the crucifixion took place. What date, then, corresponds to Friday, the 15th Nisan?

The first day of the Jewish month was the one on which the young moon's crescent first became visible. Therefore the question resolved itself into this: In which of the years 29 to 33 did, after a new moon, the first Nisan fall on such a day that the 15th should be Friday?

To answer this astronomical problem Prof. Gerhardt studied tables by half a dozen scientists who had calculated the moon's periods and ascensions at Jerusalem. The result pointed to the April 7 of 1900 years ago as the real date of the crucifixion.

Opera Star Scolds Business Manager

Lily Pons Declares That She Wishes to Sever Their Relations.

New York, March 27 (A.P.).—Magic-voiced Lily Pons paused today in her task of charming Metropolitan Opera Company audiences to give her manager a dressing down.

"My gratitude to Maria Gay," she said in an answer filed today by her attorney, "does not in any way alter my conviction that she has been untrustworthy and an unfaithful agent, and that I wish to have no more to do with her."

Maria Gay (called Maria Gay Zenatello in private life) and her husband, Giovanni Zenatello, sued the coloratura soprano yesterday to prevent her breaking a contract with them calling for 15 per cent of her earnings.

RUSSELL AND GIRL PLEAD NOT GUILTY

David Leroy Russell and Hazel M. Chinn, bith of whom are indicted on charges of first degree murder and criminal operation, entered pleas of not guilty when they were arraigned before Justice Peyton Gordon in Criminal Court.

Because of lack of cases to be tried, Justice Gordon ordered the usual procedure for bringing recently indicted people before him. Saturday morning has usually been the time for such arraignments, but all of the people indicted Tuesday were brought up yesterday, a day early.

Both Miss Chinn and Russell remained immobile while the clerk of the court intoned the charges of the indictment which, if proven, may result i ntheir being sent to the electric chair. Miss Chinn was nattily attired, but Russell presented a picture of having been up all night.

The arraignment was purely a formality. It was all over in a minute and the court bailiffs quickly hurried them back to the detention cell in the basement. The prison van arrived shortly afterward and they were sent back to jail to await trial. The charge of murder is nonbailable.

Suit Filed to Halt Big Loan in Spain

Legality of $60,00,000 Transaction Questioned in Madrid.

Madrid, March 27 (A.P.).—A suit, attacking the legality of the $60,000,000 loan made to the Spanish government by J. P. Morgan & Co. and American and French bankers, was filed in the civil courts today by Prof. Sanchez Roman, of the civil law department of the Central University of Madrid.

Prof. Roman bases his charge that the loan is illegal on the ground that it was not approved by a Spanish Parliament and that neither the king, the cabinet nor anybody else except Parliament can approve such a loan legally.

The "Constitutionalista" political party met today and issued a manifesto declaring the loan void unless Parliament approves it. The manifesto was signed by several leaders of the party, including Santiago Ilbs.

Finance Minister Ventosa told foreign newspaper correspondents the credit granted the Bank of Spain was not a loan, and that the government itself would utilize only a small part of it. Because it is not a loan, he said, parliamentary approval is not necessary.
